Great Land Sale Ready In Months -Chabot

The Great British Columbia Land Sale should be ready to go in three or four months, Lands Minister Jim Chabot said today.

Large tracts of Crown land will be broken into smaller parcels and put on the open market at either market value or 10 per cent below, the minister said.

In large population areas where available Crown land is scarce, the parcels will likely be subject to bonus bidding, thrusting the cost even higher.

Chabot, however, agreed a lottery system of disbursement would keep the prices down.

"But either way there will be unhappy people," he said.

He agreed the freeing of Crown land will have a greater effect in rural areas.

Chabot was elaborating on a promise Premier Bill Bennett has made several times in recent months — on a trip north aboard the B.C. Rail, during the cabinet shuffle when Chabot was given responsibility for land, and on the weekend at a mini Socred convention in Vancouver.

Chabot said his ministry is conducting a survey to determine the kind of land people want.

He said he believes most people would like to have five acres just out of town, and the survey will tell him if his gut feeling is correct.

That report, which should be finished in three weeks, will determine the size of the land allotments.

There will be many other hurdles to mount, including the necessary legislative changes, but if everything goes smoothly the plan could be in place in three or four months, Chabot said.

Cost of purchasing the Crown land will have to be close to market value because the government has no intention of causing havoc with land values, he said.

The government has a responsibility to protect those who have already purchased their land.

But the move should stabilize land prices, or even decrease them a little, for years throughout the province, he said.

And it will make more readily available the type of land people want to buy. Those with private land for sale prefer to sell it in city-size lots because that's where they get the greatest return, Chabot said.

"We see the opportunity to fill the need for those wanting small acreage," he said.

In some areas larger tracts for farming will be freed and by this summer, 14 recreational subdivisions containing hundreds of lots should be available for leasing, he said.

Crown land has always been available through long-term leases, but applications often took years to get processed.

Bennett has promised that under the new proposal people will be able to obtain

BLIZZARD CLAIMS 29 LIVES

Waist-Deep Snowfall. . . Chicago Braced for More

Times News Services

CHICAGO — This second-largest U.S. city was digging out from its second-worst blizzard in history today with a special army of 2,500 workers. But the forecast was for possibly more snow by mid-week.

Helicopters were used today to take sick and injured to Chicago-area hospitals because ambulances could not get through the 75 centimetres of snow, 52 centimetres of it from the weekend storm that hit the Midwest and left at least 29 persons dead — seven in Chicago alone.

O'Hare International Airport, the world's busiest, was closed to all flights due to snow-covered runways. Officials said they hope to reopen the facility early today.

Seven of 11 emergency centres set up in the city to distribute food reported their supplies were exhausted by Sunday, and requests for emergency fuel supplies depleted the reserves at two city storage facilities, officials said.

Elsewhere in the Midwest, the snow combined with subfreezing temperatures to cause traffic accidents, break weather records, strand travellers and leave thousands without electricity.

The temperature plummeted throughout the Midwest, hitting 30 degrees below zero Celsius in a number of centres.

Shipping on the Great Lakes was coming to an earlier-than-usual halt for the winter, as ice became too thick for icebreakers to keep channels open.

Northern Illinois, Kansas and eastern Iowa were under states of emergency.

There were 11 weather-related deaths in Illinois, two in Iowa, five in Kansas and two in Missouri, where the National Guard was called out during the weekend to rescue motorists. Kansas deactivated its guard today.

Michigan, Wisconsin and Indiana all struggled with more than 30 centimetres of snow following the weekend storm. There were eight deaths in Wisconsin and one in Indiana.

The forecast for the snow-buried areas was grim. The National Weather Service said another major storm may be in store for the Midwest by mid-week. Chicago faced a 40-per-cent chance of more snow by tonight.

Most deaths were attributed to exposure. Travellers died attempting to walk from stranded automobiles to safety, and some pedestrians who slipped and fell were unable to get up due to their injuries. Others died in traffic accidents or of heart attacks.

The National Weather Service said a 55-centimetre snowstorm in 1967 was Chicago's worst, but that there had never before been more than 70 centimetres of snow on the ground.

Meanwhile, in Saskatchewan, a snow-clogged switch sent 20 cars of a CP Rail freight train off the tracks early today, 80 kilometres east of Regina. RCMP said no one was injured.

In Eastern Canada, freezing rain and high winds played havoc with Air Canada schedules Sunday night, causing the cancellation of domestic flights in and out of Montreal.

PRODUCE SUPPLY PROBED

VANCOUVER (CP) — The RCMP's commercial crime section is investigating allegations of kickbacks paid by wholesalers who supply goods to Woodward's stores, a police spokesman said today.

S.-Sgt. R. P. Roseberry said an investigation was started in mid-1978 into the paying of secret commissions following a complaint by Woodward's.

He said members of the commercial crime section conducted 25 searches of homes and businesses in the Vancouver area Jan. 10.

The allegations primarily involved produce suppliers, Roseberry said.

No charges have been laid.

Mideast Caution Advised

JERUSALEM (CP) — Canada should withhold any decision to move its embassy in Israeli to Jerusalem from Tel Aviv until after Israeli-Egyptian peace talks have run their course, Opposition Leader Joe Clark said today.

Following a 45-minute meeting with Prime Minister Menachem Begin, Clark said it would be inopportune to move the Canadian embassy because the decision might alter the process leading to peace.

Israel has been lobbying foreign governments to establish their embassies here in order to press its claim on Jerusalem as Israel's capital city.

Clark said such a move by Canada or the United States might be interpreted by Arab states as a pro-Israeli position that might undermine the peace process that started last year at Camp David.

Clark is in Israel as part of a four-nation tour that ends Thursday after a visit to Jordan

A meeting later in the day with opposition leader Shimon Peres ended abruptly when Peres dashed off to make a speech in the Knesset leaving Clark momentarily startled and flustered.

Clark, who arrived for the session after a heavy day of meetings and sightseeing, was asking Peres questions about various aspects of the Middle East dilemma when his secretary popped into the room with a message.

"Excuse me," Peres blurted out as he rose from his seat, grabbing a sheaf of notes.

"I must go make a speech."

Earlier, Clark and his wife Maureen McTeer visited a Jewish memorial to the Holocaust — the Second World War years when one-third of world's 18 million Jews were exterminated by Hitler's Nazis.

2 DIE, 3 HURT IN FIERY CRASH

Two youths were killed and three companions seriously hurt Saturday night in a fiery car crash on Claremont Avenue near the Patricia Bay Highway.

Saanich police said the car in which they were riding topped a hill at high speed, left the road, and struck a tree. It burst into flames before they could get out.

The driver, Spencer Glen Larson, 18, of 2370 Weiler, Sidney, and Dale Robert Storey, 15, of 911 Cloverdale, died in the crash, police said.

A neighbor, Charles Ball, and Lyle Barr of Saanich assisted police in pulling passengers from the wreckage, aided by mechanical jaws.

Jack Donald Schwartzenberger, 18, of 769 Birch, Sidney; Leith Cresswell Hulbert, 18, of 911 Cloverdale, and Lawrence Edward Huisman, 15, of 564 Obed, were in serious condition in hospital with burns and other injuries.

Constable Murray Kilshaw of Saanich police suffered burns in rescuing the survivors and was kept in hospital overnight.

Shah Seeing Sadat En Route to U.S.

TEHRAN (CP) — Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi, his 37-year rule rocked by months of mass protest and bloodshed, will leave Iran this week for Aswan, Egypt, on his way to the United States, it was reported today.

Some sources said the shah will leave Tuesday, others said he will depart Wednesday.

The monarch has scheduled a news conference for Tuesday when he is expected to announce his plans.

The Iranian senate today gave its endorsement to the new civilian government of Prime Minister Shahpour Bakhtiar. It had been expected that after the lower house of parliament gives its approval — the vote is scheduled Tuesday — the way will be cleared for Bakhtiar to take over full control of the country.

Meanwhile, new political violence flared across the country and it was reported that 20 persons were killed Sunday and today, including a former U.S. Air Force colonel in the southeastern city of Kerman.

U.S. embassy officials identified the American as Martin Berkowitz, 53, of San Francisco.

The newspaper Khayan reported Berkowitz, head of a copper-mining concern, was apparently stabbed Sunday night in his home and that the words "Go Back To Your Country" were found scrawled on the wall of the house.

Sources here confirmed an earlier report by Egyptian officials that the beleaguered 59-year-old shah will meet with Egyptian President Anwar Sadat in the southern Egyptian town.

The shah, accompanied by Empress Farah, intends to stay at his estate near Los Angeles, the sources said.

The royal couple is expected to spend only a day in Egypt and may make some stops in Western Europe en route to the U.S., the sources added.

The shah's journey this week, ending in the U.S., has been described as an extended vacation, but many political observers here believe the popular opposition to the monarch will make it impossible for him to return.

Electricity Might: And A Widow's Mite. . .

NUORO, Sardinia (UPI) — The full majesty and power of the Italian state electricity board is being marshalled against a little old Sardinian woman because it claims she owes them one lire.

It takes 8.4 lire to make one cent nowadays, but the board has solemnly made out a bill for two kilowatt hours, less a tiny reimbursement due, to Giuseppa Delogu, an elderly, ailing pensioner in the care of Nuoro social workers who administer her small pension.

"The law requires we collect all sums due, however small," a board spokesman in Nuoro said. "To clear this matter from our books will cost us several hundred lire."

The problem is that the smallest coin in Italy is five lire and it is physically impossible to hand over the cash.

"I somehow do not feel we will be attaching anyone's furniture if we don't get paid," the board spokesman said.

A social security office spokesman snapped his retort: "We will pay the bill with a five lire coin — but we will be wanting our four lire change."

Steptoe & Son As Test-Tube Delivers Again

LONDON (AP) — The Daily Mail says Britain's second test-tube baby has been born in Glasgow to a 32-year-old cooking teacher.

The newspaper says in a copyrighted story that the baby, a five-pound 12-ounce boy named Alastair James Lauchan Montgomery, was born Sunday to Grace Montgomery.

It says that Dr. Patrick Steptoe fertilized one of the woman's ova in the laboratory with her husband's sperm and then implanted the egg in her womb to mature normally.

Dr. Steptoe, one of Britain's leading gynecologists, and physiologist Robert Edwards developed the technique and first used it successfully on Lesley Brown, who gave birth last July 25 in Oldham, England, to a girl. It was the first authenticated birth of a baby conceived outside the mother's body.

The Mail says Mrs. Montgomery, like Mrs. Brown, was unable to conceive normally because her fallopian tubes were blocked.

Doctors in Calcutta, India, reported that another test-tube baby, a girl, was born last Oct. 3 to the wife of an Indian businessman, but a state committee said the doctors submitted an "unconvincing and disappointing" report on their technique.

U.S. Wants FLQ Man

MONTREAL (UPC) — United States authorities say they will attempt to extradite Pierre Charette — the suspected Front de Liberation du Quebec terrorist who returned to Canada Sunday — to stand trial for a 1969 plane hijacking.

Charrette, 36, stepped off a plane from Havana Sunday at Montreal's Mirabel Airport, and was immediately arrested on a Fire Commissioner's warrant signed by Cyril Delage.

Police said the warrant alleged Charrette had knowledge of "several" bombing incidents in 1968 and 1969.

In Washington, a Federal Bureau of Investigation spokesman said Charrette and an alleged confederate, Alain Allard, are wanted for diverting a Miami-bound National Airlines 727 from New York's LaGuardia Airport to Cuba on May 5, 1969.

The Montreal weekly Dimanche-Matin reported Marc Carbonneau and Yves Langlois would return to Canada to face conspiracy, kidnapping, sequestration and extortion, all related to the abduction of British diplomat James Cross.

The report said the two notified friends they would return to Canada in the footsteps of Jacques Lanctot and Louise and Jacques Cossette-Trudel, who were all freed on $50,000 bail each pending preliminary hearings.

"We have absolutely no comments," Montreal Urban Community Police Const. Real Cantin said Sunday.

Great B.C. Land Sale Soon

land quickly, without red tape hassles.

He also told the Vancouver meeting the homeowner's grant of $280 ($480 for senior citizens) is not enough.

A government has to guarantee it doesn't tax people out of their homes and force them to become tenants again.

Opposition leader Dave Barrett said later in an interview if the premier is talking about housing when he says young people should have a chance to purchase their piece of B.C., he should place more emphasis on jobs.

"What is necessary is to clean up the mess created by Social Credit in terms of high unemployment, lack of investment and no economic direction," he said.

"If anything has been denied the young people of this province, they have been denied their resource heritage . . . they've been denied the opportunity to work."

Barrett also criticized Bennett's plan to give British Columbians five free shares in the B.C. Resources Investment Corporation.

"It's a desperate move by a desperate government," he said.

In giving away the shares Bennett is relying on the assets he criticized the NDP for acquiring while Social Credit was the opposition party, he said.

"Wasn't it Mr. Bennett who said 'there is no free lunch?' Those assets have all been paid for. What the premier is attempting to do is to get people to buy something they've already paid for."

In White Rock, the president of the Independent Business People of B.C. criticized Bennett for his intervention in the attempt by Canadian Pacific Investments Ltd. to gain control of MacMillan Bloedel, B.C.'s biggest forest products firm.

Len Freisen said that apparently it is all right to sell B.C. to U.S. interests but not to Eastern Canadian interests.

Freisen, who claims a membership of about 500 in his organization, said business people in B.C. are totally confused by Bennett's latest about face.

He said the Social Credit government has sold provincially-owned Panco Poultry and Pacific Coach lines to U.S. interests — but now opposes the sale of MacMillan Bloedel to CPI "on the grounds that the would-be purchaser is an eastern Canadian company."

If Canadian business is faced with the possibility of provincial intervention every time it contemplates investment in B.C., it is no wonder the rate of investment has decreased by 50 per cent since Bennett took office, Friesen said.

Edward Fleming, president of the Free Country Independence Party of B.C., presented a brief to Bennett at the Vancouver meeting also criticizing the government for its stand on MacMillan Bloedel.

Fleming said the government's interference will discourage more local and foreign investment in B.C.

He said the government's interference is a political vote-buying scheme.

2 Coeds Strangled In Wash.

BELLINGHAM, Wash. (AP) — Two Western Washington coeds whose bodies were found Friday in a locked car in an isolated cul de sac apparently were strangled, according to the Whatcom County coroner.

Dr. Robert Rood said today that a pathologist's report indicates there were no other marks or signs of other violence which would have resulted in the two young women's deaths.

Bellingham police were questioning a Bellingham man today, "but we are not in the process of preparing any charges" against the mans in his 20s, said Captain Telmor Kveven.

He identified the victims as Karen L. Mandic, 22, of Bellevue, Wash., and Diane A. Wilder, 27, of Bremerton, Wash.

BITTER U.K. COMMONS FIGHT

LONDON (CP) — The Labor party government headed into a bitter parliamentary fight today to win a vote of confidence during a truck drivers' strike that has shut down major industries and threatened to paralyse the British economy.

Hundreds of thousands of workers in the chemical, textile, auto, tire and other industries already are laid off for lack of supplies and raw materials.

The news media forecast layoffs ranged up to four million.

Prime Minister James Callaghan, trying to avoid calling a state of emergency, said he expects to survive Tuesday's vote of confidence. His party has 307 of the 628 seats in the House of Commons but stays in power with the support of other minority parties.

The strike, declared official last Thursday, was reported csting Britain $2 million a day in export earnings. Wildcat strikes started early this month.

With minor exceptions food supplies are adequate, although fear of shortages brought some panic buying last week.

Fewer than one-fourth of Britain's 400,000 truck drivers have joined the strike, whick seeks a 22-per-cent pay increase to about £59 ($150)d a week plus shorter hours and improved benefits.

The Confederation of British Industry (CBI) says unions were made virtually untouchable in 1976 by a law which removed companies' right to sue individual pickets for damages for loss of business.

REFUGEE FLOOD BEGINS

ARANYAPRATHET, Thailand — International relief agencies were preparing to cope with an influx of refugees and wounded as the Vietnamese-led sweep of Cambodia came within 16 kilometres of the Thai border Sunday.

A Thai border official, who spoke to Chinese-backed forces of Premier Pol Pot's regime immediately across the frontier, said he was told of heavy fighting in the nearby village of Nimit.

The Cambodian mission in Peking said Sunday that Pol Pot is alive and leading the fight from inside Cambodia.

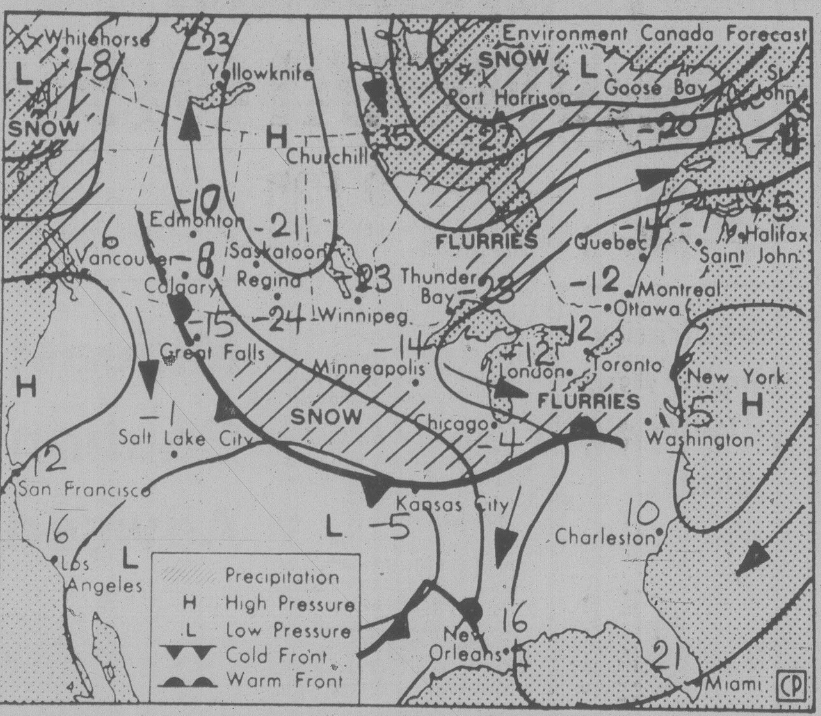

Map valid until noon Tuesday

Early this morning it was cold across the province, reaching minus 40 at Prince George. Thermometers at most coastal cities read near or below the freezing point. Although some sunshine is in store for much of the province today, increasing clouds on the north coast herald the arrival of a Pacific disturbance. Clouds will thicken over the north coast today with rain and snow reaching the coast this evening. The system will weaken as it moves inland tonight, however another disturbance will follow close on its heels bearing more precipitation. The systems will bring a slight moderation in temperatures to all sections of the province over the next few days.

YOU DON'T HAVE TO PUSH WHEN YOU'VE GOT PULL.

If you, as a driver, were asked to describe a Canadian winter, chances are your answer would be unprintable. Canadian winters can be bitterly cold, treacherously icy and all too often there's snow up to you-know-where.

While most Canadian drivers face this one common problem, not all cars sold in Canada have the one common feature that can help alleviate that problem. That is, front wheel drive. All Hondas have front wheel drive. The Chevette, Acadian, Datsun 210, Toyota, Mazda, Volvo and most of the other cars sold in Canada, don't.

Basically, the difference is push versus pull. With the traditional front engine, rear wheel drive system the rear wheels try and push the car through the snow. Unfortunately, all that's over those wheels is an empty trunk, so they tend to ride up on the snow while the front wheels sink because there's a heavy engine over them. With Honda's front wheel drive system, just the opposite is true.

The engine is mounted over the drive wheels, so the weight helps the wheels to bite into the snow and pull the car through it. And because the wheels that are pulling the car are the wheels that are steering the car, you get better steering control. But a car does not make it through Canadian winter after winter by front wheel drive alone. To do that, and live to a ripe old age, it must be able to withstand rust. Every 1979 Honda is guaranteed for three years against rust perforation due to corrosion caused by manner or materials used in building it.

Ask a Honda dealer for complete details. Hondas also come with a manual choke for easier starting in cold weather. A reduction-type starter. A three-speed heater. And an electric rear window defroster. All standard. Canadian winters and front wheel drive are just two of the reasons why Honda Civic is the best selling small car* in Canada.

There are plenty more. You can see for yourself by coming in to a Honda dealer for a test drive and talk with one of our sales people. You'll find that our sales people aren't pushy. But then, they don't have to be, because their car has got pull.

Honda. You don't get to be No.1 by being second best.

Clark's Tour: Have So Many Ever Gone So Far for Less?

By ALLAN FOTHERINGHAM
Special to The Times

ATHENS — Since we are in the cradle of democracy, it is time to ask a question.

Let the imagination roll, how do you think a young man the polls say will be the next prime minister of Canada should act on a round-the-world jaunt designed to enhance his image at home?

Whatever your answer, Joe Clark has supplied his own and as the final week of his tour begins and the goofs, gaffes, fumbles and fiascos pile up, it seems possible the Tories have achieved the impossible: An international version of Robert Stanfield's famous football fumblitis.

The difference is that Stanfield was the victim of selective photography. Clark — and just as important, Clark's staff — under day-by-day scrutiny during the relatively simple pressures of a package tour — would make a voter, let alone a travel agent, cringe.

As the by-now-bulging Clark entourage moves on to its final merciful stop in Israel and Jordan, whatever genius in the Conservative ranks who dreamed up this political Titanic must be pondering one simple query: Was this trip really necessary?

Instead of the supposed purpose of the opposition leader coming across as a knowledgeable future ruler who can mix and match with a variety of mankind, Clark is being exposed to humanity (which apparently would include reporters) at carefully-selected intervals and then is tucked back into his staff's cocoon. He is seeing the world in Saran Wrap.

Two questions would seem legitimate in the rather dismaying Clark performance so far.

The first is an assaying of the personal staff Clark has gathered around him. As a man who — self-confessedly — is not a strong personality, he does on the other hand seem able to attract strong lieutenants around him.

As a measure of the importance (or the fears?) the Tories have put on this expedition, chief-of-staff Bill Neville is aboard. If Clark is elected this spring, Neville apparently would be the number one non-elected official in the land.

He is a former wire-service reporter, a former aide to Judy Lamarsh, a former unsuccessful Tory candidate against John Turner in Ottawa, a former public relations lobbyist.

If Clark comes across as the original innocent abroad, trying a crash course in what most others picked up in the traditional hitchhiking foray in foreign climes, Neville too often gives the impression of a conventioneer on his first trip to Waikiki Beach.

In his white shoes and seersucker safari suit, picking his way carefully through the cow dung in an Indian village, eagerly snapping pictures on his mini-camera of dirty children and wizened farmers, he, too, seems on a tour of self-education when the original intent, one presumes, was to further the election chances of his boss.

Executive assistant Ian Green, an intelligent young man quite interested in the intracacies of the diplomatic service, was witnessed at a New Delhi formal dinner passing on defence tips to a distinguished Indian general, the former commander of the second-largest land force in the world and the ambassador-designate to Ottawa. Green's competence in the field of travel arrangements does not equal his military expertise.

The third assistant in the Clark expedition is press secretary Donald Doyle, a well-meaning but non-assertive former Quebec reporter who is likeable but has no clout in the Clark camp. It is well accepted in Ottawa that the reason he is in the job is that he is the only French-Canadian in the Clark office.

The result of it all is that Clark, demonstrating that the world is not flat, set out with three aides who had not yet tested that fact themselves.

Left behind was press advisor Tim Rolfe, an experienced and abrasive former electronic reporter (noted for taunting Mr. Trudeau into his "just watch me" War Measures Act boast). Rolfe is the only member of the Clark hierarchy who has ever had experience at bullying foreign customs attendants and swapping a beer with reporters. The innocence abroad shows.

The first result of all this is that the Clark people are becoming celebrated much less for their competence than for the fact they don't even know how to read an airline schedule.

After two days in New Delhi — supposedly scheduled on a flight to Athens that was well-known in Canada for being over-booked — the Clark aides lingered as long at the farewell diplomatic parties as the dissolute press and the product was a last-second airport panic to find seats for the expedition, to get a disgruntled Neville shunted from economy back into first class and to lose (as could have been predicted) some of the entourage's baggage once again.

As a result, what was supposed to be a badly-needed day of rest for Clark and his aides in Athens turned out instead to be a testy, tension-filled stopover with a search for luggage that ended in Rome and Clark more than 24 hours without a bed. While Maureen McTeer, who joined the group here, climbed the Acropolis and viewed the Parthenon in the stunning blue sky of a Greek winter, her husband rested in bed, a victim of a ridiculous schedule and the ineptitude of his staff.

He was spotted in the lobby Saturday night bearing six red roses wrapped in cellophane, like a contrite swain at the junior ball.

A side result of all this has been that Canadian embassy staffs in Tokyo, Bangkok, New Delhi and Athens have been on constant alert to rescue the innocents from the limitations of their background. It has been the greatest test of our diplomatic service since we sent Wayne Cashman and Phil Esposito abroad as representatives of our couth.

At the base of it all, despite Clark's bluster that he may fire his Ottawa travel agent, is the performance of the opposition leader himself.

Granted that he is 20 years younger than Trudeau and did not have the dilettantish privileges of the prime minister. Given all that, he has been proven astonishingly naive, confessing to one reporter that he was surprised Tokyo was such a modern city since he expected it to be "full of pagodas."

Seemingly confused by time zones and space, he asked an Indian farmer what season it was. It turned out, surprisingly, to be the same season as when he left Japan — winter.

His nemesis Trudeau is celebrated for quotes ("Where's Biafra?" "Why should I sell your wheat?") that advertise his arrogance. Clark, in a collection of quotes that grows daily, merely advertises his inexperience with the outside world.

UN to Run Island Haven For Refugees

MANILA (UPI) — The United Nations will operate an island haven set up by Southeast Asian nations to temporarily house thousands of homeless Vietnamese refugees, a UN special envoy announced today.

Werner Blatter, representative of the UN High Commissioner for Refugees (UNHCR), said the Association of Southeast Asian Nations (ASEAN) has asked the UNHCR to run the island as a transit center which could shelter from 50,000 to 60,000 Indochinese refugees fleeting to their region.

ASEAN is a 11-year-old economic and cultural alliance between the Philippines, Singapore, Indonesia, Malaysia and Thailand.

Published reports from Kuala Lumpur, Malaysia, said ASEAN had agreed to set aside an island but no details were disclosed.

A UN conference in Geneva on the refugees late last year suggested that Southeast Asian nations provide temporary sanctuary in the region for the refugees.

But Malaysia proposed instead that the United States establish temporary accomodations on Guam Island while resettlement is being arranged in countries willing to accept them. No action has been taken on that proposal.

About 5,000 refugees are marooned in rickety freighters seeking temporary shelter in Manila and Hong Kong and more than 200,000 others are in Malaysia and Thailand.

United Front By Syria, Iraq

DAMASCUS (Reuter) — Arab diplomatic sources reported Sunday that Syria and Iraq are planning to merge into a single state under one leader with command over combined armies on Israel's northeastern border.

A union of the two countries, once bitter foes which settled longstanding differences by signing a charter for joint action last October, would alter the balance of power in the Middle East. Between them, Syria and Iraq can muster an estimated 415,000 men, 750 military planes and 4,400 tanks.

The sources' report came as Syria, Iraq and the Palestine Liberation Organization (PLO) moved toward closer co-operation on the eve of a top-level Palestinian conference expected to call for increased guerrilla warfare against Israel.

The talks at the Syrian foreign ministry here, and now the reported Syrian-Iraqi merger, are expected to have important bearing on the meeting of the Palestine National Council due to open today.

Premier Rose Pulls Bloomin' High Price

JOHANNESBURG (AP) — The Johannesburg Star says the 137.02-carat Premier Rose — described as the finest and most-expensive diamond in the world — has been sold in the United States for $11.5 million.

The U.S.-South African syndicate that sold the diamond refused to name the buyer or confirm the sale price.

Sylvain Mouw of South Africa's Mouw Diamond Cutting Works — one of the partners in the syndicate — said only: "I'm not unhappy about the selling price."

He said in a telephone interview that secrecy about the price and the buyer were conditions of the sale, which took place last month.

"I just can't tell you any more, it would be unethical," he said.

The Mouw family, in partnership with William Goldberg of Goldberg-Weiss of New York City, bid $5.17 million last May to buy the rough 353.9-carat stone when De Beers Consolidated Mines Ltd., the diamond giant, put it up for sale. The stone had been discovered at the Premier Mine, near the South African capital of Pretoria.

Technically, it is the third-largest pear-shaped diamond in the world, the 14th-largest white diamond and the 23rd-largest polished diamond.

Logging in the Parks

It may seem academic whether or not to allow loggers into one of British Columbia's smaller provincial parks to remove windfelled timber that some say is ripe for an infestation of disease and insect pests which might threaten healthy stands of trees.

Lands and Parks Minister Jim Chabot says that trees blown down in 1975 in the northeastern corner of Bowron Lake park constitute a special problem, and the government may allow logging.

There is disagreement about how severe the insect problem is, but the mere possibility of logging off part of a provincial park is worrying those with long memories of what previous provincial governments allowed in supposedly inviolable provincial parks. It is not over-cautious to suggest that allowing chain saws into one park — even if only to remove diseased trees — is setting a precedent that could see logging in other parks.

The minister is probably entirely sincere in his assertions, but the past performance of other parks ministers makes us uneasy. They made similar statements about getting out the diseased and decadent timber cluttering up the parks; then logging and mining were allowed in provincial parks.

Strathcona Park, the only big recreational reserve on Vancouver Island, is a case study in the results of allowing industry into a park. The "conservation policy" of the old Social Credit government in the 1950s and 1960s allowed mining companies and logging firms to transform parts of the park into a wasteland.

The government could not void Crown-granted mineral claims of the 1920s, but it was derelict in doing nothing about a 1949 cabinet order which allowed another 162 claims to be staked between 1959 and 1962. It was those claims which allowed the Western Mines copper mine to go ahead, with all its ugly pollution of Buttle Lake.

Logging was allowed in different areas of the park, a few thousand acres here, a few thousand there, and Strathcona's unique qualities (which one visitor early this century compared to Yosemite in California) were allowed to deteriorate. The park's western boundaries skirted the superb Pacific slopes of the Island, a natural addition to any park, because the logging of those slopes was thought to be a higher priority.

This tale has put many British Columbians on their guard whenever "logging" and "parks" are mentioned by their government in the same sentence. This time, they are doubly suspicious of the government's motives.

There are reasonable grounds for opposing logging in the parks under any circumstances, even with the threat of insects. In the current case even this justification has been questioned.

Federal forestry experts say the Bowron Lake park blowdown is likely to escape any beetle infestation. The timber has dried out so much that the threat has diminished considerably.

It recalls the spruce budworm scare campaign mounted by Forests Minister Tom Waterland through 1976 and 1977. Thousands of square miles in the B.C. interior faced imminent doom if the trees weren't sprayed with insecticide, he told us. Vociferous protests caused the cabinet to back down and suspend the spraying program. What happened? Last year the budworm population collapsed of its own accord, and there was no need to attack with poison sprays.

Likewise, the government should proceed cautiously before logging off part of Bowron Lake park. We need more definite evidence that healthy timber is threatened before this precedent-setting move is made.

Still Inappropriate

Saanich Mayor Mel Couvelier announced last week some changes in the operation of his new policy committee. Regrettably, his explanations have not convinced us of the appropriateness of the plan.

We said last month when Couvelier announced the committee that although his intentions were the best, a committee where appointed officials have equal votes with aldermen and where all meetings are held in private was not the way to go.

Now the mayor has said that formal voting at the committee will be replaced by development of informal consensus on issues. This avoids the problem of having the officials vote, but one wonders — given the record of vehement disagreement between committee members Ald. John Mika and David Paterson — whether consensus is likely to be reached on subjects more controversial than the day of the next meeting.

Couvelier has also said that parts of the committee's meetings will be open to press and public. This may well prove to be worse than having none of the meetings open. The mayor has said that each meeting will include some time in camera where staff can give their honest opinions in a freewheeling, brainstorming session. Does that mean that everyone will put on a polite, agreeable front for the public part of the meeting, then go behind closed doors for the serious and honest discussion of the same issues?

This would mean that Saanich residents would get a distorted view of what went on, probably worse than no view at all.

The problems of this committee won't be solved by cosmetic changes. It needs either to be made an ordinary, open council committee or else abolished altogether.

RICHARD GWYN

And Nobody Said a Thing

OTTAWA — The most interesting political happening of this winter may turn out to be something that didn't happen. Like Sherlock Holmes' Hound of the Baskervilles that didn't bark.

On television the other day, Toronto MP David Crombie, certain to be a senior minister in any Conservative government, and who, incidentally, once gave a course in federalism at Ryerson Polytechnical Institute in Toronto, said he was quite prepared to "negotiate sovereignty-association."

No one barked. Quebec Premier Rene Levesque didn't say: "I told you so. Les anglais will give us what we want." Mail carriers haven't collapsed beneath the weight of letters to the editor denouncing Crombie as a "sell out." The phones to radio open-line shows haven't hummed with bad vibes. Editorial writers haven't smitten Crombie hip and thigh. (Perhaps they forgot that to smite Crombie's hips, you have to aim downwards).

All's Quiet

A year ago, the noise would have been deafening. Levesque, we then knew was out to "destroy" our country. We were angry and anxious, frustrated and bitter, and in no mood to truck or trade with the Parti Quebecois. When Prime Minister Trudeau, in Saskatoon, in mid-1977, called the PQ "the enemy within," we cheered.

Our cool has returned. Maybe it's just complacency and indifference. Perhaps, though, our attitude is common-sensical and mature. An expectation exists, to which Crombie responded, that a deal must be done, and is doable.

Other non-happenings illustrate English-Canada's relaxed mood. No one has fussed that the FLQ terrorists are back in Canada. A year ago, when the possibility first was raised, there were angry outbursts in Parliament and in letters to the editor.

Likewise, the department of transport's report that bilingualism in the air is as safe as unilingualism, has slipped by little noticed. Maybe in this instance the quiesence conceals our guilt at having once been taken in. (A difficulty that remains is that bilingualism, officially, applies to all Canada, not just to Quebec. Thus, one day, a francophone pilot will claim the "right" to speak French over Calgary, which would be quite another political test.

The logic with which Trudeau once mesmerized us may have been false logic. He presented national unity as an issue with two sides — one Canada vs. separatism. In fact, real life politics are invariably more complicated. Some issues have only one side (racism is not good or bad). Most have many sides, overlapping and merging into each other.

DAVID CROMBIE
. . . Tories would negotiate, he said

Separation itself is a one-sided issue. It is bad, for Quebec and for the rest of us. Sovereignty-association is a many-sided issue. In Levesque's latest version, it may turn out to be just tarted-up "special status," something Quebec always has had in fact, and always will have even if the referendum is lost. Even Trudeau recognizes this. Last week, with Ottawa's agreement, Quebec passed a law to give it a "predominant" role in immigration.

Levesque's watered down sovereignty-association still is non-negotiable. It presupposes Quebec and Rump Canada having coequal authority over everything from the dollar to Air Canada. There's just no way English-Canada would grant equality to a sovereign country one-fourth its size and with one-fifth its economic output.

Levesque must know thus. Thus, either Levesque is lying to Quebecers, his PQ militants, to the rest of us, and perhaps even to himself, or he is looking for what Crombie called "a deal with honor."

In fact, Crombie said what he said on television badly. Crombie has yet to realize that Levesque is a far tougher opponent than Toronto real estate developers.

Conservative Leader Joe Clark said it far better this week on CBC's Newsmagazine. He would not negotiate sovereignty-association, but he would negotiate with, that is talk with, Levesque if he won the referendum (as probably he will).

Have to Talk

"Federalism is negotiation," said Clark. Astutely, he pointed out that a referendum victory would give Levesque no legal right to do anything, but would merely "strengthen his mandate." Hence, said Clark, "It would be foolish to say we won't talk [to Levesque] about anything."

Foolish, mostly, because it is unavoidable. After the referendum, Trudeau, if he is still prime minister, would talk with Levesque as much as would Clark. The Trudeau-Clark prime minister would ask Levesque what he wants. Levesque would say, "sovereignty-association."

Trudeau-Clark would say that's a non-starter, and then would ask Levesque what he really wants.

At this point, Levesque might go home in a huff. More probably, he would wheel and deal for a "special status" special enough to allow him to claim he has achieved "sovereignty" but not so special that Canada didn't remain one country. These negotiations will be tough, tougher than Clark, let alone Crombie, yet seems to realize. To get through them, we'll need, mostly, to continue to keep our cool.

Humans Worse

E. A. J. MacRae has finally prompted me to write a letter to the Times re Pets Toilet, Dec. 29.

This vitriolic letter regarding dogs and their owners should be brought into proper perspective.

At least dog excreta is recycled back into nature, as it is with all animals domestic, and wild. (I wonder if he uses manure on his garden?) What he doesn't mention is the desecration of our parks by humans! Most of our beaches are polluted by human outfall, and little is done, or said, about that.

Needless to say, I am an animal lover and a dog owner. We go for walks in our parks and the dogs' contributions do no harm to anyone, nor to the environment. We frequent one park which is constantly being uprooted by wild sprees — grass churned up by spinning tires, tables and refuse bins overturned and a general devastation of an otherwise beautiful area. Very often I have spent some time picking up McDonald's and Tasti-Freez plastic containers, paper bags and boxes and an assortment of liquor bottles and placing them all in the tins provided, only to return the next day to find them flung about the countryside again, bottles smashed against the rocks and far more destruction than fifty dogs could do.

I have spent hours picking up broken glass in this park which is also a play area for children.

We dog owners have a deep respect for our environment, and the park areas. Another dog walker in this park picks up the empty bottles and takes them home with her, so that they won't be smashed and some of us take bird seed during the winter months to leave out for the quail, pheasants and little birds.

Mr. MacRae might do more good for the community, if indeed that is his aim, by venting his wrath and indignation against a society that permits this wanton destruction instead of turning his hostility towards gentle, trusting animals.

Consult a Lawyer

A letter (Outrageous) which appeared in your issue of Jan. 2 signed by a lady named G. L. Verga exasperated me.

Broadly, her story, which I have no reason to disbelieve, is that while shopping in a well-known department store she noticed an article of apparel on the floor which she bent down (as almost anyone would do) with the intention of replacing it on the rack.

Came a tap on the shoulder with the request: "Will you please follow me!" There followed a short interrogation, after which a store detective was sent for. He summarily requested the lady to open her bag, all in full view and hearing of other customers! There is no record of what the "dick" said when the bag failed to disclose the desired "evidence!"

But let us be fair. I have no use for shoplifters, because we (the public — not the store) pay for their malefactions! Nonetheless, shoplifting is so rife that unfortunately it is necesary to employ measures to check it, thus, detectives. But no one should be interrogated, particularly in sight and hearing of others.

My advice would be, first to consult a reputable lawyer who, I feel certain, would bring suit on the grounds of humiliation (and perhaps on other grounds). As you should know, citizens have rights to protect them. Good luck. — G. R. Forster, Victoria.

A section of Bowron Lake park may be logged off by the government.

Policy of Disaster

Mixed in with the present thrust of the logging industry in its plea for public subsidies to cover up a politically inspired over-commitment of our public commercial forest lands is the cry for the implementation of "multiple use." To the conservationist "multiple use" means one thing and to the industry it means quite something else.

To the industry it means opening up the park system to logging. To the mining industry it means opening up the park system to mining. In the name of integrated resource management, industry is seeking to convince cabinet that parks must be managed to produce logs and minerals.

To the conservationist, parks are natural ecosystem preserves. Commercial exploitation of a park is unacceptable. To the conservationist, multiple use is a forest management principle to be employed upon commercial forest land, both public and private. Parks cannot be considered commercial forest land.

The thrust to open the park system to logging is being spearheaded by the Association of B.C. Professional Foresters who last year submitted a secret brief to the cabinet advocating the logging of certain timber within Bowron Lake provincial park. The rationale of the association was the alleged threat of insects. Without public debate or opportunity for rebuttal, the cabinet is accepting the recommendations of this brief. It is our understanding that the assertions of the brief alleging an insect threat are false and would not stand the test of exposure to public scrutiny.

If the forester's association wins this test case they will be back to cabinet with new briefs. Indeed, industry will be presenting briefs by the dozen. For if cabinet accepts the secret assertions of an insect threat inside a park, they will also be prepared to accept a whole host of industry arguments about "wasting" timber contained within the park system.

It is important to remember the following:

☐ Ninety-eight per cent of all commercial timber land is outside the provincial park system.

☐ The Park Act, Section 9 (2) states: "No natural resource within a park of any class shall be granted, sold, removed, disturbed, damaged, or exploited unless, in the opinion of the Minister, the development, improvement, and use of the park in accordance with subsection (3) of section 12 will not thereby be hindered." Subsection 3 of section 12 states: "No person shall carry on, in any park, any activity that will restrict, prevent, or inhibit the use of the park for its designated purpose."

The time to act is now. Cabinet is about to embark upon a policy of disaster spelled out by former Recreation and Conservation Minister Sam Bawlf. This is the concept of protecting all land equally. No land, under this concept of land management, will be treated differently than any other area of land. Under such a policy there can be no room for non-consumptive use of land. There can be no special status for lands that have the potential for commercial exploitation. Thus, the park system is in jeopardy.

We are asking you to inform your friends and associates of this imminent danger. Your MLA, the ministers of the opposition parties must be informed of your views. Act now. Tomorrow may be too late. — Sierra Club, 1645 Broadmead Avenue.

Well Done, Judge

On Dec. 27 in Victoria, some 74 people from 18 countries around the globe became Canadian citizens at a heartwarming and inspiring ceremony presided over by Judge Frances Elford. Heartwarming and inspiring because her honor made it that way!

It could have been a spiritless and unduly staid occasion as witnessed by the writer on previous similar functions, but it wasn't because Judge Elford, exuding great charm and charisma, reached out to each and every participant and made them feel both welcome to our land and, I think, proud to become Canadians.

She reminded the smiling assembly of the more important advantages of becoming citizens of our majestic and vast country; at the same time outlining some of the major responsibilities involved in making Canada an even better place to reside. Frances Elford struck a plea for national unity to all present, including 80 "already Canadian" observers.

In presenting each citizenship scroll, she met and talked with everyone in a friendly manner and took the opportunity just prior to the end of the ceremony to give everybody some interesting examples of the occupations, nationalities and aspirations of our new Canadian friends.

These people walked out of the citizenship court that afternoon very inspired and convinced, I'm sure, of the necessity to extend personal and unselfish contributions to the betterment of their respective communities and fellow Canadians.

As a member of our judiciary, Judge Elford should indeed be proud of herself for her own personal contributions to our complex society.

We were glad we attended that day to witness the "Canadian christening" of our new friends from California and all the others granted their well-earned citizenship. — Kenneth L. Keith, 6867 Jedora Drive.

Don't Blame Arabs, It's Free Enterprise

By GEORGE BAIN

OTTAWA — The day the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries announced that a barrel of oil would cost $14.54 (U.S.) next October, up from $12.70, The Star told the story under a Page One banner: "Sheikdown! OPEC Puts price of oil up again."

A clever heading, fairly reflecting the widely-held view that "the Arabs," so-called, are putting the screws to defenceless industrial nations whose economies, run on oil, have been painfully dislocated by price increases of the past half-dozen years.

But why is it a shake-down if the people who've got it (and aren't, for the most part, nearly so rich as we are) demand $1.84 more for their one commodity from those of us who want it? That is business, isn't it?

Obviously, if we didn't want it, or were prepared to moderate our demands, they wouldn't be able to get their price from us and would have to climb down.

And what's so awful about $14.54 for a barrel of oil, anyway? People have been lined up recently to pay twice that for 25 ounces of cognac at the neighborhood liquor store, which, it is not irrelevant to point out, is also a monopoly.

Oh, yes, oh, yes, you say, but most of the price of that bottle of cognac goes into general government revenues to do all sorts of worthwhile things, like building schools, hospitals, roads, whatnot.

To which, having seen half-a-dozen oil-producing countries, I might be provoked to ask what you think they're doing with their revenues but building roads, hospitals, schools — and some basic industries, which they hope will make them more like us, which is to say, renewably rich.

Yes, yes, but there's a social purpose to the high-pricing of that bottle of cognac. Drink is not good for people, and a high price helps keep them from it.

True? If so, instead of assailing the poor oil-producers as shake-down artists, we should be hailing them as benefactors. If high prices deter, then . . . but look at the figures:

Nearly twice as many people (5,110) died as the result of traffic accidents in Canada in 1976 as died of cirrhosis of the liver (2,788). Ergo, keep them off the roads, even if it's only to stay home drinking, and it is to the public good.

Yes, yes, I know, it is the fact that it is the price of an essential commodity that is being played with so cavalierly that you object to.

But why, then, do I not remember the howls of outrage that must have rent the Canadian — the North American — air when the price of wheat went up from $1.68½ cents a bushel average in the 1971-72 crop year to $5.49⅜ in 1973-74, an increase of 327 per cent.

I have the clipping here of an article by Emma Rothschild, author of Paradise Lost: The Decline of the Auto-Industrial Age, which speaks of the "man-made famine" that killed tens of thousands in Bangladesh in 1974. How man-made?

"Like many other developing countries, (Bangladesh) was a commercial customer for United States wheat. But in the months before the famine, it was priced out of the U.S. market."

There are, as can be seen, essential commodities and essential commodities; not many people have starved, unable to get their car out of the garage.

True, true, the rise then in the price of wheat was simply the result of commercial influences; what you are unto death opposed are international price-fixing cartels. You will, then, no doubt, have written a harsh letter to the Canadian — and Australian, British, French and South African — governments, condemning them for the uranium cartel they ran between 1972 and 1975, and, moreover, had the deceit to run in secret. Yes?

Ironically, the people who most insistently have been telling us that the way to avoid a too-high oil bill is to buy less, have been some of the producers. Sheik Ahmed Zaki Yamani, Saudi Arabia's oil minister, for notable example.

A good argument can be made that the Saudis, far from having done any shaking down, have behaved with remarkable restraint, given the accepted business ethic that scarce goods or commodities are worth what they'll fetch.

Without the Saudi influence on some of the others, we would have something to howl about.

Synanon: A Change in Character

THE ECONOMIST

DEDERICH . . . his quirks became 'law'

Among the scandals now surrounding America's cult religions, the abuse of minds and personalities is only the most obvious charge. Increasingly worrying, as the details emerge of their often cynical and corrupt organizations, is the extent to which cults may successfully masquerade as charitable institutions exempt from taxation and fit for public funds.

The example of Synanon, the latest cult to be investigated, is horrifying. Because Synanon posed as an educational institution teaching, among other things, flying, it received a gift of nine aircraft from the federal government; a government warehouse in San Francisco was donated when Synanon claimed to be training warehouse workers. So unused are its members to paying taxes that some of those who remain had planned an exile in Liechtenstein, and had applied for passports. Happily, the California attorney general has intervened instead.

Brainwashed

Numbers of harassed individuals in California have known of Synanon's misdoings for years. They have claimed openly that the organization, which was founded to rehabilitate drug addicts, in fact abused children and brainwashed its residents. Yet most of them, fearing retaliation, have not stepped forward. They have seen what has happened to those who do.

When, in March this year, the grand jury of Marin County published a report critical of Synanon, jury members began to answer their telephones to voices saying "God will kill you." Two critics of the organization who threatened court proceedings were clubbed and kicked on their own front lawns; a third returned home to find his dog hanged in his front porch.

In the most notorious incident, in October, a rattlesnake with the rattle removed, so as to be silent, was placed in the mailbox of a Los Angeles lawyer who had successfully sued Synanon for brainwashing and false imprisonment.

The rattlesnake attack led directly to the arrest, on a murder conspiracy charge, of Charles Dederich, Synanon's founder. Dederich was drunk when the police arrived, but that was simply a return to his old ways. He was a member of Alcoholics Anonymous in 1958, and founded Synanon in the afterglow. It was, at first, simply a care and treatment centre for depressed or addicted people who felt they could go nowhere else. It was based in a flyblown shop in Santa Monica and was called the Tender Loving Care Club: a name which seemed, in the early stages, attractive and appropriate.

Dederich, a compelling, burly figure often in farmer's overalls, was known to run the centre roughly, but got results. Synanon became a model of what a rehabilitation centre should be. The founder's own slogan, "Today is the first day of the rest of your life," became birthday-card currency everywhere.

Armbands

By 1973, Synanon had almost 2,000 members and was worth $20 million. Its branches had spread from California across the nation and even overseas. Residents at the centres made Synanon felt-pens, key-rings and pen-knives, which were then sold in bulk to charitably-minded corporations. Society drop-outs would call in by dozens to play the Synanon game, in which members formed a cirle and hurled abuse at each other. At this stage only the San Francisco Examiner, which was shortly to be the first newspaper accused by Synanon of libellous coverage, smelled corruption. In fact, Synanon was changing character entirely.

Dederich began to confide to his collagues that he was tired of "dope-fiends", as he called the addicts. He was also increasingly convinced that Synanon had found a holy life-style, one which ought to be defended against the evils outside. Members began to wear armbands and to take part in shooting practices against humanoid targets. Two crack squads were formed, known as the "National Guard" and "Imperial Marines."

Gradually, the quirks and foibles of Dederich became law at Synanon. Smoking, sugar and white flour were banned. Dieting was made compulsory. In 1977, when the founder's wife died of cancer, residents were forced to remarry as Dederich did. As a sacrifice to Synanon, which by this time was beginning to lose members and money, residents were obliged to be childless. The men were forced to have vasectomies and four pregnant women were aborted against their will.

That was the year when the public, at last, began to know of Synanon. Time magazine published a critical article after a reporter, by rare chance, obtained an interview with Dederich, who thought he was under consideration to be Time's Man of the Year.

Bound for Cinders

Anybody desperate for something to worry about will be pleased to hear that we are overdue for a supernova explosion in the galactic neighborhood.

If this happens you can kiss the weekend goodbye since, as The New York Times put it the other day in a report on doomsday possibilities, life on earth "could be ended in a matter of minutes without warning."

I like that. "Without warning" I mean. It's pleasant to think you might not have to spend your final days bickering with insurance companies about whether you have supernova coverage.

It's nice to think you might not have to spend time cancelling engagements and sitting around the dinner table listening to adolescents whine about the futility of life.

Imagine a much nastier doomsday scenario which the Times reporter produced from a scientist interested in these things:

"Earth may collide with one or more fairly large objects — asteroids, comets, for example — and if the object in such a collision were more than a few miles in diameter life on earth could be extinguished. A collision of that sort could come at any time with as little as six months' warning."

The thought of that six-month warning period is more than the spirit can contemplate. Warning periods bring out the worst in people. Day after day you would be besieged by lugubrious clods asking, "What was the point of it all?" "What was it all about?"

It is bad enough having to deal with people who want to know what it's all about, even when doomsday isn't just around the corner. They are never satisfied with sensible answers like, "It's about baseball," or "It's got something to do with chemistry and physics," or "It's about a cowboy who likes his horse better than he likes the school marm."

With an asteroid heading for earth, you don't want to waste time answering silly questions. You want to find a safe place to hide the liquor from marauding desperadoes.

That is why the supernova has it all over the colliding-asteroid finale. With the supernova you get a gigantic star exploding, emitting the amount of energy in a single year that our sun takes a billion years to radiate.

Dr. George C. Reid of the Aeronomy Laboratory of the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration, says there is at least one supernova in our galaxy every 50 to 100 years. If one goes off less than 60 light years from earth, you won't have to worry about getting to grandmother's for Thanksgiving. In the more immediate vicinity, it would vaporize the earth.

Dr. Reid says a supernova can be expected in our neighborhood roughly once every 100 million years. Apparently there hasn't been one in the last 500 to 600 million years. "The statistical inference would seem to be that we're overdue for a nearby supernova," he told the Times.

What he is saying, of course, is that those crackpots who walk the streets with placards saying, "the end is near," know more than the crackpots who sneer at them.

Of all the recent discoveries science has made to inform us of the things that can kill us, I like the supernova best. It's a big idea. It has grandeur. It gives you hope that you could be involved at least once in your life in something really important. Supernova! It's even bigger than the Super Bowl.

It's certainly bigger than the doomsday I have come to expect. This event, which I expect to occur at a Manhattan intersection, is called "The Eighth Car Collision."

Studies of motorists' behavior in New York have established that at any dangerous intersection the first seven drivers to be confronted with a traffic light changing to red will accelerate and race through despite the red light.

As a pedestrian, I invariably wait for the light to change, then count seven cars going through the red before stepping off the curve. Twice every day at the average intersection, an eighth car tries to follow the seventh through the light. In the past four years this eighth car has always collided with a truck, another car or another pedestrian. The statistical inference would seem to be that I am overdue for an eighth car collision.

I know the relentless inevitability of statistics and accept it. I do not sit around demanding that wretched humanity tell me what the point of it all is. The point of it all is to beat the traffic light.

Maybe beating the light is what we've all been doing here on this rock. Holding our breath, closing our eyes, stepping on the gas and praying — maybe that's what it's all about, too, along with everything else that it's all about, like another cup of coffee.

today's markets

Toronto

The TSE 300 index was down 1.79 to 1,358.31 despite a preponderance of advancing issues.

Among the four most heavily-weighted groups within the 14-unit composite index, oil and gas stocks dropped 6.8 to 1,906.33 and industrial products 5.72 to 1,095.64. Metals and minerals rose 9.04 to 1,198.2 and financial services 5.15 to 1,220.15.

Paper and forest products declined more than 26 points to lead the eight losers among the other 10 groups. Pipeline shares and consumer products were the only gainers.

Volume of trading by 2 p.m. EST totalled 2.8 million shares compared with 4.16 million at the same time Friday.

Advances outnumbered declines 204 to 181 with 213 issues unchanged.

Consumers Distributing Co. Ltd. was down 4⅝ to $12⅛ a share on the sale of 76,775 shares following its opening resumption. Company directors have reaffirmed Jack Stupp as chairman and chief executive officer despite last week's charge that he conspired to manipulate the market price of shares.

Among other industrials, Dominion Bridge fell 1⅜ to $31⅛, MacMillan Bloedel 1¼ to $24¾, Dome Petroleum ⅞ to $102⅝, IU International ¾ to $12 and Brascan Ltd. A ⅜ to $19¾.

B.C. Packers B climbed 3 to $83 on 500 shares, Crown Life Insurance 1½ to $68, Noranda Mines A 1⅜ to $42⅝, Murphy Oil 1¼ to $14⅝ and Provigo Inc. 1¼ to $22.

Dome Mines eased ½ to $90, Placer Development ⅜ to $28⅜ and Denison Mines ¼ to $78. Mattagami Lake Mines A advanced ½ to $18 and Cyprus Anvil Mining ½ to $12¾.

Canadian Homestead Oils slipped ¾ to $11⅞, Asamera Oil ⅜ to $20 and Merland Explorations ¼ to $9⅞. Can-Del Oil was up ¾ to $29 and Ranger Oil Canada ⅝ to $17⅛.

New York

The volatile gambling issues advanced broadly today while the rest of the stock market turned in a mixed showing.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials, up nearly 33 points in the first two weeks of the new year, slipped back 0.87 to 835.41 by 2 p.m. EST.

But gainers held a 5-to-3 edge on losers among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Del E. Webb climbed 1⅝ to $18⅞. Late Friday the company said it had signed a letter of intent covering plans for a hotel-casino in Atlantic City, N.J. Other actively traded gambling issues included Bally Manufacturing, up 2¼ to $56⅝; Ramada Inns, ¾ higher to $11¼, and Caesars World, up 2⅞ to $31⅞.

Montreal

Bank issues recovered from a noontime slump as prices posted mixed gains in moderate afternoon trading at the Montreal Stock Exchange. The 85-stock composite index dipped 0.29 to 233.32.

Volume at 2 p.m. EST was 340,431 shares, down from the 464,777 shares traded up to the same time Friday.

Canadian Cables A led winners, up 1¼ at $18 on a volume of 39,000 shares traded. Interprovincial Pipe Line A was up ¼ at $16⅞, Bank of Montreal ⅜ at $26⅛, City and District Savings Bank ⅛ at $25¼ and Noranda A 1⅜ at $42½.

Among losers, Tele-Capital dropped ½ at $11, Brascan A ¼ at $19¾, Pacific Petroleums ¼ at $63¾, FCA International five cents at $3 and IAC Ltd. ¼ at $17¾.

London

Higher-than-expected December trade figures sent the London stock market sharply higher today near the close of moderate trading despite the continued strike of haulage drivers.

The Financial Times index of 30 industrials closed at 482.8, up 8.1.

VANCOUVER

Prices were mixed in moderate trading today on the Vancouver Stock Exchange. Volume to 10:50 a.m. was 1,042,070 shares.

Proflex led trading in the industrials, remaining unchanged at .10 on 5,000 shares. Goldale Investment was up .15 at $4.25 on 2,600, Daon Development was unchanged at $8 3-4 on 1,100 and Canlan Investment remained steady at $5 1-2 on 700. Canadian Javelin was up .01 at $1.09 and Taro Industries was unchanged at $3.10.

On the resource and development board, Consolidated Kalco Valley up .02 at .31 on 52,000. Highwood Resources gained .17 at $2.25 on 37,100, NRD Mining was up .03 at $1.03 on 30,340 and Monte Grande Exploration remained steady at $2.95 on 28,500. Con-Am Resources was up .04 at .90 and L. P. Industries was down .01 at .26.

Gold Angel Resources led trading on the curb exchange, gaining .10 at .93 on 48,600. Gavex Gold Mines was up .04 at .30 on 30,104, El Coco Exploration gained .10 at .70 on 23,000 and Santa Sarita Mining was up .01 at .49 on 18,500. Consolidated Cinola Mines was down .05 at $3.30 and River Mountain gained .04 at $1.80.

Oil Pipeline Loads Increase by 6.1%

OTTAWA (CP) — Oil transport by pipeline increased 6.1 per cent to 2.4 million barrels a day last October from 2.1 million barrels a year earlier, Statistics Canada has reported.

Domestic oil taken into the pipeline systems rose by 4.2 per cent to 2.1 million barrels a day. Imported crude oil and petroleum products rose by 21.5 per cent to 297,000 barrels a day.

Natural Gas Find in B.C.

CALGARY (CP) — Pacific Petroleums Ltd. announced Wednesday a natural gas discovery in northeastern British Columbia.

The company said initial tests indicate the well, Pacific et al Ojay 93-I-9C-12-L located 13 kilometres southeast of the existing Grizzly field, is capable of producing 7.5 million cubic feet a day of sour gas.

Additional wells will be drilled in the area.

Pacific, operator of the well, holds a 25-per-cent interest in the discovery. Other interests are held by Quasar Petroleum Ltd., Hudson's Bay Oil and Gas Ltd. and Phillips Petroleum Co.

PWA, Transair Merger Eyed

REGINA (CP) — Pacific Western Airlines (PWA) will ask the Canadian Transport Commission for permission to merge with Transair, hopefully sometime this year, Ed Pezzot, vice-president of Transair, said Tuesday.

Pezzot was speaking at a reception where PWA announced it would begin service to Regina and Saskatoon Feb. 4.

PWA will serve Saskatchewan under the Transair name because of a commission ruling dealying the takeover of Transair. PWA, owned by the Alberta government, holds a controlling interest in Transair.

The commission ruled that PWA could not immediately merge with Transair but could operate it as a subsidiary. The ruling allowed for an exchange of aircraft so PWA planes will soon be seen in Regina and Saskatoon.

If the merger is approved, the Transair name will disappear, Pezzot said.

Is Philip's Sneer Really Art?

By PAUL GESSELL
Canadian Press

OTTAWA — It was the Governor-General's annual levee Sunday and for once the bejewelled crowd of ambassadors and high-ranking government, military and RCMP officials were not just discussing the mouth-watering cream puffs served at the gala affair.

"Prince Philip is sneering," a prime ministerial adviser was heard to say, as he viewed the new controversial portrait of the Queen and Prince Philip hanging in the ballroom of Rideau Hall, Gov.-Gen. Leger's residence.

Among the members of Ottawa high society disliking the $49,000 portrait by Jean-Paul Lemieux, only Diefenbaker has publicly criticized it.

The painting is far from the traditional portrait because of its simplistic, almost child-like style.

While Queen Elizabeth smiles warmly, as she holds a bouquet of flowers, Philip appears to be scowling.

When most celebrities at the levee were approached by a reporter for their views on the painting, they replied with such stock phrases as: "It's different," or, "It's an interesting interpretation."

Their remarks were often more critical when a reporter's notebook was out of sight.

The levee is an annual affair dating back to the governors of New France in the 17th century. The fancy-dress occasion gave church and state officials an opportunity to pay respects to the French king through the governor. The custom was adopted by the British when they took over in 1763.

Many of the approximately 3,000 persons who visited Rideau Hall Sunday to wish Gov.-Gen. and Mme. Leger a happy New Year and good luck in retirement made a beeline for the painting upon entering the ballroom, which was a blaze of color with ambassadors and their wives in national dress, soldiers in green uniforms and Mounties in scarlet tunics.

When asked to assess the painting, three different members of the Governor-General's household staff replied: "It grows on you."

"To say that it is controversial is to understate the case, though having contemplated it first hand, I can testify that the actual work is more gripping than the photographed reproductions that are going around, which make the thing look like a crude poster."

CHOKED UP by emotion Sunday night was Canada's new governor-general, Ed Schreyer, as he and his wife were honored at a reception in Beausejour, Man., the district where he grew up.

Only Artist Saw Deformity

OTTAWA (CP) — Parliament Hill guides are being instructed to stop perpetuating an assumption that Queen Victoria had a withered left arm as shown in a picture of her hanging in the Senate rotunda.

Erik Spicer, Parliamentary librarian, concluded after exhaustive research by his staff that the impression given by the picture is false and that the Queen who assented to the British North America Act of 1867, and picked Ottawa as Canada's capital, had no such deformity.

The portrait by an obscure Montreal artist, John Partridge, was one of a few rescued from fire that destroyed most of the original Centre Block on Parliament Hill during the First World War. The building houses the Senate and House of Commons, offices and committee rooms.

Some authorities say this may be mistaken perspective by the artist, or repairs made wrongly after some fire damage. Painted about 1840, the canvass also was rescued from a Montreal fire in 1849.

Some tourist guides have told a story that this is the only portrait of the Empress Queen to be truthful in showing her with a deformity. Other stories have said Victoria had a deformed leg.

Spicer and his staff searched for evidence of a deformity in official and other biographies, and found none.

Cassiar Votes Yes

CASSIAR (CP) — Workers at the Cassiar Asbestos Corp. mine in this northern British Columbia community have voted 91 per cent in favor of accepting a new agreement with the corporation, ending a four-month strike.

The 550 workers, members of the United Steelworkers of America, had been on strike since Sept. 15.

Details of the agreement were not released.

The workers went on strike to protest a company proposal to freeze the wages of 71 office and technical employees and to reduce the starting rates of new office workers.

A company spokesman said the return to work would be gradual. He said there would not be a full start-up today because of weather conditions and the union is advising its members not to return to work until called.

LOVESICK COYOTES ROAMING

VANCOUVER (UPC) — Coyotes are being seen in increasing numbers in suburban Vancouver, but they're not dangerous, just in love, said Wildlife Control Officer Dennis Pemble.

"They have begun their spring breeding, so more are being seen ," he said. "Coyotes normally hunt in the early morning, which is why sightings are comparatively rare." From now until late March, however, they will be on the move all day looking for each other. They have never attacked people, Pemble said.

UFAWU May Quit Boundary Talks

PRINCE RUPERT (CP) — The president of the United Fishermen and Allied Workers Union said Sunday the UFAWU might withdraw from negotiations between Canada and the United States on new fishing boundaries.

Jack Nichol said he will recommend to the UFAWU board this week that the union dissociate itself from the negotiations.

The UFAWU was told Thursday by the federal fisheries department that UFAWU secretary-treasurer George Hewison would not be welcome on the Canadian negotiating team when talks resume.

The Native Brotherhood of B.C., the other major representative of British Columbia fishermen in negotiations, has indicated it would support the UFAWU and also withdraw from the talks, Nichol said.

Representatives of B.C. and Alaska fisheries workers said Sunday following a three-day meeting here that they have resolved to work more closely together in future to oppose any oil pipeline schemes which would increase the risk of oil spills affecting the fisheries resource.

They said in a news release that they recognize there is a common bond shared by fisheries workers which transcends national boundaries.

Comparison of fishermen's licencing and salmon enhancement were discussed during the meeting, as well as fish prices, organizational structures and bilateral fisheries negotiations.

Alaskan delegates said they were concerned that the U.S. negotiators were more worried about Washington state fishermen than Alaskan fishermen.

Nichol said earlier that both Alaska and B.C. fishermen are becoming more alarmed about the Japanese presence in the fishing industry off the west coast of North America.

He said in an interview that the Japanese are more than willing to invest in the fishing industry in Alaska and this is a major concern to Alaska fishermen.

Nichol said fishermen also discussed Canada being ousted from the halibut fishery in the Gulf of Alaska.

Quebec Eyes Askance Conservative Promise

CHICOUTIMI, Que. (CP) — Quebecers should mistrust Conservative party statements expressing openness toward negotiating sovereignty-association, says Quebec's intergovernmental affairs minister.

Claude Morin told a weekend meeting of Parti Quebecois members that "one must distrust those who believe the Clark government could straighten out all our problems; there are those who say we must give him a chance before we vote on sovereignty-association."

Only a clear "yes" vote in favor of the PQ's sovereignty-association proposal during the forthcoming referendum would force Ottawa to negotiate, he said.

Morin was one of four provincial ministers who addressed 500 party members at the first of a series of regional meetings to prepare for the referendum.

He said former Toronto mayor David Crombie (now a Tory MP for Rosedale) had assumed an intelligent attitude in announcing he would be ready to negotiate should a majority of Quebecers vote "yes" in the referendum.

"It's as if Mr. Crombie wanted to stop the intentional creation of tension among Canadians, which the federal government has worked hard to create."

After giving a brief history of relations between English- and French-speaking Canadians since Confederation, Morin concluded that the two groups will never be able to agree within the present system because they have contrary ideas of federalism.

He said English-Canadians would "split their sides laughing" if Quebecers vote against sovereignty-association because it would leave Quebec with no bargaining power.

The participants at the meeting were high-spirited, throwing dozens of of animated questions at the ministers, especially on the economic implications of the referendum.

Natural Resources Minister Yves Berube, Industry and Commerce Minister Rodrigue Tremblay and Environment Minister Marcel Leger also addressed the meeting.

PT. ALBERNI RATIFIES PAY RAISE

PORT ALBERNI (CP) — Non-teaching employees in this Vancouver Island community have ratified a one-year contract with School District 70 providing for an eight-per-cent increase in wages.

Strike notice was served nine days ago by Local 727 of the Canadian Union of Public Employees, representing the 150 workers in Port Alberni and nearby Bamfield, Tofino and Ucluelet, after negotiations had failed. Talks resumed Thursday and Friday.

Under the new contract, which is retroactive to Jan. 1, the base rate will increase in stages from $6.93 an hour to $8.08 by Nov. 1.

The contract also contains a dental plan, to begin July 1, improved holidays and long-term disabililty coverage.

Synthetic Blood Reports Incorrect: Red Cross

EDMONTON (CP) — Reports are incorrect that synthetic blood compounds developed by a University of Alberta chemist may save the Canadian Red Cross 500,000 litres of blood a year, says Dr. Don Buchanan, medical director for Alberta of the Red Cross transfusion service.

The compounds will have no effect on the number of donors needed, Dr. Buchanan said in an interview.

"The figures are all wrong — 500,000 litres is the amount of blood collected by the Red Cross all across Canada."

Published reports said the Red Cross sends 500,000 litres of blood a year for laboratory tests to match the blood of donors and recipients.

Scientists said synthetic antigens developed by Dr. Raymond Lemieux would make the tests unnecessary and ultimately prevent hundreds of deaths caused by blood disease and mismatching of blood donors and recipients.

Dr. Buchanan said the new compounds "may save time in the lab for certain tests and help us type rare blood (up to one per cent of all donations) but it won't really save us much blood."

He said many other tests, such as for hepatitis and venereal disease, "will still have to be done the present way."

Dr. Walter Harris, chairman of the university's chemistry department, described Dr. Lemieux's work as "of Nobel Prize calibre and all Canada should be proud."

Dr. Lemieux said the Nobel Prize reference is somewhat premature.

Dr. Lemieux synthesized the most commonly found antigens — A, B and Lewis.

The human body recognizes antigens as its own or as foreign. It creates antibodies to destroy foreign antigens and thus creates the need for careful matching when doctors transfuse blood or transplant organs.

The synthethic antigens are being manufactured in a process involving about 20 chemical reactions by Chembiomed Ltd., a company formed last year by the university to promote commercial development of its discoveries.

They will not be available commercially until approved by the federal health department. Company officials anticipate approval in about six months.

Dr. Derek Naylor, head of immunochemistry at the Canadian Red Cross transfusion services, said the compounds will aid automation of Red Cross blood-type testing in early 1980.

Dr. Naylor said manual testing using real blood is relatively costly and leaves room for human error.

Inmates May Warn Youth

KINGSTON, Ont. (CP) — Maximum security prisoners at Millhaven penitentiary may be given a chance to show selected youthful offenders the consequences of adult criminal behavior.

The children's services division of the Ontario ministry of community and social services has recommended the implementation of a pilot project in which young offenders would tour prisons and have an opportunity to talk to prisoners.

The project, to be called Save the Youth Now Group (STYNG), has not yet received approval from the ministry but has the support of local penetentiary officials and area community service groups.

The project, initiated by a group of Millhaven prisoners serving sentences of 10 years to life, is based on a juvenile awareness program at Rahway state prison in New Jersey. That program has led to a decrease in the number of youths with repeated offences.

A statement issued by the Millhaven group, called 10 Plus Fellowship, said visiting youths will see how prisoners live and "suffer the experience, the loneliness and the stress of a tightly-controlled maximum-security penitentiary."

The children's services division said in a confidential document that the visits would be "an educational lesson on the consequences of criminal activities for children who might be at the turning point."

It said the proposal is aimed at juveniles between 14 and 18 years and wards of training schools who are nearing the end of their detention.

Participation in the program would be compulsory except for those who would be affected adversely because of emotional problems or because they have relatives in a particular prison, the document says.

It recommends that visits be supervised to reduce the risk of youths being held hostage or abused by prisoners.

Area community groups agree the prison program may have a positive affect on some juvenile offenders.

Although the Rahway program is based on initial shock therapy — the children are confronted with the possiblity that the lives of the prisoners might eventually be their own — this is followed by an extensive and sympathetic discussion between the convicts and children.

Meanwhile, in Belleville, Ont., a liason committee of Belleville service agencies has been formed to arrange to send young potential or current offenders to the prison by the end of January.

Henry Grayman, co-ordinator of the local community-oriented prison program, which provides an alternative to jail by offering young offenders a chance to do volunteer work in the community, said the program will serve as a valuable experience for youths who are on the borderline of criminal involvement.

COLD RULING ON BARBECUES

VANCOUVER (UPC) — Barebecued meat merchants, who have been battling the government for months, have been told their goose is cooked and they must comply with government health regulations.

Health Minister Bob McClelland told Chinese Benevolent Association leader Victor Lee that local meat merchants will have to comply with government regulations if they want to sell barbecued meat.

"We can't make an exception for one group. You have to comply with the regulations," McClelland told Lee at a Social Credit Party mini-convention.

Chinatown merchants have complained that health regulations requiring them to store meat at temperatures below -40 C. or above 140 C. are impractical, and would both ruin their business and their meats, Lee said.

"We are very frustrated. I don't know what we will do," Lee said.

McClelland said the storage requirements are for health reasons but Lee said the Chinese merchants have had no complaints from customers in the 5,000-year-old business, and the government should make an exception for Chinese.

The pork war has raged for almost a year with delegations from the community travelling to both Ottawa and Victoria in an attempt to get the laws changed.

A Game Idea But Illegal

EDMONTON (CP) — Allan and Barbara Ogonoski thought it would be nice to offer patrons of their Noon Hour Restaurant chess, backgammon or maybe some cards to play over lunch.

Their idea got them a $75 fine for running a common gaming house.

The six-table restaurant had been open six weeks last November when police swooped in on astonished customers who had rented backgammon boards.

"A common gaming house . . . just those words make it sound so rotten," Mrs. Ogonoski said.

Her husband, 28, said the restaurant has been closed but he plans to open an arts and crafts shop at the location in a few weeks.

He's Weathered 27 Years

By PAT DUFOUR
Times Staff

Mr. Station Papa is swallowing the anchor.

Jack Scarlett retired Sunday after 27 years of bouncing around on weather ships at the station, 855 miles out in the Pacific from Esquimalt.

He began his stint with the weather ships aboard the converted frigate Stonetown in 1952, changing to the Quadra when she and her sister ship Vancouver took over Station Papa duties.

Scarlett, 57, of 1755 Lulie has no idea how many tours of duty he's done, but of 51 trips made by Quadra he's missed only one.

Strangely enough, he's no seaman.

He ended his seagoing career on Sunday as Quadra's chief meteorological officer.

He joined what is now the Atmospheric Environment Service of Canada in 1946, serving one year at Port Hardy and the remaining four years of his shore time pioneering weather stations in both the eastern and western Arctic.

Arctic life, he says, was not for the lazy. It was seven days a week, working on other basic chores when not on normal duties. These included erecting prefabricated buildings, helping to build airstrips and keeping the runways open.

He vividly recalls the chill he and the six others at the Mould Bay station in the eastern Arctic faced when it came time to clear 5,000 feet of runway.

Scarlett says his love of the sea made him decide to spend the rest of his time on the weather ships. He comes by it honestly. A British great-grandfather ran a fleet of fishing vessels.

Scarlett is B.C. born and raised. As a boy of about 6 he remembers the excitement in Barkerville during the days of the second gold rush in the 1930s. His father was gold commissioner.

Scarlett tried to join the Royal Canadian Navy during the Second World War. The navy, however, wouldn't recognize his radio technician training so he settled for the Royal Canadian Air Force.

Like many other Canadians, Scarlett was seconded to the Royal Air Force, serving mostly with night fighter squadrons in Britain, Africa and Italy.

The only time he was able to go to sea was when he served in an LST (Landing Ship Tanks), which was being used as a mobile radar station off the Anzio beaches.

That seatime came to a quick end when the LST was torpedoed and the crew rescued by a trawler.

"I've always had a very soft spot for trawlers since then," he says.

Soft as that spot may be, it would be hard to replace the affinity that has grown between Scarlett and the weather ships.

Readings that can be taken by balloons as high up as 100,000 feet have helped make Station Papa one of the most appreciated weather stations in the world, he says.

The crews that keep Quadra and Vancouver on station, despite high winds and rough seas, also claim Scarlett's respect.

"Like so many things Canadian, we tend to downrate them. They're doing a good job."

Mini-World Scheme Rejected

The proposal to establish a "mini-world" tourist attraction on the site of the former St. Ann's Academy has been rejected, Provincial Secretary Hugh Curtis said today.

Curtis has instructed the B.C. Buildings Corp. to break off further negotiations with the group of businessmen who sought a long-term lease to develop the site.

Curtis said the St. Ann's property is "priceless in terms of its relationship to Beacon Hill Park, the legislative precinct and the Inner Harbor."

Its historical value should be preserved for public use and enjoyment, he added.

First Area Meeting Tonight

Saanich council's 1979 series of five neighborhood meetings opens tonight with a regular council meeting at Claremont senior secondary school, 4980 Wesley.

Other meetings scheduled are Feb. 19, Mount Douglas senior secondary, 3970 Gordon Head; March 19, Cadboro Bay United Church, 2625 Arbutus; April 17, Spectrum community school, 957 West Burnside; May 21, Royal Oak school, 4564 West Saanich.

All meetings start at 7.30 p.m.

The policy of holding council meetings in various neighborhood centres was adopted last year and the meetings generally attracted good attendances.

Realtors Urge Retirement Pitch

By AL FORREST
Times Staff

The time has come for Victoria to pursue more retirement settlers as vigorously as it does tourists, Victoria Real Estate Board president Bev Highton said today.

"We should launch an advertising campaign, especially in Alberta and Ontario, and build up our population base," he said.

"Industrial development alone is not the answer. Some people object to industries moving here but who could object to grandmothers and granddads coming to Victoria?"

He said the project should be jointly financed by the Greater Victoria Chamber of Commerce, the industrial development commission and the provincial government.

The Victoria Real Estate Board would assist in any way it could, although it is not a marketing organization.

"The campaign should produce results because we have some good sales arguments now. For one thing our housing prices are lower than Alberta and Ontario — Victoria ranks about 27th among major Canadian cities in terms of house prices — and fewer Canadians will be wanting to retire to the U.S.

"With the dollar situation the way it is, it is costly to retire in places like California and Arizona. People will be looking for a Canadian retirement city and that means Victoria."

Highton said the board would put a high priority on getting this campaign under way.

The average property sold under the Multiple Listing Service increased by 3.4 per cent during 1978 and a similar minor increase is expected this year.

Without a population increase, there will be only moderate demand for additional buildings in 1979, he said.

No new shopping centres will be needed. Some districts might need community shopping facilities but regional centres, such as the one proposed for Broadmead, would be premature — barring a spectacular population increase this year.

"If someone wants to build a major shopping centre, that's fine. We wouldn't oppose it. We are simply stating that the need is not there at this time."

Likewise, there is no demand for additional apartment buildings at this time — except at prime locations. While older apartments are full, new ones with high rents have vacancy rates higher than owners would like, he said. Apartments in Esquimalt in particular have a vacancy problem.

Tax Credit Workshop

The Victoria taxation office will hold a special workshop Wednesday to train volunteers from organizations, groups or offices to answer questions regarding the child tax credit.

The new credit, which can be as much as $200 per child, is available for the 1978 tax year and a special tax form and information on the credit will be sent along with the January family allowance cheques.

Betty Newton, public relations officer for the Victoria taxation office, said today the tax credit can only be claimed by the person who receives the family allowance, in most cases the mother.

Therefore, there are going to be a lot of people who have to fill out an income tax form for the first time in order to receive the credit, she said.

"We are expecting at least two million new filers across Canada," Mrs. Newton said.

She is not certain what the figure will be for Greater Victoria.

Since an incomplete or incorrect tax form can cause delays in payment, the Victoria taxation office will hold the workshop at St. John's Church Crypt, 1611 Quadra, at 7:30 p.m.to train volunteers who can help people fill out the form properly.

Those families with a maximum $18,000 net income will be eligible for the $200. Family income over that amount will reduce the credit depending on the number of children.

Youth, 16, Held After Shot Fired

A 16-year-old was arrested by Victoria police following an incident in which a shot was fired early today in the Burnside district.

Two companions, believed to be armed, are sought by police.

Officers were called to the Mayfair Motel, 650 Speed, shortly after 2 a.m. where manager Tae Kwon struggled with three young people who had been refused accommodation.

He told police they were causing a disturbance and he turned them away. Hearing a bang just outside, Kwon said he thought they had smashed something and he ran out and grabbed two of them while the third struggled to get them free.

Two escaped but Kwon held the third for police who had been called by a cab driver who noticed the disturbance.

At that point Liam Rutherford, an occupant of an adjoining unit in the motel, ran out and said he had been awakened by a bullet crashing through his room just missing his head and lodging in an opposite wall.

Kwon said the youngster he caught asked to use a washroom because he felt sick, and when he checked the room later he found a loaded .38 Colt army special pistol and holster.

It was believed the gun was one of three stolen earlier that night in a break-in at the SPCA, 3150 Napier.

The juvenile faces charges of breaking, entering and theft, possession of stolen property, possession of an unregistered restricted weapon and discharging a firearm.

City police said they are investigating 17 weekend burglaries .

Strangling Suspect In Court Tuesday

Tommy Ross, 19, arrested in Los Angeles and charged with first-degree murder in the strangling of a Victoria woman last May, will appear before a provincial court judge here Tuesday.

In an unusual development Saturday, Ross, an American, waived his right to an extradition hearing and returned to Victoria with detectives Einar Hemstad and Douglas Richardson of the city police.

Ross was charged in the May 14 death of Janice Forbes, 26, in her Queens Avenue apartment.

He arrived here Saturday from California where he was being held on charges of burglary and attempted rape.

Insp. Angus Stewart said the accused and American authorities had been co-operative. He said it is the first time he can recall that extradition has been waived in these circumstances.

In addition, Stewart said, the Los Angeles court which had already committed Ross for trial, agreed to drop proceedings, and Los Angeles police waived their charge in favor of the Victoria police.

The accused had been interviewed by police from various parts of the Pacific Coast and northwestern states in connection with assaults and murders in the past two years. Police in Port Angeles had laid a charge against Ross for a murder April 24, 1978, and were planning interstate extradition when the Victoria warrant was served.

Ross will be charged formally Tuesday when the date for a preliminary hearing is expected to be set.

Ferry Back On Run

The Mayne Queen ferry was back in service at 5:30 a.m. Sunday after a broken timing chain in one of her engines forced her off normal runs on Saturday.

B.C. Ferry Corporation traffic manager Bill Bouchard said today the trouble began Friday evening.

After docking at Mayne Island, she limped back to Swartz Bay on one engine, unable to make her next stop to Saturna Island.

Two Saturna Island residents aboard the ferry were lodged on Mayne Island and five mainland visitors, who intended to visit Saturna, were brought back to Swartz Bay on the Mayne Queen. They were put up at the Sidney Hotel and returned to Vancouver on Saturday.

A technician, who had travelled to Saturna on Friday afternoon, chose to stay with his vehicle, Bouchard said.

Seizure Suspected

A 57-year-old city man died in his car when it swerved off the street, went through two yards and came to rest against a retaining wall at about 4 a.m. today.

Police said the man, who was not identified, may have suffered a seizure before losing control of the vehicle. He was driving alone at Ryan and Roseberry.

Home Saved By Detector

The chief said the fire broke out in a downstairs room where the heater had been lit then left unattended just before 6 p.m.

Leeke said wood panelling near a smoke pipe was scorched because the pipe had been installed closer than the required 18 inches clearance from combustible material.

He said it serves as a warning to others who may be using the increasingly popular wood burners, and to the efficacy of smoke detectors:

"It probably saved this guy's house. I wouldn't be without one in my house," Leeke said.

Oak Bay firemen will advise residents on the proper installation of solid fuel burners, and will inspect them before they are fired up.

Boat Sinks, Man Arrested

An American citizen is being held by Colwood RCMP following the sinking of a gillnetter stolen from Bellingham on the weekend.

Police were alerted about 7.30 a.m. today by a foreman at Construction Aggregates gravel pit at Metchosin who arrived for work and found a man sleeping in a shed.

A 34-year-old U.S. citizen was taken into custody.

RCMP said they associated him with a 32-foot fishing vessel found grounded in four feet of water at Esquimalt Lagoon Sunday morning. The vessel was about 15 feet offshore with cabin and below decks filled with water. water.

Russell Seelye of Bellingham had reported the vessel stolen Saturday.

So Who Wants to Loaf on Hot Beach?

ABOUT THIS TIME OF year, I make my first tentative approach to spring.

"Won't be long now," I announced as I gazed out of our dining-room window. "There's actually heat to that sunshine."

Win replied briskly, "You're standing over the hot air register."

She looked out to the January scene. My chopping block and our picnic table were mounded with snow. Atop our clothes-line post, Dum-dum the resident seagull stood on one chilled red foot while he warmed the other in his belly-feathers.

Win returned to one of the winter rites that seem to be reserved for this bleak hiatus between the end of one year and the springtime of another.

Some people call this "Squaring Up Accounts." Others refer to it more formally as "Getting the Books in Order." In any case, it is born of a yearning to plunge into the new year in good marching trim, with everything neat and tidy. It calls for a combing through of bills to make sure that all are paid, and a rigorous bank-book checking of outgo against input.

What this drill chiefly accomplishes is to impress on us that once again, we have spent much too much on Christmas. That in turn leads to another manifestation reserved for this dragging, sagging time of year.

"Do you know how much we spent?" Win asked, pencil eraser poised over her merciless little pocket calculator.

"I'm not sure I want to know," I told her.

Win punched figures. She announced a total. I reared back in disbelief.

"That settles that," Win said cheerfully. "Now we start watching our expenses."

Lunch-time drew near. I found myself, as usual, in good appetite.

"You remember those avocado and ham and cheese sandwiches you made in Christmas week?" I said. "Boy, were they ever good!"

Win, busy at her kitchen counter, ignored my lead-pipe hint. I tried again.

"Or maybe there are a few leftover sausage rolls," I suggested hopefully.

With a precise and decisive motion, Win set a saucepan on a front stove-burner.

"What we're having," she said, "is turkey soup. I found a new recipe for it. I think you'll like it."

Any Doubting Thomas who scoffs at the miracle of the loaves and fishes need only consider the mileage that a housewife is able to obtain from a turkey carcass.

But as matters turned out, the new turkey soup recipe — which struck me as remarkably like Win's old recipe — wasn't half bad.

I cleaned up my bowl and offered it for a second helping. But Win, smiling, turned me down with a shake of her head.

"This is a wonderful time to take off a few pounds," she said cheerfully. "By the end of February, you'll be able to wear your blue suit again."

All of which reminds me that generous December is behind us, and that the winds of March and a new-budded world are impossibly far ahead.

In between stretches winter, from which there is no escape.

At this point, my attention was distracted by the arrival of a taxi at the home of neighbors down the road.

"Ed's car must have broken down," I observed to Win.

Here in the country, we keep close and friendly track of each other's comings and goings. We watched with interest as Ed and his wife came out of the house, carrying suitcases, and headed for the taxi. The driver tagged after them with another couple of bags.

"I just remembered," Win told me. "Myra said they were going to Hawaii."

"Oh well," I said without conviction, "who wants to be getting sand-fly bites on a hot beach?"

The taxi departed. I watched it go, whistling, Sweet Leilani off-key.

Ah, well, in a few weeks, if the books shape up, maybe we can manage a day or two in Victoria.

Sunday Is Sweet, But Saturday Sad

Victoria Cougars went out Sunday to continue their new-found domination over New Westminster Bruins in this Western Hockey League season, but that may be small consolation to the many Vancouver Island hockey fans who were deprived of a Saturday game between the Western Division rivals.

Saturday's game at Memorial Arena was called off approximately 45 minutes before its scheduled 8:30 start when dense fog in the Vancouver area prevented New Westminster's chartered aircraft from taking off.

The Cougars, who always travel by ferry, kept their appointment in New Westminster's Queen's Park Arena on Sunday. Gladly, as it turned out.

Spotting the Bruins the first goal, the Cougars came back to score a 2-1 victory on scoring efforts by Torrie Robertson and Mike Shields and the brilliant goaltending of Steve Amiss.

It marked the fourth straight time Cougars have beaten New Westminster, all by one-goal margins. Of greater delight to the Cougars was the fact it also was the third straight victory in Queen's Park, boosting second-place Victoria four points ahead of the third-place Bruins.

While Sunday's victory was sweet, Saturday's postponement may prove to be costly to the Cougar team.

An estimated 1,500 fans were already in the Blanshard street building when the postponement was announced. Arena manager John Bate estimates that a crowd of about 4,000 — the largest of the season — was anticipated.

"And there is no way the Cougars will make up for it," he added, "simply because there are no Saturdays left in which to accomodate the postponement. No mid-week game will draw as much because the out-of-town fans coming Saturday may not be back."

Tickets had been reserved for a busload of fans from Fuller Lake, two busloads from Nanaimo and, ironically, two from New Westminster. The Bruin followers, who travelled by ferry, were among the most disappointed. In addition, said Bate, there were many individual reservations made from Duncan, Ladysmith, Chemainus and from as far north as Campbell River.

Bate also hinted the Cougars may have to be assessed rental costs as if the game were played. Because of the prospects of a large turnout, extra staff, all on a four-hour call, had been brought in.

A decision may be made today but Bate feels the Cougars should pass on the charges, if they are levied, to the New Westminster club.

"There have been only two such postponements in Victoria, and the Bruins have been responsible for both," Bate noted. "There is no excuse for it."

Manager-coach (and part-owner) Jack Shupe was disappointed with Saturday's turn of events and conceded "we're stuck with the bills."

Team governor Paul Panchyshyn was not available for comment. Ironically, Panchyshyn was on the mainland and had intended to fly to Victoria with the Bruins. Like the Bruins, he never made it.

New Westminster owner and coach Ernie McLean, when asked Sunday if his club would be willing to reimburse the Cougars for any extra charges incurred, he replied: "There is nothing in the constitution to cover situations created by an act of God.

"Besides, the Cougars should be grateful. We gave them two points today (Sunday). If we would have played — Saturday, they wouldn't have beat us."

The Bruins tried, and would have settled for a tie but Amiss peserved victory with a spectacular piece of robbery in the dying seconds. With goalie Tom Semenchuk out in favor of an extra attacker, and a crowd of 3,152 in a lather, Bruin winger John Ogrodnick fired a shot that might have tied it. Somehow, Amiss got his glove on the shot.

It was the most spectacular, but Amiss also came up with other eye-openers in the 36 shots he stopped. He conceded a goal to Doug Hall at the 2:57 mark of the first period but was unbeatable for the remaining 57 minutes.

Robertson tied the game in the second period with his 14th of the season and Shields, a 19-year-old winger who has turned things around after a disappoining first-half season, popped in the winner with less than six minutes left.

It was Shields' fourth goal in two games — or sixth in three, if you want to include Cougars' 11-1 exhibition victory over a Czechoslovakian junior team last Thursday.

The Bruins were without winger Rod Clavette, obtained from Victoria last Wednesday in a trade for Randy Irving. Clavette suffered an injury to ligaments in his ankle in a game at Seattle Friday and will be out for three weeks.

CAHA VERDICT BOOSTS CUP TOURNEY CHANCES

OTTAWA (CP) — The Canada Cup international hockey tournament moved a step closer to reality Sunday following a meeting of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association.

An association news release said the meeting had approved a suggestion that Guenther Sabetzki, president of the International Ice Hockey Federation which rules all amateur hockey in the world, should have approval rights on all international tournament and exchange games involving the National Hockey League and the World Hockey Association.

With Alan Eagleson, chairman of Hockey Canada's international committee, having suggested the move to Sabetzki, the CAHA decision appears to have solved the festering problem of jurisdiction over events involving the professional leagues.

The CAHA and Hockey Canada have been at odds for months over which had representation rights for the professional leagues when they became involved in international competition.

To this point the CAHA, the national ruling organization for amateur hockey, has been Canada's international spokesman through its membership in the IIHF.

At a June meeting of the IIHF in Italy, agreement was reached that Hockey Canada would have responsibility through 1983 for Canadian professional representation in international hockey.

But an October meeting of the CAHA concluded that the agreement included a rider that the CAHA would be able to step in if Hockey Canada arrangements interfered with such CAHA plans as national championships.

This CAHA reading of the agreement had led to a rift between the two Canadian groups and threats that the Canada Cup series would not be held. Also affected would have been the 1980 Winter Olympics and the 1981 and 1982 world championships.

The news release said Gordon Renwick, CAHA president, was sending a telegram with the meeting decision to federal Sports Minister Iona Campagnolo who it had been suggested should attend a meeting of the IIHF this month in Finland to get Hockey Canada its own seat on the federation so it could deal directly with the world organization.

Veterans Dominate Consol Playdowns

By BILL WALKER
Times Staff

The field is set for the Vancouver Island men's Consols playdowns at Lake Cowichan in two weeks and it promises to be a highly competitive match-up judging by the list of qualifiers from the South and North Island playoffs on the weekend.

Experience is mostly the keynote from both sections, especially the South.

In the South playoff at the Racquet Club, the four qualifiers were:

Bob Gallaugher of Playland and Steve Skillings of Victoria Club, the "A" side winners, and Keith Dagg of Victoria Club and Jack Anderson of Juan de Fuca, the "B" side representatives.

In the North at Comox, the qualifiers were:

George Ziolkowksi of Campbell River and Glen Harper of Duncan, the "A" event winners, and Steve Williams of Duncan and Ivan Carlisle of Port Alberni, the "B" side champions.

The Island playoff at Lake Cowichan is an eight-rink, double-loss event with two rinks to qualify for the Pacific Coast championship at Duncan, Feb. 2-4.

For Gallaugher, it is a return to the competition he dominated a few years ago. He defeated Anderson 8-5 in Sunday's "A" final. Earlier he had beaten Bill Morris of Juan de Fuca, Jim Fennell of Victoria and Don Matheson of the Racquet Club on his way to the final.

Skillings had a tougher time getting by Dagg in the other half of the "A" final and had to make a draw to the four foot for the winning point in the 10th end as he scored two in an 8-7 victory.

Skillings' earlier wins had been against Bart Longmore of Playland, Bob Hawkes of the Racquet Club and Jim Gallaugher of Playland.

In the "B" playoff, it was Dagg's turn for heroics. He drew the button on last rock while facing two counters to edge Hawkes 4-3.

Anderson, sometimes known as Whistlin' Jack, was the surprise of the competition and didn't make many mistakes as he edged Jim Gallaugher of Playland 6-4 in the other "B" final. Anderson needed a takeout on last rock to preserve the win. He got it and stuck for the extra point.

Jim Gallaugher earlier had edged Barry Harvey of Playland 4-3 in an extra-end "B" semi-final battle in which six ends were blanked. Hawkes eliminated Len Stewart of Juan de Fuca 9-6 after getting away to a 5-0 lead after two ends.

The Dagg-Hawkes playoff game saw Dagg take a 2-0 lead after two with Hawkes getting even with singles on the sixth and seventh. Dagg got one on the eighth and Hawkes a single on the ninth to set the stage for the final end.

Against Skillings, Dagg had come from behind a 4-1 deficit to score three on the fifth and then steal singles on the sixth and seventh for a 6-4 lead.

Skillings got two back on the eighth and Dagg a single on the ninth to be one up coming home. A couple of misses gave Skillings the only break he was looking for and he pounced on it, drawing to the four foot for the winning point with the tie assured.

In downing Anderson, Bob Gallaugher took the lead early with a single in the first and a steal of two in the second. He was ahead 5-1 after five and always in command.

Anderson then got even against the other half of the Gallaugher clan, Jim, by going in front 4-2 in the fourth end and staying on top until the finish. He curled 90 per cent in the victory.

Dagg actually is the only repeater for the South from last year. Skillings was in the PCCA final but he qualified out of the Totem for that honor. Gallaugher was in the Island final the last time in 1976. Dagg has been there many times while Anderson is the Legion champion from this area and curled well, as did his rink.

In the North playoff, Harper, twice a former Brier competitor, defeated his Duncan clubmate, Williams, 7-6 in one "A" final, while Ziolkowski downed Jack Taylor of Nanaimo 6-4 in the other.

In the "B" finals, Carlisle scored the winning point on the 10th end to get by Taylor 7-6 while Williams downed Larry Worledge of Comox 5-2. Carlisle has qualified for the Island before, as has Harper, naturally, while Ziolkowski and Williams are the newcomers.

Personnel of Rinks In Island Curling Final

List of personnel on rinks qualifying for Island men's curling playdowns at Lake Cowichan, Jan. 26-28, follows:

OUT OF REACH for harried Ranger goalie John Davidson, puck nestles in net for one of three goals scored by Atlanta Flames during first period of National Hockey League game Sunday night in New York. Davidson was more successful in later action and Rangers bounced back to subdue Flames 6-4.

Murdoch Breaks Out To Lead Ranger Rally

By The Canadian Press

New York Rangers played their ace in the hole on Sunday and Atlanta Flames didn't have a trump card.

Don Murdoch, in only his second game after a 40-game suspension for drug possession, got three third-period goals as he led the Rangers to a 6-4 National Hockey League victory.

"With Murdoch back and doing what he is capable of doing, it's like an ace in the hole for us," said Rangers' goalie John Davidson.

"It took about a thousand pounds of pressure off me when I got that first goal," Murdoch said. "It was pretty exciting for it to be just my second game and see all those guys come off the bench and slap me on the back. They're not about to ship me out of this league."

The Rangers were trailing 4-1 when the right winger found the range.

"It's one thing to come back and score three goals," Murdoch said. "But to beat Atlanta in this building is really something."

The win was New York's sixth in a row.

Murdoch's first goal of the night, and the season, was a 40-foot slap shot that hit Flames' goalie Dan Bouchard and trickled into the net.

Then he beat Bouchard with a shot from the left faceoff circle and repeated from the same spot. Phil Esposito assisted on all three goals and got one of his own with an assist from Murdoch.

Murdoch was suspended for the season for possession of cocaine, but late last month the suspension was cut to 40 games.

In other games Sunday, Pittsburgh Penguins edged Buffalo Sabres 5-4, Washington Capitals beat Vancouver Canucks 5-3, Los Angeles Kings defeated Boston Bruins 6-3 and Philadelphia Flyers tied New York Islanders 1-1.

A game in Chicago between Toronto Maple Leafs and the Black Hawks was postponed to Feb. 12. The Hawks were unable to get home after a Saturday night game in Bloomington.

On Saturday, Montreal Canadiens downed Buffalo 5-2, Toronto beat Colorado Rockies 4-2, Pittsburgh beat Boston 5-3, Los Angeles beat Detroit 7-3, Minnesota North Stars beat Chicago 4-3 and Vancouver tied St. Louis 3-3.

The Flames started out like they were going to wrap it up and go home as Guy Chouinard, Bob MacMillan and Jean Pronovost all scored first period goals.

Esposito scored in the second period, but Tom Lysiak got the three-goal margin back when Bobby LaLonde's long shot bounced off his skate and past Davidson.

Ulf Nilsson got a third-period goal for the Rangers and Ron Duguay ended the scoring by hitting the empty Flames net from the blue line with 31 seconds left.

Rookie Gary Rissling, playing just his seventh game, scored the winning goal on a power play in the third period and defenceman Rick Green added the clinching goal less than two minutes later as the Capitals downed the Canucks.

Los Angeles' victory marked the first time this season Boston has lost two in a row and was the Bruins' first home loss in 13 games.

PENALTY RECORD TOPPED

PORT HURON, Mich. (AP) — Fourteen players were ejected and there were 291 minutes in penalties Saturday night as Port Huron Flags defeated Flint Generals 6-4 in an International Hockey League game.

Eight players from Flint and six from Port Huron were given misconduct penalties and kicked out of the game because of a brawl.

The Flags had 29 penalties to set an IHL record and Flint had 28 to tie the mark, set previously by Columbus Checkers against Muskegon Mohawks in 1967.

Burton Wins With Flourish

The Dianne Burton rink of Duncan saved its best for the last in the Vancouver Island District ladies' playdowns at Playland Curling Club Sunday.

Trailing 8-4 going into the final end against Frankie Doan of Nanaimo, Burton scored a four ender to draw even and then stole a single point in the extra end to defeat Doan 9-8 in the A-B final of the double-loss tournament.

Burton now qualifies for the provincial championships at the McPherson Club in Burnaby, Feb. 2-6.

Burton earlier defeated Ruby Niemeyer of Victoria Curling Club 9-8, Joy Hoole of Juan de Fuca 8-6 and Sharon Hastings of Comox 7-5.

Niemeyer scored a 10-7 victory over Doan earlier on Sunday after getting by a stubborn Nancy Campbell of Oak Bay 10-8 on Saturday night.

Niemeyer also defeated Marg Brillinger of Esquimalt 7-3 while Campbell shocked former B.C. champion Karen Kaese 9-7.

Doan won the "A" final over Houle 11-6 after edging Burton 7-6 in the semi-final while Houle edged Hastings 7-6 in the other semi-final.

Meanwhile, the Island girls' championship came to Oak Bay when the Sherri Bath rink defeated defending champion Liz Hollands of Duncan 8-4 in a playoff.

Hollands had forced the extra game with a 7-5 victory over Bath earlier in the day.

In other games Bath got by Becky Sundstrum of Juan de Fuca 10-6, Hollands defeated Tracy Keizer of Powell River 9-8 and Sundstrum blanked Brenda Devitt of Victoria 14-0.

In the "A" side of the competition, Bath had defeated Hollands 8-2 in the semifinals and Keizer had downed Devitt 11-1. Bath won the "A" playoff from Keizer 8-5.

Remember When Jets Were Fancy?

By The Canadian Press

The other day, Winnipeg Jets coach Larry Hillman was looking at the team picture of the 1978 World Hockey Association championship squad and only 10 of the 25 men pictured were still wearing the Jets' uniform.

"It was just about this time last season that we made our run for first place," Hillman said following his team's fifth straight win, a 4-2 verdict Sunday over New England Whalers.

First-period goals by Morris Lukowich, Barry Long and Peter Sullivan gave the Jets a 3-0 lead from which the Whalers could not recover. Kent Nilsson got the other Winnipeg goal.

"We're not the fancy team we were last year," added Hillman. "And we haven't played anywhere near our potential up until about 10 games ago."

In beating New England, the Jets now own an amazing 17-2-2 record over the Whalers dating back to Dec. 2, 1977, and have moved from nine points behind in the standings to within one point of the second-place Whalers and three-behind league-leading Quebec Nordiques, who had their scheduled game Sunday at home to Edmonton Oilers postponed because of weather conditions.

In Sunday's only other game, Cincinnati Stingers downed Birmingham Bulls 4-2. On Saturday, Edmonton blanked New England 3-0, while Winnipeg dumped Birmingham 3-1.

No Invitation for Diane

TORONTO (CP) — The Sports Federation of Canada had its awards presentations for amateur excellence at the Canadian Sports Hall of Fame Saturday night, but several of the recipients were unable to appear.

Pentathlete Diane Jones-Konihowski of Edmonton and golfer Cathy Sherk of Fonthill, Ont., co-winners of the Velma Springstead Trophy as the outstanding female athletes, were no-shows at the ceremonies as was the outstanding male, swimmer Graham Smith of Edmonton who won six gold medals at the Commonwealth Games in August.

Organizers were unable to explain Jones-Konihowski's absence, but Sherk was on a mini-pro tour in Florida working towards her LPGA tour card, and Smith was competing for his California university team.

Jones-Konihowski said Sunday she never did receive an invitation from the federation to attend the Toronto function although she was aware it was on through press clippings from friends in that city.

"Near the end of the week I was joking about it, saying 'I wonder if they messed it up.' But now it isn't so funny."

Toronto basketball star Leo Rautins, an all-star at the world championships and Canada's leading scorer at the Commonwealth championships, was also missing.

Federation award-winners that did appear were synchronized swimmer Helen Vanderburg of Calgary, who won the Elaine Tanner Trophy as Canada's outstanding young female athlete of 1978, and Liz Ashton of Toronto, representing Canada's world champion three-day event equestrian team.

Konihowski, a gold medallist at the Commonwealth and ranked No. 3 pentathlete in the world in 1978, and Smith were also recipients at the federation ceremonies of the first formal awards presented by The Canadian Press.

CP's national polls for outstanding female and male athletes, which have been ongoing since 1932, were announced in December.

A $120,000 Weekend For Ambitious McEnroe

NEW YORK (AP) — Although Arthur Ashe had dragged him through three hours of agonizingly-close tennis, the final three games always in doubt, John McEnroe said he would have preferred to play someone better.

"It would have been nicer to beat Connors or one of the top players," said McEnroe after scoring a 6-7, 6-3, 7-5 triumph in Sunday's final of the $400,000 Grand Prix Masters, the richest event in the sport.

McEnroe received $100,000 for the victory. He and Peter Fleming won the doubles final the night before over Wojtek Fibak and Tom Okker. So the 19-year-old's haul for the weekend was $120,000, plus another $116,000 for being one of the points leaders on the Grand Prix tour last year.

Ashe won $64,000, plus a $50,000 points bonus. Brian Gottfried beat Eddie Dibbs 6-4, 7-6 for third place and $40,000. Dibbs won $32,000.

The 35-year-old Ashe was the overwhelming favorite of the crowd of 17,000 at Madison Square Garden. He was prepared, eager, polite and well-controlled throughout, as he put McEnroe through his paces.

McEnroe, who had bad lapses in timing, judgment and concentration, was sulky, sometimes desperate, sometimes overconfident.

Ashe had double match point in the 10th game of the final set, a point of some controversy later.

Ashe hit a backhand into the net to spoil his first match point. On the second he hit a return for an apparent winner—but as he finished the rally, the service line judge uttered a late call of fault on McEnroe's serve.

"I will bet all the money I have got it was a good serve," said Ashe. "Having looked at the tape, I am still convinced it was a good serve. But the guy called a fault and it's all history."

Ashe did not make a scene at the time, though.

McEnroe had had his shot at defending champion Jimmy Connors last week, but Connors defaulted from their second-round match with a blistered foot. McEnroe was leading 7-5, 3-0 at the time.

There could not have been a much tougher test of McEnroe than the one provided by Ashe, the last man to qualify for the eight-man round robin and whom McEnroe beat easily in the first round. Ashe isn't one of the top 10 players in the world, but he is No. 13, and that after starting 1978 at No. 257.

He had dire problems with his service and came up short on those traits for which he is becoming well-known — quickness, agility and his ground srokes.

After McEnroe broke in the third game of the opening set, games went with service until the 10th. He had triple set point and blew it with three consecutive double faults.

"The first double fault I just shrugged off," said McEnroe. "I told myself that I had to get the third one in, but then I began thinking too much about the position, and I was just mixing myself up. It just turned out to be a lousy game."

"I'm well aware it's still under warranty. So what?"

Kansas City Enjoying The Great Turnaround

By The Associated Press

Who are these Kansas City Kings and what are they doing atop the Midwest Division of the National Basketball Association?

Is this the same team that muddled through the final half of last season without a regular coach?

The same team that clumped to a last-place finish, 17 games behind division-winning Denver Nuggets?

The same team that made its No. 1 draft choice a player who, claiming slavery was out of style, said he had no intention of playing in Kansas City?

The answers to the last three questions are simple enough—yes, yes and yes.

However, that first one requires a more detailed explanation, although rookie guard Phil Ford and coach Cotton Fitzsimmons may be the biggest reasons in the Kings' resurgence.

"The glue, I think, is Ford," says Joe Axelson, president and general manager of the Kings. "And Cotton Fitzsimmons deserves a lot of credit for the team attitude, approach and the team defence."

Kansas City crawled home with a 31-51 record last season, and spent the last half experimenting under interim coach Larry Staverman.

But the Kings, despite dire pre-season forecasts, are ripping along with a 25-16 record midway into the 1978-79 campaign. They have been on top the Midwest Division since Nov. 17.

They have won nine games on the road, matching their total for all last season. Their longest losing streak is two games, which has happened three times.

"Last year they used to look for ways to lose games," said Fitzsimmons. "This year, we keep finding ways to win."

Ford, the 6-foot-2 North Carolina product chosen No. 2 in the draft by Kansas City, is among the NBA leaders in assists and steals, and is looking at rookie-mf-the-year honors.

Fitzsimmons, who took over the Kansas City reins in May, has turned the Kings from a stolid, methodical team into a running, fast-paced outfit that emphasizes defence and balance.

Kansas City was without a point guard, but their draft choices from previous deals allowed them to pick second in two consecutive drafts. They selected Otis Birdsong in 1977 and Ford in 1978.

Ford, who had been told that Philadelphia was going to trade for the right to draft him, initially said he would not play for Kansas City.

"They abolished slavery 100 years ago," he said at that time. "I don't like being told where I can live and who I have to work for."

But Axelson persisted through what he calls the toughest contract talks of his career and Ford signed a a five-year pact.

Coach Quits Saudi Squad

JIDDA, Saudi Arabia (AP) — Ronnie Allen, the British coach of Saudi Arabia's national soccer team, has resigned, a spokesman for the Saudi Football Federation has announced.

The announcement gave "family matters which prevent him from continuing service in Saudi Arabia" as reason for Allen's resignation.

DOUBLE SETBACK SUFFERED IN SEATTLE

DataTech Jolted

SEATTLE — Victoria DataTech suffered a double setback in its bid to capture the championship of the Northwest International Senior Men's Basketball League.

Renton Roadrunners edged DataTech 99-96 Saturday and Brewster Heights Packing further wrecked the Victorians road trip by scoring a 108-95 triumph Sunday.

Turnovers, DataTech had 20 in the first half, proved the deciding factor Saturday while poor shooting in the second half brought Sunday's defeat.

Brewster, which handed Victoria its first league defeat last week, led 55-51 at the break but DataTech was ahead 71-67 when the roof fell in midway through the second half.

Brewster rattled off 13 straight points to build a comfortable lead and DataTech never got closer than six points the rest of the way.

Billy Loos scored 16 points in the first 10 minutes for DataTech and led the club with 27 for the game. Varick Cutler chipped in 21, Brian McKenzie scored 16, Mike Gains contributed 11, Ken Shields scored eight points, Chris Hall scored four and Don Burrows, Dave Mulcahy and Brian Brumwell scored two each.

DataTech swept a doubleheader from Renton earlier this season but it was a different flock of Roadrunners on the floor Saturday. Larry Beck has replaced Joe Puhych as coach and had five new players, four of them starters, in the lineup.

Cutler scored 32 points, Mulcahy managed 18, Loos scored 16, McKenzie scored 14, Dave Morgan added eightl and Hall and Gains scored four each.

DataTech has no games scheduled this weekend but manager Tom Child expects to arrange an exhibition game against a Vancouver club for Saturday in Victoria.

Its next league games are January 28th and 29th at Yakima.

DataTech is now 5-3 while Renton is 2-4, Brewster is 3-4 and Yakima is 0-4. Defending champion Seattle Dynasties defeated Renton in their lone game to date.

City Athletes Earn Thirds

SEATTLE — Two members of the Victoria Track Club collected third-place finishes Sunday at the annual Husky all-comers track and field meet at the University of Washington.

Wendy Davies finished third in the 440 yards and Allan Sheridan was third in the 60-yard hurdles.

Bellvue Club Nips Olympics

Bellvue Swim Club from Washington State edged Victoria Amateur Swim Club Olympics in a dual meet Saturday at Crystal Pool.

Bellvue, competing the metric system of measurement for the first time, chalked up 270 points while the host club scored 256.

Victoria dominated the relay events but Bellvue gained its advantage in the individual races.

A's Lose Ground To Three Rivals

Victoria West, Cosmopolitan Royals and UVic Vikings maintained their respective positions with victories in first division action at the weekend in the Vancouver Island Soccer League.

Wests retained the runner-up spot by blanking Nanaimo United 4-0 at Heywood Avenue Park and Vikings kept a hold on fourth place by tripping Gorge 3-1 at Topaz Park in the only two matches played Sunday.

On Saturday, the third-place Royals edged Athletics 2-1 at Royal Athletic Park. It was the second loss of the season for the leaders — and both were to Royals by the same score.

Garnet Moen got Wests started with a goal at the 15-minute mark, Steve Moss added another on a penalty shot five minutes later and Robbie Williams closed out first-half scoring at 35 minutes. Bobby Duncan completed the scoring list at 62 minutes and goalie Jim de Goede earned the shutout.

Dave Secco (25 minutes) and Mark Yawney (35) gave Vikings a 2-0 lead at half time. Goran Nehinagic got one back for Gorge at 60 minutes but Peter Zachary tucked the win away for the UVic club at the 75-minute mark.

Mark Robb gave Athletics the lead at 33 minutes after collecting a pass from Ash Douglass. But Bob Mackie scored the equalizer for Royals on a free kick at 70 minutes and Dean St. Pierre came up with the winning goal from a goalmouth scramble two minutes later.

Mainland Club Topples JBAA

Vancouver Rowing Club upset James Bay Athletic Association, the current provincial rugby champion, 10-4 Saturday at Macdonald Park to end the Victoria squad's long-standing domination in their annual Cox Cup match.

In regular Vancouver Island Union second-division games, Saanich Velox tripped Royal Roads 14-7 and Nanaimo Hornets defeated Castaways 16-9.

Scorers:

SECOND DIVISION

VELOX (14) — John Hume try, Gord Lidster try, Paul Connolly try, Mark Hume conversion; ROYAL ROADS (7) — Bill Pigden try, Steve Kerr penalty goal.

THIRD DIVISION

Martina Clips Chris in Final

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — Martina Navratilova held off a second-set rally by Chris Evert on Sunday night to beat her arch rival 7-5, 7-5 and win a $125,000 women's tennis tournament at the Oakland Coliseum Arena.

It was the top-seeded Navratalova's first victory in four matches since the Czechoslovakian defector won the Wimbledon title last July.

Navratilova won the first set by breaking the No. 2-seeded Evert's service three times and holding her own in the 12th game.

She jumped to a 4-0 lead in the second set, but then ran into trouble.

Evert, who owned a 23-6 career advantage over Navratilova going into the match, proceeded to break her opponent's service twice and hold her own three times, surging ahead 5-4.

It was in the 10th game that Navratilova came alive after falling behind 30-40.

Evert won the first point of her service after that but then lost the next four, including two double faults, to fall behind again, 5-6.

In the final game, Navratilova lost the first point, won the next three, double-faulted, and then forced Evert to hit into the net to win the match and the $24,000 first prize.

Willows Tourney

Willows girls edged Monterey rivals 16-14 in overtime, but the host boys' squad dropped a 36-25 decision to Claremont in the finals of the seventh annual Willows elementary school basketball tournament.

Vancouver Player Earns $6,000 Prize

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (CP) — Lindsay Myers of Vancouver defeated Dave Peck of El Paso, Texas, 21-7, 21-8 Saturday night to win the $6,000 first prize in an international racquetball tournament.

AMERICAN DEFEATS CHAMPION

HUNTER MOUNTAIN, N.Y. (CP) — Lonny Vanatta of the United States defeated world champion Andre Arnold of Austria in the finals the world pro ski racing slalom here.

The 21-year-old from Steamboat Springs, Colo., collected $5,400 in prize money in his first victory after two years of competition on the circuit and an extra $5,000 in bonus money.

Victory moved Vanatta into fourth place in the over-all standings, topped by Arnold, who has earned $28,275 this season.

An 'Unpardonable Error' Costs Read Cup Triumph

CRANS-MONTANA, Switzerland (CP) — Tonin Buergler and Peter Mueller, a pair of young Swiss racers, finished one-two in the men's World Cup ski downhill event Sunday when a glaring error at the top of the run cost Calgary's Ken Read his third victory of the season.

Buergler clocked one minute, 58.19 seconds on the 3,520-metre long track with a vertical drop of 990 metres and 30 gates. Mueller was timed in 1:58.43.

Read finished third in 1:59.10, while two other Canadians — Steve Podborski of Toronto, last week's winner in Morzine, France, after Read was disqualified for wearing a non-regulation suit, and Dave Murray of Abbotsford — also finished among the top 10 and seven Canadian skiers finished in the top 23.

Podborski took seventh place with a time of 2:00.24 and Murray was ninth in 2:00.60. Austrian Werner Grissmann was fourth in 1:59.57, followed by Philippe Roux of Switzerland, 2:00.15; Leonard Stock, Austria, 2:00.23; Podborski; Giuliano Giardini, Italy, 2:00.42; Murray, and Erwin Josi of Switzerland, 2:00.65, to complete the top 10.

Two members of the Canadian downhill training squad, Tim Gilhooly of Fort St. John, and Mike Irwin of Calgary, were tied for 15th with times of 2:00.97 and another, Robin McLeish of Kanata, Ont., stood 17th in 2:01.05.

Veteran World Cup racer Dave Irwin of Thunder Bay, Ont., returned from a knee injury to place 23rd in 2:01.30.

Conditions were near ideal on the "piste nationale"—national track—which is a steep, but comfortably-wide course without narrow bends preferred by the skiers with the best gliding power. It is dubbed the Crans Highway by most skiers. The course was described as far too easy by most of the racers, among them Read.

"I made an unpardonable error on the upper part of the course, the kind of thing that should never happen after five years in the World Cup," said the 23-year-old Calgarian. "That's where I lost the race."

Read said right at the top of the run, "there is a slight rise and all you have to do is come up to it and press over it in your tuck."

"I came to press on it, but I was too much inside and it kicked me. I had to readjust to avoid going on the inside of the gate. It cost me time."

With four men among the first 10, the Swiss team had the best showing, followed by the Canadians with Read, Podborski and Murray.

Mueller's second-place finish gave him 62 World Cup points to lead the downhill standings. Read is second with 55.

In a men's special slalom today, Paul Frommelt of Liechtenstein and countryman Andreas Wenzel — two of the most consistent slalomers among the world's best — scored a one-two victory. They finished ahead of defending world champion Ingemar Stenmark whose third place took him to the top of the World Cup over-all standings.

A burst of speed at the end of the second run gave Frommelt a total time of 1:45.33, while Wenzel, recapturing his form of last season, was clocked in 1:45.50.

Stenmark, fifth after the first run, picked up pace in the second and finished in 1:46.19 to gain 20 World Cup points for a total of 113 points, three ahead of Peter Luescher of Switzerland.

CHAMP DEFEATED BY QUICK BENITEZ

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico (AP) — Wilfredo Benitez of Puerto Rico used lightning-quick combinations and effective counter-punching to hammer out a 15-round split decision Sunday over Carlos Palomino to win the World Boxing Council welterweight title.

The 29-year-old Palomino, making his eighth title defence, found his own punching power neutralized by Benitez's quickness, and the champion was unable to land any really damaging punches.

Palomino, a Mexican-American living in California, admitted after the fight "Benitez was much faster" and blamed his defeat on nine months of inactivity after breaking his right hand.

It was the 34th win for the 20-year-old Puerto Rican against no losses and one draw. Palomino's record dropped to 28-2-3, but his $465,000 purse should take some of the sting out of the loss.

Benitez won $90,000 and his second WBC title. He shocked the boxing world in March, 1976, when he upset Antonio Cervantes of Colombia to win the junior welterweight crown, which he lost when his father and then-manager refused to give Cervantes a rematch.

Although it appeared Benitez had much the better of the fight, judge Zack Clayton scored it 145-142 for Palomino. Referee Jay Edson saw it 148-143 for Benitez and judge Harry Gibbs said 146-143 for Benitez.

Trios Make Most Of Strong Start

Ken Buna, John Brown, Bruce Collins, Ron Pearce, David Brown and Al Bailey scored for Trios while Bruce Berkey and Keith Keating replied for Islanders.

Blades, A's Draw

DUNCAN — Duncan Silver Park Blades and Victoria Athletics battled to a 7-7 South Island Big Six Hockey League deadlock Sunday at Duncan Recreation Centre.

Gene Wrigglesworth set the scoring pace for Blades with three goals and two assists. Doug Lafleur added two goals and singles were contributed by Neil Merrick and Steve Ludvigson.

Spir Speediest

VANCOUVER — Peter Spir of Vancouver Olympics toured the eight-kilometre cross-country course in 24 minutes, nine seconds to capture top honors in the opening race of a provincial grand prix racing series.

Eight races, including road as well as cross-country competition, make up the series sponsored by CP Air and Adidas.

Top Victoria finisher was Mike Creery, fifth in 24:40. Chris Garrett-Petts was 11th in 26:35 while Garth Ball of the Flying Y finished third in the masters (over 40) division with a time of 26:40.

Lakers Top Rams

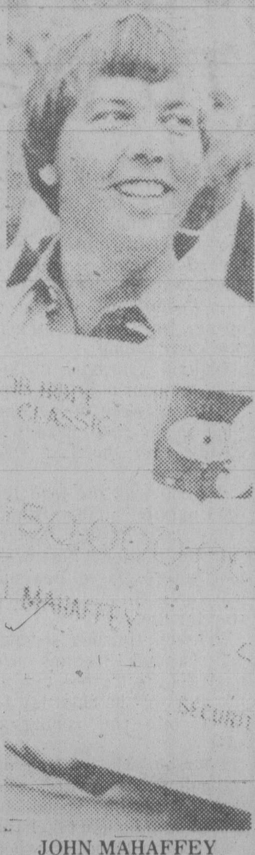
Lee's California Jinx Intact



JOHN MAHAFFEY
. . . one-stroke victory

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) — John Mahaffey was talking to himself as he surveyed the 15-foot birdie putt he had to make on the final hole to win the Bob Hope Desert Classic.

"You've been here before," he told himself. "Make up your mind, get the line and hit a good, solid putt."

He did just that.

"It's as good a putt as I've ever made," Mahaffey said Sunday. "I knew it was in."

The putt broke a tie with Lee Trevino, completed the first PGA tour event of the season and vaulted Mahaffey to his fourth victory in his last 10 American starts.

"I'm surprised," said Mahaffey, who capped one of golf's more dramatic comebacks with victories in the PGA national championship and the World Cup late last year.

"Nobody expects to be playing well in the first tournament of the year. It's a carry-over from last season, I guess," he said.

And it was a carry-over for Trevino, too — but a less happy one.

Playing immediately in front of Mahaffey, the leader through four of the five rounds of this event, Trevino finally caught him with a birdie on the 90th hole. He could do nothing but chomp an apple and watch while Mahaffey matched his birdie to win by a stroke.

It was the sixth time in less than 12 months that Trevino had been a runner-up. And it kept intact his California jinx: He has yet to win in this state.

Mahaffey won this one with a final-round 69, three under par at the Indian Wells Country Club — one of four desert layouts used for this marathon five-day event. He had a 90-hole total of 343, 17 under par.

Trevino, who chased him all over the resort area, had a closing 69 and a 344.

Mark Hayes got in the chase with a no-bogey, six-under-par 66 in the last round and took third at 345. He was followed at 346 by Grier Jones, who had a 68. Lanny Wadkins and Keith Fergus were at 348, Wadkins with a 68, Fergus a 69.

Jack Nicklaus scored his third competitive hole in one, dropping a 146-yard eight-iron shot on the sixth hole. He finished with a 69 and a tie for 11th at 350.

Mahaffey, who had a one-shot lead when play started Sunday, built it to two at the turn. But Trevino kept chipping away and finally caught him with a birdie on the par-5 18th.

On the final hole, Mahaffey had to hit his second shot from a awkward lie, laid up, then chipped over water to the green. Then he survived the challenge of a 15-foot, uphill putt for the title and a $50,000 prize.

Vikettes' Coach Pleased By 'Emotional Response'

One could enjoy some literary nonsense about Shields and good defence, but that's how things were Saturday at the University of Victoria's McKinnon Gymnasium.

The Shields, UVic's husband-and-wife coaching combination of Kathy and Ken, put a lot of trust in a good defence. The Vikings and Vikettes produced it.

"Exceptional defence, the best we've played all year," said Ken after his Vikings humbled Calgary Dinosaurs 85-47 in their Canada West University Athletic Association men's matchup before about 1,200 fans.

It mattered not that it was the lowest-scoring game that the Vikings have participated in since Shields took over as coach.

"Good defence, like the Vikings, but also a good team effort," were Kathy's observations after the Vikettes broke a three-game losing streak by clipping Calgary's Dinnies 67-59 in the women's game.

"The girls are learning to play together, as a team, to compensate for the loss of Jane (Favalli, the team's high-scoring rookie sidelined with a leg injury)," added Kathy. "We got big games from Tracy McAra, Susan Shaw and Michele Belanger."

Kathy was particularly pleased with Vikettes' "emotional response."

"After Friday's 25-point loss to Calgary, nobody packed it in. They have a tremendous attitude," she said.

Shaw, with 18 points, McAra and veteran Luanne Hebb, each with 14, sparked Vikettes' offense but it was Belanger, a national team member who turned in one of her strongest performances as a Vikette, who inspired the defence with her rebounding and hustle.

In the men's game, the Viking defence was the whole story as Victoria took some of the fire out of its once-intense rivalry with Calgary by out-classing the Dinosaurs wire-to-wire.

It was Victoria on top, 22-8, after only 10 minutes. By the half, it was 40-16, and the home folk said "ho hum" to an old rivalry.

On attack, Reni Dolcetti hit 10-for-10 from the floor, basically in only two quarters of action and despite having three fouls called against him in the first half. Every Viking except Ted Anderson contributed at least one point.

Eric Duerkson, one of coach Gary Howard's two holdovers, topped Calgary with 12 points.

In other men's action, Lethbridge Pronghorns came on strongly in the final 10 minutes to defeat the visiting UBC Thunderbirds 67-55 while at Saskatoon Alberta Golden Bears clipped Saskatchewan Huskies 68-60.

In other women's play, Saskatchewan upset Alberta Pandas 64-50, a result that enabled Vikettes to take over sole possession of second place behind Calgary, and Lethbridge beat UBC Thunderettes 61-45.

TENTH CROWN BRINGS KHAN RECORD PRIZE

NEW YORK (AP) — Sharif Khan of Toronto continued his domination of the world of squash racquets by capturing his 10th North American Open title in 11 years with a victory over Gordon Anderson, also of Toronto, at the Manhattan Squash Club Sunday.

The Pakistan-born Khan, 34, won the Open six straight years from 1969 through 1974, lost the 1975 championship to Victor Neiderhoffer of New York and now has won it four years in succession.

In beating Anderson 15-7, 15-10, 15-5, Khan received $10,000, the highest amount in the history of professional squash. Anderson's share of the $25,000 event was $3,500. Stuart Goldstein of New York beat Clive Caldwell of Toronto 15-11, 11-15, 2-15, 15-12, 15-17 in the playoff for third place money.

Fuel Economy Key To Waltrip Triumph

RIVERSIDE, Calif. (AP) — Darrell Waltrip enjoyed tremendous fuel economy and made one less pit stop then his rivals en route to a record-breaking victory Sunday in the $160,000 Winston Western 500, the season opener for Grand National Stock car racing.

Waltrip averaged 107.841 miles an hour in his Chevrolet. There were no caution flags in the race, despite a steady rain the last five laps.

Waltrip took the lead for the final time on the 105th of 119 circuits around Riverside International Raceway just before David Pearson was forced to make a quick stop for fuel.

Pearson finished second, 3.27 seconds behind. He passed Cale Yarborough at the start of the final lap to move into the runner-up spot.

Pearson, who started on the pole position with a record qualifying speed of 113.659 m.p.h., had taken the lead on the 102nd lap when leader Bobby Allison's Thunderbird began to fail. Allsion retired three laps later.

Yarborough took the lead at the start of the event, but was unable to hold it because of handling troubles.

"I thought I had a flat tire," Yarborough said. He dropped all the way to ninth and spent the rest of the race trying to catch up.

Waltrip then took command and battled with Allison. Waltrip lost the lead to him once early in the race and passed him along Pit Road after their first pit stop to go back ahead.

Waltrip only made four pit stops to five for Pearson, Yarborough, Allison and others. Waltrip went 32 laps on one tank at one point — about 84 miles, and about five laps farther than anyone else.

Korean Squad Tops Tourney

CALGARY — Kyanggi University, the top collegiate team in South Korea, used University of Victoria Vikings as a stepping stone to win the University of Calgary invitational men's volleyball tournament Sunday.

The overseas squad tripped University of Winnipeg 15-6, 13-15, 15-7 to take the crown after downing University of Saskatchewan in the semi-finals and Vikings 15-5, 15-12 in the quarter-finals.

The UVic team topped the Alberta Canada Games team 15-9, 15-13; downed University of Calgary 15-7, 15-9; defeated Edmonton Lazarte 15-5, 13-15, 15-7 and dropped Vancouver Volleyball Club, 15-11, 16-14.

Calgary Volleyball Club handed Vikings a 7-15, 15-11, 17-15 loss.

Tracy Trims Swim Record

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Teen-aged swimming sensation Tracy Caulkins set an American record of one minute, 2.06 seconds in the women's 100-yard breaststroke Sunday at an international meet.

Greg Wurzbach of Edmonton won the men's 100-yard breaststroke.

Victoria Duos Take Runner-Up Berths

YORKTON, Sask. — Four skaters from the Racquet Club of Victoria — a pairs and a dance combination — have been named to the team that will represent Western Canada in the Canadian figure skating championships at Thunder Bay later this month.

B.C. skaters won eight of the 10 events here.

Preventing a complete first-place sweep by B.C. was the Saskatoon pair of Shelley Dube and Neil Tymorouski, winners of the novice pairs, and Kathryn Osterberg of Calgary, who finished first in the junior women's competition.

Senior ladies—Sandra Leighton, 16, Delta; Nonie Robertson, 16, Kerrisdale; Heather Anderson, 17, North Vancouver; Cathy MacFarlane, 19, and Peggy McLean, 20, both of Calgary.

Senior men—Brian Pockar, 19, Calgary; Dennis Coi, 17, Vancouver; Jim Szabo, Coquitlam.

Junior ladies—Kathryn Osterberg, 15, Calgary; Kerry Smith, 16, Calgary; Andrea Hall, 15, Cloverdale; Yvonne Anderson, North Vancouver.

Novice men—Neil Paterson, 14, North Vancouver; Ian Edwards, 14, Edmonton; Brad MacLean, 15, North Vancouver; Troy Ruptash, 13, Edmonton.

Novice pairs—Shelley Dube, 15, and Neil Tymorouski, 17, Saskatoon; Bonnie Epp, 13, and David Howe, 17, North Vancouver; Roxanne Poisson, Coquitlam and Steve Fouldes, Cloverdale; Lynda Ivanich, 13, and John Ivanich, 15, North Vancouver.

Novice dance—Anna Griffith, White Rock, and Loch Macdonald, Vancouver; Melanie Cowan, 16, and Padget Riediger, 16, Swift Current, Sask.; Karyn Garossino, 13, and Rod Garossino, 15, Calgary,; Karyn Malenstyn, Delta, and Michael Turnbull, Coquitlam.

East Stars Roll In Japan Bowl

Times News Services

The United States East college football all-star team rallied for four touchdowns in the fourth quarter — one on a 65-yard punt return by Purdue's Russell Pope — and beat the West 33-14 in the Japan Bowl game Sunday in Tokyo.

Drew Hill of Georgia Tech returned a kickoff 102 yards for a third-quarter touchdown for the East All-Stars, who also beat the West 29-24 in the Hula Bowl at Honolulu last week.

The East and West have two victories apiece in the Japan Bowl. Sunday's game was played before 55,000 American and Japanese fans on a field still damp from a Saturday snowfall.

At Mobile, Ala., Saturday, Vaughn Lusby of Arkansas returned a kickoff 82 yards to break an early tie and Jeff Rutledge of Alabama directed a potent South attack Saturday to defeat the fumble-ridden North 41-21 in the Senior Bowl game.

Willie Jones, a defensive tackle from Florida State, was a one-man wrecking crew against the North offence and was named most-valuable-player in this 30th annual contest between top college seniors.

Rutledge was at the helm of the South as it blitzed to a 24-7 first-quarter lead. For the game, he ran for one touchdown, threw for another and had a hand in scoring drives that put 31 points on the board.

Bob Torrey of Penn State got all three North touchdowns.

Jones won a new automobile for his most-valuable-player award.

In the Challenge Bowl all-star game Saturday at Seattle, quarterback Jack Thompson of Washington State picked apart the Big Eight's defence in the first half, passing for 264 yards and a pair of touchdowns, to lead the Pacific-10 seniors to a 36-23 victory.

The 6-foot-3, 215-pound Thompson this season broke the NCAA career passing-yardage record. Known as the Throwin' Samoan while at WSU, Thompson finished with 19 completions in 29 attempts for 311 yards and was voted the game's most-valuable player.

CANADA MOVES AHEAD IN THOMAS CUP ACTION

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada defeated the United States 5-4 in weekend Thomas Cup badminton play to advance to the American Zone final against Mexico in Moncton, N.B., Jan. 27-28.

In the two-day competition, Canada jumped into a 3-1 lead Saturday with two singles and a doubles victory and wrapped up the title midway through action Sunday with a pair of singles victories.

John Czich of Ottawa defeated Chris Kinard of Pasadena, Calif., 15-12, 15-3 and Jamie McKee of Toronto defeated Gary Higgins of Alhambra, Calif., 15-5, 15-9 in Saturday singles.

In Saturday's doubles, Paul Johnson of Montreal and David deBelle of Oakville, Ont., defeated Charles Coakley of Newport Beach, Calif., and John Britton of Manhattan Beach, Calif., 3-15, 15-11, 15-7 while Mike Walker of Manhattan Beach and Matt Fogarty of Boston defeated Pat Tryon and Ian Johnson of Montreal, 15-7, 15-7.

Higgins defeated Czich 15-12, 15-10 to open Sunday's singles for the U.S. but Tryon defeated Walker 15-6, 6-15, 18-15 and McKee beat Kinard 17-14, 15-8 to clinch the Canadian victory.

The [illegible] won both doubles matches Sunda[illegible] they had become exhibition g[illegible] with the singles losses.

Coa[illegible] Britton defeated Tryon and [illegible] Johnson 15-12, 15-12 while Walker and Fogarty defeated Paul Johnson and deBelle, 15-3, 15-10.

The winners of the Canada-Mexico matches advance into the world championship quarter-final against Japan. The world championships are scheduled for Jakarta, Indonesia, in May.

'Just Fighter,' Kallie Accomplishes Mission

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — "I'm not a politician," said Kallie Knoetze, who has maintained all along he is just a fighter.

So Saturday the South African did what he came here to do — fight. And he did it in a manner of a man ranked the No. 2 heavyweight contender who was fighting a much smaller man with a reputation as a hard-nosed club fighter.

At 2:55 of the fourth round, he knocked out Bill Sharkey of New York at the Miami Beach Convention Centre.

It was mission accomplished for the muscular ex-cop with the flowing mustache. Afterward, he said: "It's fantastic to fight here in America. You've got beautiful people here. I enjoyed it and would like to come here again."

Knoetze wouldn't have stayed here this time if civil rights activists had their way. He would not have fought Saturday if the U.S. state department had its way.

The non-political fighter unwillingly became very much a political cause.

Civil rights advocates railed about the fact that as a policeman in 1977, Knoetze, a white, shot a 15-year-old black youth in both legs. Knoetze was cleared of any wrongdoing, but the Rev. Jesse Jackson, head of Operation PUSH (People United to Save Humanity) said: "He represents the very worst in South African racial conditions."

Jackson and others wanted the government to stop Knoetze from fighting. The state department, acting on the fact that Knoetze was convicted and fined for trying to persaude two witnesses not to testify against another policeman, said Knoetze could not get a work visa and would have his visitor's visa revoked.

But last Thursday, a federal judge in Florida issued a temporary restraining order against the visa revocation pending a hearing in Fort Lauderdale, Fla., on Jan. 22. Opponents of the bout contended this still did not entitle Knoetze to fight because he had no work permit.

But the Miami Beach Boxing Commission, which voted about four hours before the fight to leave Knoetze's boxing licence intact, and CBS, which televised the fight, agreed with Knoetze's lawyer, that the restraining order put Knoetze "within the protection of the court" until the hearing. That meant he could work with a permit for which he had applied.

The commission's decision cleared the way for the fight which was promoted by Chris Dundee after Madison Square Garden withdrew as co-promoter. The only thing left for opponents of the bout was to picket, and about 130 people staged an orderly march outside the arena with signs that read, "Knock Out South Africa," "Knoetze says he doesn't kill children, but his government does," and "CBS-Evil Eye."

Treasure Hunter Finds Galleon

Pieces of eight are studied by expert

By GREGORY JAYNES
New York Times

ANNVILLE, Pa. — In 1641, the galleon Conception smashed into a coral reef 85 miles northeast of what is now the Dominican Republic and sank with a huge store of silver and gold in her hold. In late 1978, a Pennsylvanian of little means named Burt B. Webber Jr. found the ship. It was a major discovery, according to historians.

The Dominican authorities, after inspecting pieces of eight and other precious items brought up by Webber's search team, confirmed the discovery. Webber then returned to his duplex on North Chestnut Street here for a quiet holiday with his family before going to New York to announce his find.

"It is quite an accomplishment in the field of treasure hunting," said Dr. Eugene Lyon, a Spanish and Latin-American historian in Vero Beach, Fla., who is a consultant with the National Geographic Society. "It was one of the major losses in the 17th century. I'd say it would be quite a feather in anybody's cap."

Though the find could run into millions of dollars, Lyon declined to speculate on the value. "These things are so iffy," he said. "Until all the material is salvaged and sold, it's awfully difficult to tell what it might bring."

Nor would Webber speak much about wealth. He spent the holiday in the company of relatives who thought it not only unnecessary, but absolutely ridiculous, to wish him a happy New Year. That evening, he was moved only to say, "Like a dream come true."

Webber's wife of 15 years, Sandy, the mother of their four children, rolled a particularly savory thought around in her head. "I was at the card club when my son called," she said. "I thought something was wrong with the house. He said, 'Daddy found the wreck.'"

It is the stuff of legend. Webber is a 36-year-old man who lives in a town where the only noticeable spark in life is caused by an automobile muffler dragging on the pavement. When he was 16 he took up scuba diving, an avocation nearly unheard of in landlocked Lebanon County. He explored stone quarries and read books about sunken treasure. He read Treasure Island, too.

From age 20 on, he hired out with this expedition or that, and they all came to naught. "One fiasco after another," Webber said. The people in town, he said, would say, "Burt's off on another expedition. We've heard this story before."

In between expeditions, Webber supported his family by working in a brick plant, selling encyclopedias, welding and other prosaic tasks. He would be home one-third of the year and away the rest. Gradually, his fantasies about sunken treasure dovetailed into what he came to think of as a pragmatic business venture.

With the help of an investment broker in Chicago, Webber formed Sea Quest International. Backers were secured in several major cities. A historian was engaged for meticulous research on the wreck of the Concepcion.

Sir William Phips, the first royal governor of Massachusetts, found part of the wreck in 1687 and salvaged 32 tons of silver. But that was all that the technology of the time wuld allow him to get at, and for centuries it has been thought that the ocean held back more than it gave that expedition.

In 1977, Webber obtained a 65-foot vessel and a nine-man crew. Working out of Puerto Plata, he systematically surveyed a 16-mile-long reef made up of hundreds of coral heads and forming part of the 42-mile-long Silver Shoals, where the wreck was thought to be. He searched for five months without success.

Last November, he secured a 113-foot former British minesweeper and a 16-man crew and returned for a second look.

On Nov. 28, he got into the water with a supersensitive, hand-held cesium magnometer. A series of lights on a console in the magnometer's housing changes hues, and the vibrations in a head set attached to the diver's mastoids, intensifies when he finds, in the wonderfully apt word of the treasure hunter, "anomalies."

"I swam around one of these coral heads and into the next grid survey we had buoyed out," Webber said, "and there it was. The magnometer started to produce magnetic anomalies as I swam in and out of the canyons."

Pieces of eight minted in 1638, 1639 and 1640 were found, and also porcelains from China shipped into Acapulco, trekked overland to Vera Cruz and put aboard the Concepcion for shipment to the Spanish crown. The salvage job, which Webber will begin next week, is expected to take six months.

"This ship is completely disintegrated," he said "It's scattered within the complexity of these coral reefs. Salvaging will be a tremendous job."

He will not talk about value, although some estimates of the treasure run as high as $40 million. "It could go beyond one's wildest dreams," he said, "or the next handful of silver coins could be the last handful."

Whichever proves to be true, the Dominican Republic, which released news of the discovery on Dec. 21, will get half, Webber's backers will get their share and he will get "a significant percentage." The wealth, he said, will bring no abrupt change to the Webbers. "It just gives me the means of providing the security that my family justly deserves," he said. "I've never been very security conscious."

"To me," Mrs. Webber said, "it's like finally I can relax. It's O.K. Everything is going to work out."

PEOPLE TALKING BACK
An Experiment in communication
PEOPLE TALKING BACK
begins on C.B.C. Television Sunday, February 4, 1979 at 5 p.m. Using television as a medium of communication, Canadians will talk with one another across the street and across the country. We'll talk about our cultural differences — the positive and negative aspects. About politicians and the media — are we getting biased information? About our flagging and difficult-to-understand economy. About unrest and change in the workplace. About where we go from here — alternative options for our political, economic, cultural and social future.

Speak up.

You are not alone. Millions of Canadians just like you are aching for the chance to talk back to the opinion moulders of life – to the news media, the politicians, the top brass in business and labour.

On Sunday evening February 4 you will have that chance when the CBC presents a three-hour television special linking you and other Canadians together in a rare cross-country conversation.

It's called: People Talking Back. Nothing this big has been done before. It's a genuine experience in grassroots democracy on national television.

The program, broadcast live via satellite from Edmonton, will be hosted by Gordon Pinsent. The issues of life bothering many of us will be focused in an entertaining, lively and informative way by satirical skits, mini-documentaries, on-the-street interviews and chats with the audience.

You can join in by speaking up to the issues through our nationwide telephone Talk Back network. During the show, several thousands of Canadians will phone in their opinions on the issues. That's Talking Back.

What issues? Well, any dimension of life you think is important. How do you feel about your job? Who are the winners and losers in the economy? Do you think the power groups in society are dealing properly and openly with the critical issues? Indeed, how would you shape the future of this country?

Already, thousands of discussion groups are forming to talk about the issues in readiness for the February 4 program. They will also participate in the five follow-up programs the CBC will broadcast from late February to the end of April.

The idea of bringing Canadians together in a cross-country conversation on the national broadcasting service was conceived by the Canadian Association for Adult Education. They are the people who are coordinating the discussion groups. If you want to join in, contact the People Talking Back organizing group for your area.

PROTESTERS ask for democracy and human rights as well as food and jobs when they marched Sunday in Peking. Banner in foreground appeals to Vice Premier Teng Hsiao-ping.

Food, Work Demanded

PEKING (Reuter) — A small group of ragged demonstrators hoping to present grievances to China's leaders remained outside the Chungnanhai compound in central Peking today.

Several hundred poorly dressed people, who said they came from all over China, marched on the compound Sunday demanding such basic rights as food and work.

But soldiers of the People's Liberation Army blocked the march when it reached the main entrance of the compound where China's leaders live.

One of their banners read "We want to present our grievances to Teng the incorruptible"—a reference to Senior Vice-Premier Teng Hsiao-ping.

A number of the demonstrators boarded a truck at the entrance gate Sunday night, but it appeared they were being taken to quarters for the night and not being arrested. Some demonstrators had earlier complained of police harassment.

Those still at the gate today were slumped against the wall, huddled together for warmth after a night in which the temperature plunged well below freezing.

People coming unofficially to Peking face a serious problem in finding accommodations or even in feeding themselves.

Many posters on walls in the capital during the last couple of months have been personal complaints, while articles in the Chinese press have dealt with the need for the authorities to handle complaints from around the country quickly.

POLICEMAN'S A DUMMY BUT JUST AS EFFECTIVE

BOISE (UPI) — In a manpower-saving move, the Idaho state police force is staffing roadside radar posts with mannequins.

Col. Tom Proctor, state police superintendent, said the object is to prevent accidents by slowing traffic without keeping troopers sitting in their cars all day.

Proctor said the program's first day was a success. Drivers slowed an average of 12 miles per hour from 67 mph to 55 mph as they went by the dummy cop, stationed on Interstate 80N near Boise.

Truckers especially reacted quickly to the radar setup, Proctor said.

Proctor said the idea hit him several days ago and he borrowed a dummy from a K Mart store.

The superintendent and another trooper dressed the mannequin in a state police work jacket Saturday, drove out to the freeway and put the new man in an old patrol car scheduled to be sold.

They locked the mannequin in the car, because, Proctor said, "We'd really be embarrassed if someone stole it."

Jonestown Jungle Still Hides Fortune

CHICAGO (AP) — Two survivors of the Jonestown massacre told the Chicago Tribune that two suitcases stuffed with a fortune in U.S. money and gold wafers may still be hidden in the Guyana jungle.

The newspaper said in a copyrighted story in its today's editions that the previously unreported suitcases are believed to contain $600,000, bringing to $1.6 millon the amount the survivors of the mass killings and suicides tried to remove from Jonestown.

Previously survivors had said that only one suitcase full of money and jewelry was removed from the camp.

The survivors led authorities to about $700,000 and the Guyanese government has reported finding $300,000 more.

The survivors, Timothy and Michael Carter, also disclosed that a will, supposedly signed by an elderly woman who died at Jonestown leaving $7.3 million in cult funds to the Soviet Union, was falsified.

Both aides of People's Temple cult leader Jim Jones, the Carter brothers talked of the frightful night in which more than 900 persons died, including their sister and their wives and children.

The Carter brothers said they and Michael Prokes were entrusted on the night of the suicide-killings with removing an estimated $1.6 million in cash and at least three stacks of one-ounce gold wafers in three suitcases, instead of the one suitcase they were told previously.

Carter said Mrs. McGowan signed only blank pieces of paper and that he was assigned to type the "will" above her signature. Carter said he was not sure if the McGowan woman knew why her signature was being used.

FATHER SLAYS RAPE SUSPECT

DETROIT (UPI) — A suburban Inkster man was being held without bond today on murder charges in the shooting death of a 22-year-old neighbor he said raped his 6-year-old daughter.

Terry L. Price, 22, of Inkster died in Wayne County General Hospital Saturday night after being shot by Joe A. Darby, 31, police said.

Inkster police said Darby accused Price of raping his daughter. Police would not release details of the alleged rape but said no charges were brought because Darby's daughter was emotionally unable to make a complete statement about the alleged incident.

Darby had followed Price to a corner near his home and held a rifle while arguing for about 30 minutes, police said. Investigators said the two had been at odds since Jan. 4, when Darby complained to police that Price had raped his daughter.

Darby was arraigned on a charge of second-degree murder Sunday.

Seniors Link Skills In Fair Exchange

Would you like to get your minor maintenance and repairs done and other services performed without spending any money?

If a local group of seniors can latch on to a developing program called Link Skills Exchange, you may be able to do just that.

Pioneered in England, where it has met with considerable success, the plan provides the mechanics for swapping skills and trading talents, using exchange cards rather than cash.

I recently participated in an enthusiastic seminar with Ontario retired persons and younger people working in the field of senior services to consider ambitious expansion of Link throughout the province. Many of those taking part were ready to do missionary work further afield so no matter where you live the novel program could be made available. (I understand that a project already is underway in the Montreal area.)

The Ontario program is sponsored jointly by United Senior Citizens of Ontario and the provincial Ministry of Community and Social Services.

It is estimated that retired Canadians represent some 150,000,000 years of productive, working experience. Although some continue to use their skills and knowledge for the benefit of others through volunteer work many others do not know how or where to offer their services and, in any event, are not able to exchange their abilities for something they themselves want done.

Link is based on the belief that almost everyone has worthwhile skills, knowledge or experience which could be helpful to someone else in the community. Link emphasizes this applies to many people — perhaps handicapped or even confined to bed — who may not think they have anything to offer.

Link works like this: A group (seniors' club, for example) decide to establish a local Link Centre. Except for possibly a small start-up levy no fees should be necessary.

An individual is selected or a small committee is set up to run the program. First step is to catalogue all the skills which members of the centre have; others with unused talents are encouraged to join the centre.

Skills exchange cards are prepared, each card representing payment for an hour's work (in Ontario cards are available from the provincial ministry). Each member receives four cards, say, to start out.

Then when you want, for example, a tap fixed or clothing made or mended you phone the centre to see if another member can help you. You pay with exchange cards which then can be used by the recipient for services he or she needs.

Why not write the Hon. Grace McCarthy, Minister of Human Resources, and ask if her ministry could get a Link scheme started in B.C.?

Baubles, Bangles ... Bright Blinking Beads

MINNEAPOLIS (UPI) — You've heard of computer dating? There's now blinking electronic jewelry to intrigue the date you got through the computer.

Eston Husted of suburban Long Lake has been working on the idea of electronic jewelry for several years and now is responsible for creating a tiny module that will make a pair of earrings, a ring or a necklace send out a blinking signal.

The jewelry is best appreciated in a dim area such as a cocktail lounge. It is discreet and feminine and "not designed to create a carnival atmosphere," Husted said.

Husted, 53, retired from IBM in Rochester, Minn., after 25 years to devote himself to what he terms "frivolous" projects. He and an old friend, Mickey Owens, a Rochester antique dealer, have worked on a variety of gift items together.

While employed by IBM, Husted was a senior buyer for advanced technology and traveled the world learning the intricacies of computers.

He worked three years to get the parts for the blinking light small enough for the jewelry. Then he found a manufacturer in Taiwan, the only place in the western hemisphere where someone could do the miniscule wiring of the module under a microscope at an affordable price.

A tiny red light in the jewelry blinks seven times per second. Husted compared the jewelry to a blinking Christmas tree light.

"It's as if I took the filament out of a light bulb and planted it inside a tiny plastic case," he said.

Sorting Out R, U and Perms hand around the house

By A. J. HAND

It's hard to make intelligent decisions about energy if you don't understand energy jargon. For example: You want to insulate your walls. You ask a few insulating contractors to give you estimates on the job. But when they start using terms like R-value, U, BTUH or perms, you become confused. In the end you make the wrong decision, or no decision at all.

Energy jargon may be unfamiliar, but it's really quite simple if you take the time to understand it. Let's go over some of the most important terms and see what they mean:

—BTU. This is the British thermal unit, a measure of heat. Specifically, it is the amount of heat required to raise one pound of water 1° F. It takes about 100 million BTU to heat the average home for a season.

—BTUH. This is simply BTU per hour. It is used to measure heat flow (out through the walls of your home, for example) or heat production (of a furnace or stove, for example).

—U. A measure of the amount of heat transmitted in one hour through a square foot of a building section (roof, wall, or floor) for each degree fahrenheit of temperature difference between the warm and cold sides of that section. U is expressed in BTUH. The lower the U, the better.

—R. One of the most important terms you can know. R is resistance to heat flow, sometimes expressed 1/U. Insulation is labelled in R values, and the higher the R, the better the insulation. R values are additive. If 3½ inches of mineral wool insulation gives R-11, then seven inches will give R-22. And the R-22 insulation will save twice as much heat as the R-11 insulation.

When you buy insulation, look for the highest R value per dollar. R value is more important than thickness. You can determine the R value for a given section of your wall by adding up the R values for all the components in that section.

—PERM. The perm is used to measure the effectiveness of vapor barriers. A perm is equal to a grain (there are 438 grains in an ounce) of water passing through a square foot of material per hour, per inch of mercury difference in vapor pressure between the two sides of that material. The lower the perm value, the more resistant a material is to vapor flow.

Perms become important when you have insulation blown or gunned into existing structures without vapor barriers. Water vapor will migrate outward through the insulation and condense on cold surfaces of walls or roofs. There it can cause rot and a host of other problems.

To avoid this problem you need a vapor barrier positioned on the warm side of the new insulation. And the barrier should have a perm rating of about .25 or lower. The easiest way to get this barrier is by painting with a vapor-resistant paint. Ask your paint dealer for a paint rated .25 perms or less.

PRICE GOUGE ADDS TIME

TRENTON, N.J. (AP) — For Craig King it's time and money.

He says a watch he took from a New Brunswick jewelry store was overpriced — and that means doing a lot more time.

The watch was priced at $295 but 15 months later it sold for $189. The theft of goods valued at less than $200 is a disorderly persons offence in New Jersey, carrying a top penalty of six months in jail and a $500 fine. But the theft of goods valued at more than $200 is a misdemeanor — with a three-year jail term and a $1,000 fine.

King questioned the timepiece's value at his trial and the Superior Court judge called time out for an appeals court ruling.

DO-IT-YOURSELF 'PREGGY' FUND?

WINNIPEG (CP) — A Winnipeg doctor says women in the professions who plan to have children should set up their own "pregnancy retirement plans."

Dr. Marie Storrie, former president of the Federation of Medical Women of Canada, says the plans are needed because insurance companies and professional associations don't cover pregnancies.

"A pregnancy retirement scheme is quite a costly thing for any insurance underwriter to finance because pregnancies are so common. Underwriters say women would do better with their own personal plan."

Women should make regular payments into a fund and draw on the fund during pregnancy leave. The idea is somewhat similar to retirement or home ownership plans.

Dr. Storrie says the plan would benefit women in fields such as law and architecture as well as medicine.

Fun of Furnishing Helped by Patterns

By PAULINE GRAVES

The fun of furnishing is putting the various pieces together so that they and the room look their very best. When moving into a new house, all furniture placement has to be done at one time, but this job can be made easier with floor plans and patterns. The patterns are slips of paper, cut to the width and length dimensions of each furniture piece, and to the same scale as the floor plan, usually one-quarter inch equalling one foot. Moving these bits of paper around is a lot easier than shoving a large dresser or manoeuvering a sofa from place to place.

Another enjoyment is putting furniture to unexpected uses, such as an armoire housing television and stereo components, a use for which it certainly was not designed. Shown here is another unexpected idea, by decorator Beverly Trupp, an old Victorian buffet functioning as a headboard. Just the top portion is used, of course, and it fits the role very well because its proportions are right for the bed and the wall. Nothing was changed. The bevelled mirrors are beautiful and help make the room seem larger, augmented by the few side shelves which, because they project forward, give depth to the wall.

To support the buffet, a 9½-foot long structure was built, which incorporates bedside tables at each end. The centre area behind the bed is 5'4" long and has a ¾-inch plywood panel to the floor. Its 15½-inch depth is ample for the buffet, as well as for the lamps and sundries.

dear abby

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I have tried for six years to have a child. We've seen many fertility experts, and my husband's urologist now recommends artificial insemination.

We intend to go through with it and have decided to tell absolutely no one, with one exception — my husband's brother, Gene, who was told for a very special reason.

Instead of using sperm obtained at the regular sperm bank, we came up with the idea of using sperm donated by Gene. That way our child will inherit the physical features of my husband's family.

Gene has agreed to cooperate only if his wife approves. Abby, we don't want Gene to tell his wife because we're afraid if she knows that her husband is the biological father of my child it might cause problems later on.

We say it's Gene's sperm and he can do anything he wants with it.

Are we wrong? Or is Gene?

ALL IN THE FAMILY

DEAR ALL: It may be Gene's sperm, but if he wants his wife to know what he's doing with it, it's his right. And unless Gene's wife gives her unconditional approval I advise you to use an unknown donor.

DEAR ABBY: Does a friend have the right to ask for a ride home just when you are getting warmed up at a party?

They ask you to drive them to the party and then they spoil it for you by cutting it short.

What do you say when you're having a good time and you'd like to stay a little longer?

FLAMENCO

DEAR FLAMENCO: You say, "I'd like to stay a little longer." (P.S. And the next time a friend begs a ride to a party tell that friend to be prepared to stay until you're ready to leave.)

DEAR ABBY: When you advised that family whose kids were being called atheists on how to defend themselves against the accusation, you seemed to be implying that there was something wrong with being an atheist. Well, I'm an atheist — with no apologies. I happen not to believe that God exists.

But contrary to what many religious people think, I have no desire to impose my disbelief on others or to hinder them from worshiping whatever god or gods they choose. Nor do I think that not believing in God frees me from responsibility to my fellow human beings. I consider myself as moral a person as most believers — and more moral than some I can think of! I'm certainly not a saint, but you don't find many of those in or out of church.

To me, denouncing people as atheists is as offensive as calling them papists or hebes. What people believe about God — or don't believe — is their own business. My advice to that family would be to tell their neighbors: "Judge us by what we do — not by what you think we believe." Or, in the words of a man whom some think was God and others, including you and me, consider merely a wise and good human being, "By their fruits ye shall know them."

Space Dust Smothering?

WASHINGTON (AP) — A U.S. space satellite has discovered that the universe is enveloped in a cloud of gas and dust so massive that its weight may halt the universe from expanding and cause it to fall back in on itself.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) said that if all the matter in the cloud were assembled the mass would be equal to a million billion suns.

That, the agency said, might be sufficient to "close the universe — to preclude its expanding forever." It added that millions of years might pass before that happens.

Scientists long have pondered whether the universe had enough mass so that its own gravity ultimately would stop its expansion and that it perhaps would begin contracting. Previous calculations showed the known universe did not contain enough mass to do that, but NASA said the gas-and-dust cloud discovery might be the answer.

NASA said discovery of the cloud was a major achievement of the High Energy Astronomy Observatory satellite, known as HEAO-1, which stopped transmitting this week after 17 productive months. The agency said the satellite finally ran out of propellant for its attitude control rockets after sending data for 11 months beyond its planned lifetime.

It gathered knowledge, NASA said, that "may bring fundamental changes in our concept of the universe."

The satellite's instruments recorded gamma and cosmic rays and high energy x-rays emitted by some of the most intriguing mysteries in the universe — pulsars, quasars, exploding galaxies and black holes.

The satellite very early began detecting large amounts of high energy x-ray background radiation emitted by hot gas in intergalactic space — gas that previously was not known to exist.

Continued study of the gas showed that it may have more mass than the mass of all the universe that was known until now, NASA said.

HEAO-1 also discovered nearly 1,200 new sources of powerful x-rays as far out as "halfway to the edge of the universe." That more than triples the number of known x-ray sources in space.

The satellite also located a new black hole candidate near the constellation Scorpius.

'Felt Sorry' For Patients, Orderly, 19, Charged In Poisoning

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (UPI) — A 19-year-old retarded hospital orderly who "felt sorry" for his patients at a senior citizens' clinic has been charged with poisoning two people, police said.

Police said the unidentified suspect told them he killed as many as 17 elderly patients at the Ostra Geriatric Hospital in the southern Swedish city of Malmo. He reportedly administered drinks laced with carbolic acid, a very corrosive disinfectant used at the hospital.

The 19-year-old was arrested after a routine autopsy of a 78-year-old woman patient showed that she had been poisoned by carbolic acid.

Medicated Births Damage Brain - Study

A government health officer admits this may mean many children are being born with "less than a full deck."

The study — submitted for publication eight months ago but still delayed by the government — makes a "clear-cut" link between obstetric medication and impairment of brain development, particularly thinking ability, motor skills and behavior in children born during the last century.

"It is difficult to avoid concluding that the damage is permanent," said Dr. Yvonne Brackbill, author of the study, in an interview.

The effects are subtle in most children and they appear to function normally, she said.

But, she said, even the subtle effects of these pyschoactive active medications administered during childbirth cause an average IQ loss of 4 points.

With an annual U.S. birth rate of 3.7 million, this comes to a total national loss of 14 million IQ points a year, which "should put the problem of obstetric medication at the head of the class of national health priorities," Dr. Brackbill said.

"The behavorial effects of obstetric medications are not transient and the direction of the effects is uniformally that of interference of normal function and behavioral degradation." Dr. Brackbill said in a summary of her conclusions.

Dr. Brackbill, a pyschologist at the University of Florida in Gainesville, specializes in the study of the effect of drugs on the brain.

Her study constitutes the largest-based test in medical literature of the effects of obstetric medications on infant development and has far-reaching social and medical implications.

Dr. Brackbill estimated that in 1977 "95 percent of births in the United States hospitals nowadays are medicated. This means 3.5 million medicated births out of 3.7 million births a year."

She said contrary to the common belief that natural child birth is increasing, the number of drugs being given to women during gestation, labor and delivery is rising. She cited a study in Houston which showed the average mother consumed 19 different drugs during pregnancy and delivery in 1977, up sharply from an estimated 3.6 drugs taken by the average mother in 1963.

Dr. Brackbill's study was obtained by UPI, and its substance confirmed by officials of the National Institute of Health under a freedom of information request.

Dr. Brackbill accused NIH of delaying its release and "censoring key portions and watering-down some of my own conclusions" by softening the language.

"I consider this a violation of my rights as a scientist and the rights of the public to have an accurate assessement of medications that affect every human being born in this country in recent years," she said.

NIH said the study had been delayed pending review and approval for publication in a medical journal.

Doris Haire, president of the National Organization for Women's Health Network, said she has been urging NIH for many months to release the study to the public.

"It would be a crime against American women and children if we waited for a medical journal to pick up on this," Ms. Haire said.

Even the more mildly worded conclusions reached by NIH raise serious questions about the degenerative effects of most, if not all, medications routinely given to women during childbirth.

Pipe Clears First Hurdle

BILLINGS, Mont. (AP) — Thomas Kryzer, president of Northern Tier Pipeline Co., said Sunday a preliminary federal report raised no serious environmental objections to a proposed oil pipeline.

Kryzer said the Bureau of Land Management issued a draft environmental impact statement last week on Northern Tier's proposal to construct a 2,491-kilometre pipeline from Port Angeles, Wash. to Clearbrook, Minn.

The company hopes to build an oil superport at Port Angeles and the pipeline to move Alaskan crude oil to Northern Tier states.

Kryzer said the draft EIS is the first step in obtaining a permit to cross federal lands and hailed it as "clearing the way for favorable action by other federal, state and local agencies."

He said public hearings on the draft EIS will be held by the BLM in cities in Montana, Washington, Idaho, North Dakota and Minnesota.

"The findings of the statement on our project reveal no significant or lasting adverse effects that are likely to result from the construction or operation of our pipeline," Kryzer said in a statement released by his office here.

The statement "also finds that there are appreciable social and economic benefits to be derived from construction and operation of the pipeline," added Kryzer.

"The statement's comparison of the various proposals makes it clear that the Northern Tier pipeline is the only one that will serve all the states threatened with an oil shortage," Kryzer said.

He also said his company's proposal "has the design capacity to make up the entire anticipated deficit and can deliver crude oil to the Chicago area at a lower transportation cost than any of the other active proposals."

Kryzer said the report further stated if the Northern Tier pipeline is not built: "The economic benefits from employment and tax payments would not be realized. The crude oil shortage at some refineries could continue or increase, leading to reduction in refinery production, fewer jobs and higher prices for refined products."

Introducing the driving style of tomorrow:

DODGE OMNI'S NEW O24

Dodge, makers of the great Omni 5-door Hatchback bring you new excitement...super-sporty, front-wheel drive Omni 024!

Enter the world of modern performance and design...superb handling and balance... sporty looks and spacious comfort... all specifically designed for today's young lifestyle.

Front-wheel drive for a new standard in traction...stability...interior roominess!

Just like its team-mate, the 5-door Omni Hatchback, Omni's new 024 features front-wheel drive. Together with the transversely-mounted 1.7-litre engine, front-wheel drive assures greater directional stability under crosswind conditions and extra traction in snow and rain.

The sports car lineage of Omni's new 024 is responsible for the heady feeling of power and control you get behind the wheel. Add to this the good sense of aerodynamic design (with optional rear-deck spoiler) and you get a missile-like drag coefficient that helps the 024 run silent, fast and at a good fuel economy rating.

The Omni team gives you a beautiful choice to start with: in addition to the 3-door, two-plus-two seater 024 sports coupe, Omni offers you the amazingly spacious, front-wheel drive 5-door Hatchback with a wide choice of optional trim packages and luxury features.

The Omni 024's many sporty options include a rallye cluster with tachometer, clock and trip odometer, removable tinted glass sunroof and many other exciting, O...Oh...Ohh...024 extras!

Opening lead - jack of spades.

Here is a remarkable hand from a pair championship staged in Lebanon some years ago. Declarer with the South hand was Joel Tarlo, British star, who found himself playing an optimistic contract of four hearts as the result of a series of bids not fit for publication.

West led the jack of spades and, after east followed low, Tarlo won with the king. Faced with a difficult task, Tarlo led a spade to dummy's eight, taken by East with the ace.

East returned a club to partner's ace, and West returned a club to dummy's king. Tarlo now led the seven of hearts from dummy and let it ride. When the seven held the trick, it became obvious that East had started with the K-Q-10-3 of trumps.

At this point it seemed that East would eventually score two trump tricks and defeat the contract. But Tarlo embarked on a campaign to try to eliminate one of his two natural trump losers. He started by ruffing dummy's four of clubs, then returned to dummy with a diamond and ruffed the nine of spades as East discarded a diamond.

Another low diamond lead to dummy produced this four-card position.

Tarlo now led the queen of spades from dummy. When East ruffed with the queen, Tarlo made the magnificent play of underruffing with the nine! It then did not matter whether East returned a heart or a club; in either case, South would win the last three tricks and make the contract.

YOUR HOROSCOPE

Astrological Forecast for Tuesday, January 16,
By SYDNEY OMARR

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Accent on service, dependents, pets, working out routine, bringing priorities into sharp, clear focus, defining responsibilities. Capricorn, Cancer and Virgo figure prominently — and so does the number 8. You will learn much about tasks and possible rewards.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Finish rather than initiate project. Look beyond the immediate. Bring forth creative resources. Express yourself in positive manner. Refuse to be intimidated. Accept responsibility, but don't be duped into carrying another's burden.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): You find ways of improving security measures. Leo, Aquarius figure prominently. You are given rare opportunity for a "second chance." You might be dazzled by property which can be your own — if you take definite, independent steps.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Ideas, hunches, relatives, people who relate their dreams — all of this crowds your personal scenario. One who taught you in recent past is again available. Know it and act accordingly. Aquarian is in picture.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): You make money; element of timing, luck is with you. Social affair leads to valuable contacts. Gemini, Virgo, Sagittarius figure prominently. Look ahead — plan on "grand scale." You're on a streak; the number 3 is a part of pattern.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Moon in your sign coincides with high cycle; you get job done in convincing manner. Aquarius, Scorpio persons figure prominently. Be direct, specific, aware of fine points. Personal touch is more important than you might imagine. You'll make significant new contact.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Be analytical — don't be satisfied merely to know something occurred. Find why, delve beneath surface indications. Be willing to change, to write, to report, to detect nuances, to confront facts rather than figments of wishful thinking.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Accent on greater harmony, making wishes come true, understanding what you need as contrasted to desire. Taurus, Libra figure prominently. Family member confides financial problem. It can be resolved — you'll aid in constructive way.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): One in position of authority may be free-and-easy with promises. Get definite commitment — in writing. Be realistic concerning prospects. Maintain self-esteem; refuse to sell yourself short. Pisces, Virgo figure prominently.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Good Moon aspect corresponds now with communication, travel, education, law in sense of morality and long-range concepts. Another Capricorn is in picture. You're on right track. Recent investment pays dividends.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Emphasis on investments, legal requirements, finances affecting one close to you. Finish rather than initiate project. Aries, Libra persons figure in scenario. Aggressive, headstrong individual would like to intimidate you.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Play cards close to chest; go slow, be aware of legal rights and permissions. Leo, Aquarius and Aries persons figure prominently. You get chance to erase errors. Do so, but be sure proper reports are filed. You'll comprehend.

IF JANUARY 16 IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you are perceptive, moody, a perfectionist. You finish what you start, if even in an unorthodox manner. Pisces, Virgo persons play key roles in your life. January and October could be your most memorable months of 1979. You are adjusting to new life style, to recent domestic change. You attract envious persons, those who would invade your privacy. You have learned that being alone is not same as being lonely. Having time to think, to spiritually commune is essential to you. You can perceive when something of importance is to occur. You succeed when you heed inner voice. You meet exciting creative individual in March — and it will be good for you.

CITY WATCHDOG REPORT 91
Many thanks go to Hubert Beyer for the tribute to Bill Scott in Thursday's Colonist on page 5. Your City's Watchdog is very pleased to hear that Victoria Constable Brian Tugwell, who was on foot patrol in the area during a robbery on Yates St., was responsible for two juvenile girls and a 15 year old boy being taken into custody. Your City's watchdog started this column approximately 2 years ago requesting that city council provide 10 extra policemen for foot patrols and neighbourhood police patrols. It would only cost each city resident the sum of one cent a day to have these ten extra policemen. Surely City Council could vote the money to protect Victoria tax paying homeowner's lives and their possessions, expecially with two City Council chairmen who reside in Oak Bay. Please continue phoning 383-6259 or write to Your City's Watchdog C. Joe Richards, P.O. Box 154, Victoria, for information regarding city matters. Postcript: Remember the slashed Storewoner's face, Knife Wielding Juvenile Offenders should be treated as Adults.

TO: Patricia Charlie. HOW TO WRITE

CLASSIFIED ACTION

AD

1—IT'S BEST to start your ad with the name of the article or service you have to offer. If you have an apartment, room, etc., for rent, or property for sale; start your ad with the location.

2—BE CLEAR. Readers respond more quickly and favorably by giving complete, definite information. Always include the price in your advertisement.

3—MAKE IT EASY for the reader-prospect to reach you. Always give your telephone number or your name and address. If you do not have regular hours, state a preferred time for the prospect to get in touch with you.

4—PLAY SAFE. You get the greatest reader attention by using consecutive insertions. A six-day order is best and costs less, and you can, of course, stop your ad as soon as you get the results you want. You pay only for the days your ad appeared. Lower yearly rates are available to those who wish to keep their services or products before the public.

5—PLACE YOURSELF in the reader's position and ask yourself what you want to know about your offer. The answer you give will make a good Want Ad.

6—GIVE YOUR PROSPECT every inducement you can with good copy. Classified action ad readers have the money and are already interested in buying the merchandise or service you have to offer; the details and information you give are the most important.

7—TO PLACE YOUR AD, call 386-2121, your direct line number to fast Want Ad action. A courteous, efficient advisor will be glad to help you word and place your order. And remember, Classified Action Ads afford you the most complete coverage. Telephones are open 8:00 a.m. to 6:00 p.m. Monday through Friday, 8:00 to 5:30 p.m. Saturday. Don't allow the reader to speculate.

308 CARDS OF THANKS

I WOULD LIKE TO EXTEND A very special Thank-You to both the day and night shift nurses and staff in the Richmond Pavillion RPI at Royal Jubilee Hospital, for all the kindness you all have shown my late mother, Mrs. Sarah Anderson and myself. Also a special thanks to Dr. J.C. Donald, R.B. Smith and Robert Raines. Thank-You, Dreana Lee and family.

309 IN MEMORIAM

WARREN — In loving memory of a dear husband, father and grandfather, Raymond C. who passed away January 14, 1978.

Time speeds on, one year has passed
Since death its gloom its shadows cast
Within our home, where all seemed bright
And took from us a shining light
We miss that light, and ever will
His vacant place there is none to fill
Down here we mourn, but not in vain
For up in heaven we will meet again.

—Always remembered by Harriet and son, Andre and Family.

FERREIRA — In loving memory of our Papa, John Ferreira whom God took, January 9, 1978.

We do not forget him, we love him too dearly,
For his memory to fade from our lives like a dream.
Our lips need not speak when our hearts mourn sincerely,

—Anne, Andy, Lynda and Tommy.

HUNTER — In loving memory of our son and brother, Arthur (Arden Richard), called Home, January 14, 1975, age 22 years.

Not dead to us who loved him
Not lost, just gone before
He lives with us in memory
And will forever more.

—His loving family.

THEY SHALL GROW NOT OLD AS WE WHO ARE LEFT GROW OLD, AGE SHALL NOT WEARY THEM, NOR THE YEARS CONDEMN, AT THE GOING DOWN OF THE SUN, AND IN THE MORNING, WE WILL REMEMBER THEM.
WITH GRATITUTE, SANDS

China Has Eye on Technology: Horner

HONG KONG (UPC) — China may look to Canadian technological expertise to help it build a solid industrial base through development of oil and gold reserves, according to Trade Minister Jack Horner.

"To hear the Chinese trade ministers talk, they know Canada and they intend to call on our expertise," Horner said after a week-long visit to Peking and Canton for meetings with Foreign Trade Minister Li Chiang, Vice-Premier Yu Chiu-Li and members of China's national trading corporations.

"It would be like finding money in world markets. If I were (the Chinese) I'd go after the gold and oil as quick as I could. It would buy a lot of things they need," Horner said in an interview.

He said China has discovered a new ore body that it wants to develop along with two existing gold mines. Canadian engineers are discussing gold mine development with the Chinese but no agreements have yet been reached.

The trade minister said the Chinese also want Petrocan to bring prepared development contracts when officials of the government-owned oil company visit China later this month.

"The trade ministers told me China had a lot of room for foreign oil companies," Horner said.

"Petrocan has been interested in doing some offshore work — seismic studies and exploratory drilling — and then they'd like to work out an agreement," Horner said.

"But they seem uncertain in the refinery area. Canada has great capabilities to take sulfur out of gas and we know how to refine oil with a high paraffin content — the kind China produces."

Horner said that during his 33-member delegation's visit the Chinese also asked about Canadian port facilities.

"They also seem interested in developing deepwater harbors," he said. "I told them to come and take a look at the Roberts Bank"

Horner said he had invited several teams of Chinese experts to Canada to study telecommunications, nuclear processing, agriculture petrochemical refining and general industry

The trade minister said Canadian exports to China would likely reach $500 million in 1978, with imports from China estimated at about $100 million.

Nutty, But Not Funny

Fred Bondesen of 4803 West Saanich Road was in his kitchen getting a drink when he heard a crash, then a plop, and looked down and saw a quarter-inch machine nut lying on the floor by his foot.

When he turned he saw a hole the size of a 50-cent piece in a small glass window in the front door.

Bondesen said the nut had probably been fired from a slingshot and may have been aimed at a large plate glass window about 18 inches from the door. Saanich police are investigating.

Coleus Awkward to Grow Here

GARDENING

hilda beastall

Coleus, the beautifully colored annual foliage plant grown from seed, was for years popular in the warmer eastern Canada gardens. As more people move westward to the cooler coast these gardeners hope to be able to grow at least some of their old favorites more easily.

With coleus, it is not always possible.

The first reason is our delightfully long spring which enables us to grow literally thousands of flowers to fill the cool weeks with bloom before a day in June announces suddenly, "This is summer."

Coleus is a warm temperature plant. It needs soil warmth around 21° to 24° C. for the germination of the seeds, and an air temperature for growing that is never less than 16° C. at night. Lower than 16° C. means stopping the growth and a tendency to drop the leaves.

A hot summer here would be ideal for coleus plants outdoors if the night were also warm, for a 27° C. day is much to their liking when planted outdoors.

The raising of a packet of mixed coleus seeds is a fascinating experience. The colors as they develop are exciting. Each day you look for the ultimate, only to have it surpassed the following day.

If a heated greenhouse is used, or an indoor plastic greenhouse with controlled lighting, coleus seed may be sown here no sooner than April 1. It is unlikely to be warm enough outdoors for the plants until June 1 at the earliest.

Do not cover the seeds with soil. Press them in gently with a flat board. Cover with clear plastic to prevent evaporation of moisture from the soil and drying of the surface where the seeds are sown.

The seedlings will need pricking out, each into a two-inch container. A cheese- cloth shade from hot sunlight will encourage stronger color development at this stage, yet the plants want the surrounding warmth and good light to keep them sturdy.

Beds of these lovely plants are seen not only in home gardens of eastern Canada but in the public parks where short, hot summers are common.

There may be anywhere between 100 and 150 seeds in a regular packet of coleus seed (according to price); a home gardener here might like to split a mixed packet with a group of friends, and then trade colors as they develop.

A small garden bed in a warm location, open to overhead light and sunshine might be with luck the very place to display a couple of dozen coleus plants in all their gorgeous colors. They need overhead light to prevent spindling and poor color. If protected by a fence or thick shrubs against cool summer breezes all should be well.

Selected plants may be kept over winter for spring propagating, but this would need the use of a heated greenhouse or sunroom with glass on three sides.

One seedhouse lists new varieties this year, both in color and in habit. Some are low and bushy suitable for hanging containers on a partially sunny but definitely warm, sheltered balcony.

Think of the pleasure involved in growing these vibrant foliage plants from seed, especially if you have been accustomed to admiring them in another climate. It will be like a touch of home in your beautiful new environment.

PRESIDENT WILLIAM MULHOLLAND, 52, became chief executive officer of the Bank of Montreal today, succeeding Fred McNeil, 62, who continues as chairman of the board. Mulholland has been president of the bank since 1974.

Pike Rites Slated

A memorial service will be held at 1 p.m. Thursday in St. Mary the Virgin Church on Metchosin Road for longtime Metchosin youth leader Chris Pike, 75, who died suddenly on Thursday.

Born in Dublin in 1903, Pike came to Canada in 1920. He moved to the Sooke area in 1921 and in 1938 moved to Rocky Point Road in Metchosin.

In June last year, he was awarded the gold honor badge, the highest award of the Canadian Forestry Association of B.C. In 1964, he founded the Metchosin Junior Forest Warden Club.

He was associated with the youth of Metchosin for about 32 years as a Cub and Scout leader.

During the Second World War he served with the Pacific Coast Militia Rangers, patrolling the west coast of Vancouver Island.

He is survived by his wife Vera and sons Leo of Colwood, Tony of Sechelt and Ian of Delta.

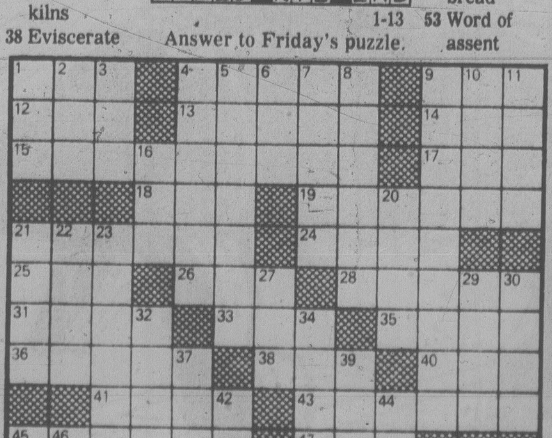
Answer to Friday's puzzle.



Gov't. Bonds To Pay Record Interest

OTTAWA (UPC) - Finance Minister Jean Chretien announced record high interest rates of 10.25 percent Monday for $500 million of Government of Canada marketable bonds to be issued Feb. 1.

"The interest rates are the highest in our recordings," said a department spokesman. "Basically, the increase is to keep the bonds attractive to the public and to attract funds."

The bonds are usually bought by institutions, chartered banks, trust and insurance companies.

The interest rate on bonds hovered around 9.50 per cent for most of 1978 but during the first week of December the bank re-issued the bonds and hiked the interest rates to 9.89.

A total of $800 million in government bonds will be issued in three blocks:

— Initially 9.75-per-cent bonds due Feb. 1, 1982 at a price of 98.85 per cent to yield about 10.20 to maturity;

— Then 10-per-cent bonds due June 1, 1984 at a price of 99.25 per cent to yield about 10.31 per cent to maturity; — And finally 10.25-per-cent bonds due Feb. 1, 2004 at price of 99.50 per cent to yield about 10.31 per cent to maturity.

The 10.25 bonds dated Feb. 1 and due Feb. 1, 2004, will be issued in a maximum amount of $500 million.

The Bank of Canada has agreed to acquire a minimum of $200 million of the new bonds. The acquisition will be open to maturity except the total will include a minimum of $75 million of the 2004 maturity.

The bank will replace its holding of some $70 million of bonds maturing on Feb. 1

Milfoil Critics Query Budget

The provincial government's control program for Eurasian milfoil weed should be reviewed by an independent auditor, Jay Lewis, information director for the South Okanagan Environmental Coalition, said Saturday.

Lewis said in Penticton the government spent about $2 million last year on a chemical-mechanical harvesting program that should have cost about $200,000.

The coalition organized opposition to the milfoil program last year and published a book on the controversial herbicide 2,4-D.

Lewis said the Ontario government's mechanical harvesting program last year budgeted about $120,000 for 1,000 acres.

Self-Destruct Off

PORT MCNEILL (CP) — The regional district of Mount Waddington, the first such British Columbia district to vote to self-destruct, has decided to stay in business.

The 10 directors for the district, who voted to disband last Aug. 6, have voted 9-to-1 to rescind that motion.

Meanwhile, regional district employees have been given an 8.3-per-cent wage increase.

Actress Says J. F. K.'s Eyes Lit Romance

NEW YORK — Actress Gene Tierney claims in a soon-to-be published autobiography that she had a romance with John F. Kennedy for several years while he was a bachelor.

This week's Newsweek magazine reports that the former movie actress' book, Self Portrait, due to be published in April, relates how she turned around on a Hollywood set and saw "the most perfect blue eyes I had ever seen on a man."

"He was standing near the camera, wearing a navy lieutenant's uniform," Tierney, 58, is reported to have written. "He smiled at me. My reaction was right out of a ladies' romance novel. Literally, my heart skipped."

The magazine says the actress claims she started secretly dating Kennedy in 1945 while the future president was still in the U.S. Navy and continued to see him through the time he served as a congressman from Massachusetts.

TORONTO — Keith Richards, musical genius behind the Rolling Stones rock band, will have one of Canada's most prominent attorneys in his corner when he fights a government appeal against his sentence for heroin possession.

Former Ontario Ombudsman Arthur Maloney said Sunday he has been engaged to defend Richards.

LOS ANGELES — Actor John Wayne, 71, was cracking jokes with his family only three days after having his stomach removed, hospital officials said today.

WASHINGTON — President Carter conceded Saturday that he has no control over his ebullient, controversial brother with whom he has "very strong differences of opinion on many issues."

"Any attempt that I might make to control Billy's words or actions would not be successful at all," the president said.

HATHAWAY

NEW YORK — Singer-songwriter Donny Hathaway, 33, jumped from the 15th floor of the Essex House Hotel on Central Park South about midnight Saturday night following dinner and a recording session with singer Roberta Flack, police said.

Hathaway and Flack shared a Grammy Award in 1973 for the song Where is the Love. The hit sold more than one million copies.

LONDON — William Syer Bristowe, who ate spiders in Thailand and shook up passengers by taking a giant spider for a walk on a trans-Atlantic liner, has died at the age of 77.

A scientist by training, a personnel manager by profession, Bristowe became a world authority on spiders.

HOT SPRINGS, Ark. — Australian-born soprano Marjorie Lawrence, 71, who gamely continued her singing career from a wheelchair after being stricken with polio in 1941, will be buried Wednesday near the 400-acre ranch that had been her home. She died Saturday in in nearby Little Rock.

ATLANTA — Seattle will be one of Chinese Vice-Premier Teng Hsiao-Ping's stops during his forthcoming trip to the United States later this month. He will also visit Atlanta and Houston in addition to Washington, D.C..

Leonard Woodcock, chief of the U. S. liaison office in Peking, will accompany Teng on his travels in the United States as President Carter's personal representative.

HOLLYWOOD — Pete Smith, a wry-voiced former press agent whose short comedies delighted movie audiences for 20 years, died Friday after leaping from the roof of a Santa Monica convalescent hospital. Smith, 86, had been in ill health for several years.

Strip Wedding? Well, Just About

The 36-22-24 dancer, whose real name is Anne Bowman, and airman 2nd Class Wayne Bray were married Sunday at the Jolly Trolly Casino on the Las Vegas "Strip," where Miss Bowman works.

"We wanted to have a different wedding than anybody," said the 26-year-old bride, who has been married three times and has four children, ranging in age from 7 to 13.

"We thought about going to a mountain and getting married on the top and skiing down. But he laughed and said let's just have a topless wedding and I said all right. He is very, very shy. He stares at his drink during the shows. I expected him to be redder during the wedding than the red and white worn by my bridesmaids."

The bride wore a floor length, high-neck white wedding gown with veil and train. The bodice was of see-through nylon lace. The bridegroom wore a formal off-white suit.

"I thought about being married topless, but at the same time I wanted to be special," said the dancer, who is originally from Hattiesburg, Miss.

The bride did take the day off from work, but did some dancing anyway. She and her new husband danced to the slow music of At the End of My Prayer, then the bridesmaids returned to the stage one by one to perform topless, semi-strip routines to a loud rhythemic beat.

It was the first marriage for Bray, 20, a native of England who currently is stationed at Lackland Air Force Base, Tex.

Few Lottery Winners Know How to Join Jet Set

TORONTO (CP) — Only a handful of instant millionaires go out and really have a ball with their new fortunes, says Dr. Roy Kaplan, a sociologist who has written a book about lottery winners.

Dr. Kaplan recently headed a team of sociologists commissioned by Loto Canada to study its millionaire winners and how winning changed them.

"I'm just doing what I used to but more of it," was a common reply to Kaplan's survey of 93 winners of more than $50,000 outside Ontario and 19 million-dollar winners within the province.

The average instant millionaire is 51 years old with a 10th grade education, the survey showed. Four out of five quit their jobs. Most put the money in the bank and spent more time watching television, reading newspapers and working around the house.

In a New Brunswick supermarket, 15 co-holders of a winning ticket walked off the job together. Interestingly, the survey says, most who quit their jobs say they were satisfied with them and would choose them again.

There are some winners, of course, who realize their dreams. One former racetrack employee bought a beautiful bachelor-pad condominium and moved out of the tackroom where he used to sleep. The apartment is empty several months of the year while he lazes on the beach in the Canary Islands.

One man took his family of nine to Hawaii for two weeks. The bill came to $15,000. Another bought a bar in which he often buys his patrons drinks.

A charitable trapper used part of his prize to build lakeside cabins where needy families can spend a few weeks vacation.

And one millionairess now lives alone in a beautiful new home while her estranged husband still works in a supermarket.

Almost everyone bought a new car, but while there were a few expensive sport and luxury models, most winners just put another Ford or Chevrolet in the driveway.

Five potential millionaires last year did not claim the money.

The sociologists uncovered malicious gossip about winners — most of it sour grapes. Marriages rumored broken were found intact, alleged alcoholics were really abstainers and rumored spendthrifts turned out to be frugal and industrious.

"Despite some problems and pitfalls encountered by winners," the report concludes, "on the whole, the quality of their lives has been improved and they are thankful and richer in many ways for that."

But why is the spending of lottery millionaires so conservative?

Say the sociologists: "It is easy to catapult people from one economic status to another overnight, but a lifetime of behavior does not change as rapidly."

New Envoys Named

OTTAWA (UPC) - External Affairs Minister Don Jamieson today announced the appointment of four ambassadors and three high commissioners.

T.G. Arcand, 44, will replace Andre Couvrette as ambassador to Lebanon, a post which also covers Syria and Jordan. Arcand joined the department in 1958 and has served in Prague, Yaounde, Copenhagen, Dar-es-Salaam and the Holy See.

Yvon Beaulne, 59, formerly ambassador to UNESCO in Paris, was appointed as ambassador to the Holy See, replacing Paul Tremblay.

British Columbia native, Robert Middleton, 47, was named Ambassador to South Africa and the High Comissioner to Botswana, Lesotho and Swaziland, and Aubrey Morantz, 39, will replace D.B. Hicks as ambassaodr to Addis Ababa. Other appointments were: Allan Roger, 49, as the new high commissioner to Barbados, Grenada, Dominica and commissioner to Monserrat and the West Indies Associated States. T.B. Sheehan, 41, as new high commissioner to Kingston and the Bahamas and Commissioner to Belize. Pierre Trottier, 51, as ambassador and Canada's permanent delegate to UNESCO.

Ozone Damage Double?

TORONTO (CP) — A scientific report says damage caused to the globe's vital ozone layer by a manmade chemical used in some aerosol spray cans, refrigerators and insulating foam might be twice as much as predicted in a report two years ago.

The report, prepared by the stratospheric advisory committee to the Atmospheric Environment Service, was given to the federal government in October and has not been made public.

Dr. Warren Godson, director-general of the federal government's atmospheric research directorate, says the Environmental Protection Service is considering the report and may recommend a ban on fluorocarbons in spray cans.

Fluorocarbons, the manmade chemical known best as a propellant in common household spray cans, float slowly through the atmosphere into the stratosphere. When they reach the unfiltered ultraviolet rays of the sun, they are turned into chlorine—which devours the ozone layer.

The ozone layer is vital to life on earth because it helps absorb the most harmful of the sun's rays. Possible effects of a reduction in the ozone layer include an increase in the incidents of skin cancer, genetic mutations and changes in the world's climate.

The advisory committee's 1976 report estimated that if fluorocarbons continued to be released into the atmosphere at the 1973 rate, there would be a 10-per-cent reduction in the ozone layer by the year 2000.

The current report's estimate of the most probable ozone depletion by fluorocarbons "has increased to 15 per cent, although the uncertainty is such that there is a five-per-cent chance that the depletion could be as small as two per cent or as large as 25 per cent."

The U.S. government gradually is eliminating the use of fluorocarbons in spray cans but Canada has not made such a move.

BLIZZARD CLAIMS 29 LIVES

Waist-Deep Snowfall. . . Chicago Braced for More

Times News Services

CHICAGO — This second-largest U.S. city was digging out from its second-worst blizzard in history today with a special army of 2,500 workers. But the forecast was for possibly more snow by mid-week.

Helicopters were used today to take sick and injured to Chicago-area hospitals because ambulances could not get through the 75 centimetres of snow, 52 centimetres of it from the weekend storm that hit the Midwest and left at least 29 persons dead — seven in Chicago alone.

O'Hare International Airport, the world's busiest, was closed to all flights due to snow-covered runways. Officials said they hope to reopen the facility early today.

Seven of 11 emergency centres set up in the city to distribute food reported their supplies were exhausted by Sunday, and request for emergency fuel supplies depleted the reserves at two city storage facilities, officials said.

Elsewhere in the Midwest, the snow combined with subfreezing temperatures to cause traffic accidents, break weather records, strand travellers and leave thousands without electricity.

The temperature plummeted throughout the Midwest, hitting 30 degrees below zero Celsius in a number of centres.

Shipping on the Great Lakes was coming to an earlier-than-usual halt for the winter, as ice became too thick for icebreakers to keep channels open.

Northern Illinois, Kansas and eastern Iowa were under states of emergency.

There were 11 weather-related deaths in Illinois, two in Iowa, five in Kansas and two in Missouri, where the National Guard was called out during the weekend to rescue motorists. Kansas deactivated its guard today.

Michigan, Wisconsin and Indiana all struggled with more than 30 centimetres of snow following the weekend storm. There were eight deaths in Wisconsin and one in Indiana.

The forecast for the snow-buried areas was grim. The National Weather Service said another major storm may be in store for the Midwest by mid-week. Chicago faced a 40-per-cent chance of more snow by tonight.

Most deaths were attributed to exposure. Travellers died attempting to walk from stranded automobiles to safety, and some pedestrians who slipped and fell were unable to get up due to their injuries. Others died in traffic accidents or of heart attacks.

The National Weather Service said a 55-centimetre snowstorm in 1967 was Chicago's worst, but that there had never before been more than 70 centimetres of snow on the ground.

Meanwhile, in Saskatchewan, a snow-clogged switch sent 20 cars of a CP Rail freight train off the tracks early today, 80 kilometres east of Regina. RCMP said no one was injured.

In Eastern Canada, freezing rain and high winds played havoc with Air Canada schedules Sunday night, causing the cancellation of domestic flights in and out of Montreal.

Great Land Sale Ready In Months -Chabot

The Great British Columbia Land Sale should be ready to go in three or four months, Lands Minister Jim Chabot said today.

Large tracts of Crown land will be broken into smaller parcels and put on the open market at either market value or 10 per cent below, the minister said.

In large population areas where available Crown land is scarce, the parcels will likely be subject to bonus bidding, thrusting the cost even higher.

Chabot, however, agreed a lottery system of disbursement would keep the prices down.

"But either way there will be unhappy people," he said.

He agreed the freeing of Crown land will have a greater effect in rural areas.

Chabot was elaborating on a promise Premier Bill Bennett has made several times in recent months — on a trip north aboard the B.C. Rail, during the cabinet shuffle when Chabot was given responsibility for land, and on the weekend at a mini Socred convention in Vancouver.

Chabot said his ministry is conducting a survey to determine the kind of land people want.

He said he believes most people would like to have five acres just out of town, and the survey will tell him if his gut feeling is correct.

That report, which should be finished in three weeks, will determine the size of the land allotments.

There will be many other hurdles to mount, including the necessary legislative changes, but if everything goes smoothly the plan could be in place in three or four months, Chabot said.

Cost of purchasing the Crown land will have to be close to market value because the government has no intention of causing havoc with land values, he said.

The government has a responsibility to protect those who have already purchased their land.

But the move should stabilize land prices, or even decrease them a little, for years throughout the province, he said.

And it will make more readily available the type of land people want to buy. Those with private land for sale prefer to sell it in city-size lots because that's where they get the greatest return, Chabot said.

"We see the opportunity to fill the need for those wanting small acreage," he said.

In some areas larger tracts for farming will be freed and by this summer, 14 recreational subdivisions containing hundreds of lots should be available for leasing, he said.

Crown land has always been available through long-term leases, but applications often took years to get processed.

Bennett has promised that under the new proposal people will be able to obtain

2 DIE, 3 HURT IN FIERY CRASH

Two youths were killed and three companions seriously hurt Saturday night in a fiery car crash overlooking Patricia Bay Highway.

Saanich police said the car in which they were riding topped a hill on Claremont at high speed, left the road, and struck a tree. It burst into flames before they could get out.

The driver, Spencer Glen Larson, 18, of 2370 Weiler, Sidney, and Dale Robert Storey, 15, of 911 Cloverdale, died in the crash, police said.

Jack Donald Schwartzenberger, 18, of 769 Birch, Sidney; Leith Cresswell Hulbert, 18, of 911 Cloverdale, and Lawrence Edward Huisman, 15, of 564 Obed, were in serious condition in hospital with burns and other injuries.

Constable Murray Kilshaw of Saanich police suffered burns in rescuing the survivors and was kept in hospital overnight.

Shah Seeing Sadat En Route to U.S.

TEHRAN (CP) — Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi, his 37-year rule rocked by months of mass protest and bloodshed, will leave Iran this week for Aswan, Egypt, on his way to the United States, it was reported today.

Some sources said the shah will leave Tuesday, others said he will depart Wednesday.

The monarch has scheduled a news conference for Tuesday when he is expected to announce his plans.

The Iranian senate today gave its endorsement to the new civilian government of Prime Minister Shahpour Bakhtiar. It had been expected that after the lower house of parliament gives its approval — the vote is scheduled Tuesday — the way will be cleared for Bakhtiar to take over full control of the country.

Meanwhile, new political violence flared across the country and it was reported that 20 persons were killed Sunday and today, including a former U.S. Air Force colonel in the southeastern city of Kerman.

U.S. embassy officials identified the American as Martin Berkowitz, 53, of San Francisco.

The newspaper Khayan reported Berkowitz, head of a copper-mining concern, was apparently stabbed Sunday night in his home and that the words "Go Back To Your Country" were found scrawled on the wall of the house.

Sources here confirmed an earlier report by Egyptian officials that the beleaguered 59-year-old shah will meet with Egyptian President Anwar Sadat in the southern Egyptian town.

The shah, accompanied by Empress Farah, intends to stay at his estate near Los Angeles, the sources said.

The royal couple is expected to spend only a day in Egypt and may make some stops in Western Europe en route to the U.S., the sources added.

The shah's journey this week, ending in the U.S., has been described as an extended vacation, but many political observers here believe the popular opposition to the monarch will make it impossible for him to return.

Electricity Might: And A Widow's Mite. . .

NUORO, Sardinia (UPI) — The full majesty and power of the Italian state electricity board is being marshalled against a little old Sardinian woman because it claims she owes them one lire.

It takes 8.4 lire to make one cent nowadays, but the board has solemnly made out a bill for two kilowatt hours, less a tiny reimbursement due, to Giuseppa Delogu, an elderly, ailing pensioner in the care of Nuoro social workers who administer her small pension.

"The law requires we collect all sums due, however small," a board spokesman in Nuoro said. "To clear this matter from our books will cost us several hundred lire."

The problem is that the smallest coin in Italy is five lire and it is physically impossible to hand over the cash.

"I somehow do not feel we will be attaching anyone's furniture if we don't get paid," the board spokesman said.

A social security office spokesman snapped his retort: "We will pay the bill with a five lire coin — but we will be wanting our four lire change."

Steptoe & Son As Test-Tube Delivers Again

LONDON (AP) — The Daily Mail says Britain's second test-tube baby has been born in Glasgow to a 32-year-old cooking teacher.

The newspaper says in a copyrighted story that the baby, a five-pound 12-ounce boy named Alastair James Lauchan Montgomery, was born Sunday to Grace Montgomery.

It says that Dr. Patrick Steptoe fertilized one of the woman's ova in the laboratory with her husband's sperm and then implanted the egg in her womb to mature normally.

Dr. Steptoe, one of Britain's leading gynecologists, and physiologist Robert Edwards developed the technique and first used it successfully on Lesley Brown, who gave birth last July 25 in Oldham, England, to a girl. It was the first authenticated birth of a baby conceived outside the mother's body.

The Mail says Mrs. Montgomery, like Mrs. Brown, was unable to conceive normally because her fallopian tubes were blocked.

Doctors in Calcutta, India, reported that another test-tube baby, a girl, was born last Oct. 3 to the wife of an Indian businessman, but a state committee said the doctors submitted an "unconvincing and disappointing" report on their technique.

U.S. Wants FLQ Man

MONTREAL (UPC) — United States authorities say they will attempt to extradite Pierre Charette — the suspected Front de Liberation du Quebec terrorist who returned to Canada Sunday — to stand trial for a 1969 plane hijacking.

Police said the warrant alleged Charrette had knowledge of "several" bombing incidents in 1968 and 1969.

In Washington, a Federal Bureau of Investigation spokesman said Charrette and an alleged confederate, Alain Allard, are wanted for diverting a Miami-bound National Airlines 727 from New York's La Guardia Airport to Cuba on May 5, 1969.

The Montreal weekly Dimanche-Matin reported Marc Carbonneau and Yves Langlois would return to Canada to face conspiracy, kidnapping, sequestration and extortion, all related to the abduction of British diplomat James Cross.

The report said the two notified friends they would return to Canada in the footsteps of Jacques Lanctot and Louise and Jacques Cossette-Trudel, who were all freed on $50,000 bail each pending preliminary hearings.

PRODUCE SUPPLY PROBED

VANCOUVER (CP) — The RCMP's commercial crime section is investigating allegations of kickbacks paid by wholesalers who supply goods to Woodward's stores, a police spokesman said today.

S.-Sgt. R. P. Roseberry said an investigation was started in mid-1978 into the paying of secret commissions following a complaint by Woodward's.

He said members of the commercial crime section conducted 25 searches of homes and businesses in the Vancouver area Jan. 10.

The allegations primarily involved produce suppliers, Roseberry said.

Mideast Caution Advised

JERUSALEM (CP) — Canada should withhold any decision to move its embassy in Israeli to Jerusalem from Tel Aviv until after Israeli-Egyptian peace talks have run their course, Opposition Leader Joe Clark said today.

Following a 45-minute meeting with Prime Minister Menachem Begin, Clark said it would be inopportune to move the Canadian embassy because the decision might alter the process leading to peace.

Israel has been lobbying foreign governments to establish their embassies here in order to press its claim on Jerusalem as Israel's capital city.

Clark said such a move by Canada or the United States might be interpreted by Arab states as a pro-Israeli position that might undermine the peace process that started last year at Camp David.

Clark is in Israel as part of a four-nation tour that ends Thursday after a visit to Jordan

A meeting later in the day with opposition leader Shimon Peres ended abruptly when Peres dashed off to make a speech in the Knesset leaving Clark momentarily startled and flustered.

Clark, who arrived for the session after a heavy day of meetings and sightseeing, was asking Peres questions about various aspects of the Middle East dilemma when his secretary popped into the room with a message.

"Excuse me," Peres blurted out as he rose from his seat, grabbing a sheaf of notes.

"I must go make a speech."

Earlier, Clark and his wife Maureen McTeer visited a Jewish memorial to the Holocaust — the Second World War years when one-third of world's 18 million Jews were exterminated by Hitler's Nazis.

He's Weathered 27 Years

By PAT DUFOUR
Times Staff

Mr. Station Papa is swallowing the anchor.

Jack Scarlett retired Sunday after 27 years of bouncing around on weather ships at the station, 855 miles out in the Pacific from Esquimalt.

He began his stint with the weather ships aboard the converted frigate Stonetown in 1952, changing to the Quadra when she and her sister ship Vancouver took over Station Papa duties.

Scarlett, 57, of 1755 Lulie has no idea how many tours of duty he's done, but of 51 trips made by Quadra he's missed only one.

Strangely enough, he's no seaman.

He joined what is now the Atmospheric Environment Service of Canada in 1946, serving one year at Port Hardy and the remaining four years of his shore time pioneering weather stations in both the eastern and western Arctic.

Arctic life, he says, was not for the lazy. It was seven days a week, working on other basic chores when not on normal duties. These included erecting prefabricated buildings, helping to build airstrips and keeping the runways open.

He vividly recalls the chill he and the six others at the Mould Bay station in the eastern Arctic faced when it came time to clear 5,000 feet of runway.

Scarlett says his love of the sea made him decide to spend the rest of his time on the weather ships. He comes by it honestly. A British great-grandfather ran a fleet of fishing vessels.

Scarlett is B.C. born and raised. As a boy of about 6 he remembers the excitement in Barkerville during the days of the second gold rush in the 1930s. His father was gold commissioner.

Scarlett tried to join the Royal Canadian Navy during the Second World War. The navy, however, wouldn't recognize his radio technician training so he settled for the Royal Canadian Air Force.

Like many other Canadians, Scarlett was seconded to the Royal Air Force, serving mostly with night fighter squadrons in Britain, Africa and Italy.

The only time he was able to go to sea was when he served in an LST (Landing Ship Tanks), which was being used as a mobile radar station off the Anzio beaches.

That seatime came to a quick end when the LST was torpedoed and the crew rescued by a trawler.

''I've always had a very soft spot for trawlers since then,'' he says.

Soft as that spot may be, it would be hard to replace the affinity that has grown between Scarlett and the weather ships.

Readings that can be taken by balloons as high up as 100,000 feet have helped make Station Papa one of the most appreciated weather stations in the world, he says.

The crews that keep Quadra and Vancouver on station, despite high winds and rough seas, also claim Scarlett's respect.

''Like so many things Canadian, we tend to downrate them. They're doing a good job.''

Mini-World Scheme Rejected

The proposal to establish a ''mini-world'' tourist attraction on the site of the former St. Ann's Academy has been rejected, Provincial Secretary Hugh Curtis said today.

Curtis has instructed the B.C. Buildings Corp. to break off further negotiations with the group of businessmen who sought a long-term lease to develop the site.

Curtis said the St. Ann's property is ''priceless in terms of its relationship to Beacon Hill Park, the legislative precinct and the Inner Harbor.''

Its historical value should be preserved for public use and enjoyment, he added.

First Area Meeting Tonight

Saanich council's 1979 series of five neighborhood meetings opens tonight with a regular council meeting at Claremont senior secondary school, 4980 Wesley.

Other meetings scheduled are Feb. 19, Mount Douglas senior secondary, 3970 Gordon Head; March 19, Cadboro Bay United Church, 2625 Arbutus; April 17, Spectrum community school, 957 West Burnside; May 21, Royal Oak school, 4564 West Saanich.

All meetings start at 7.30 p.m.

The policy of holding council meetings in various neighborhood centres was adopted last year and the meetings generally attracted good attendances.

Realtors Urge Retirement Pitch

By AL FORREST
Times Staff

The time has come for Victoria to pursue more retirement settlers as vigorously as it does tourists, Victoria Real Estate Board president Bev Highton said today.

''We should launch an advertising campaign, especially in Alberta and Ontario, and build up our population base,'' he said.

''Industrial development alone is not the answer. Some people object to industries moving here but who could object to grandmothers and granddads coming to Victoria?''

He said the project should be jointly financed by the Greater Victoria Chamber of Commerce, the industrial development commission and the provincial government.

The Victoria Real Estate Board would assist in any way it could, although it is not a marketing organization.

''The campaign should produce results because we have some good sales arguments now. For one thing our housing prices are lower than Alberta and Ontario — Victoria ranks about 27th among major Canadian cities in terms of house prices — and fewer Canadians will be wanting to retire to the U.S.

''With the dollar situation the way it is, it is costly to retire in places like California and Arizona. People will be looking for a Canadian retirement city and that means Victoria.''

Highton said the board would put a high priority on getting this campaign under way.

The average property sold under the Multiple Listing Service increased by 3.4 per cent during 1978 and a similar minor increase is expected this year.

Without a population increase, there will be only moderate demand for additional buildings in 1979, he said.

No new shopping centres will be needed. Some districts might need community shopping facilities but regional centres, such as the one proposed for Broadmead, would be premature — barring a spectacular population increase this year.

''If someone wants to build a major shopping centre, that's fine. We wouldn't oppose it. We are simply stating that the need is not there at this time.''

Likewise, there is no demand for additional apartment buildings at this time — except at prime locations. While older apartments are full, new ones with high rents have vacancy rates higher than owners would like, he said. Apartments in Esquimalt in particular have a vacancy problem.

Tax Credit Workshop

The Victoria taxation office will hold a special workshop Wednesday to train volunteers from organizations, groups or offices to answer questions regarding the child tax credit.

The new credit, which can be as much as $200 per child, is available for the 1978 tax year and a special tax form and information on the credit will be sent along with the January family allowance cheques.

Betty Newton, public relations officer for the Victoria taxation office, said today the tax credit can only be claimed by the person who receives the family allowance, in most cases the mother.

Therefore, there are going to be a lot of people who have to fill out an income tax form for the first time in order to receive the credit, she said.

''We are expecting at least two million new filers across Canada,'' Mrs. Newton said.

Since an incomplete or incorrect tax form can cause delays in payment, the Victoria taxation office will hold the workshop at St. John's Church Crypt, 1611 Quadra, at 7:30 p.m.to train volunteers who can help people fill out the form properly.

Those families with a maximum $18,000 net income will be eligible for the $200. Family income over that amount will reduce the credit depending on the number of children.

Youth, 16, Held After Shot Fired

A 16-year-old was arrested by Victoria police following an incident in which a shot was fired early today in the Burnside district.

Two companions, believed to be armed, are sought by police.

Officers were called to the Mayfair Motel, 650 Speed, shortly after 2 a.m. where manager Tae Kwon struggled with three young people who had been refused accommodation.

He told police they were causing a disturbance and he turned them away. Hearing a bang just outside, Kwon said he thought they had smashed something and he ran out and grabbed two of them while the third struggled to get them free.

Two escaped but Kwon held the third for police who had been called by a cab driver who noticed the disturbance.

At that point Liam Rutherford, an occupant of an adjoining unit in the motel, ran out and said he had been awakened by a bullet crashing through his room just missing his head and lodging in an opposite wall.

Kwon said the youngster he caught asked to use a washroom because he felt sick, and when he checked the room later he found a loaded .38 Colt army special pistol and holster.

It was believed the gun was one of three stolen earlier that night in a break-in at the SPCA, 3150 Napier.

The juvenile faces charges of breaking, entering and theft, possession of stolen property, possession of an unregistered restricted weapon and discharging a firearm.

City police said they are investigating 17 weekend burglaries .

Strangling Suspect In Court Tuesday

Tommy Ross, 19, arrested in Los Angeles and charged with first-degree murder in the strangling of a Victoria woman last May, will appear before a provincial court judge here Tuesday.

In an unusual development Saturday, Ross, an American, waived his right to an extradition hearing and returned to Victoria with detectives Einar Hemstad and Douglas Richardson of the city police.

Ross was charged in the May 14 death of Janice Forbes, 26, in her Queens Avenue apartment.

He arrived here Saturday from California where he was being held on charges of burglary and attempted rape.

Insp. Angus Stewart said the accused and American authorities had been co-operative. He said it is the first time he can recall that extradition has been waived in these circumstances.

In addition, Stewart said, the Los Angeles court which had already committed Ross for trial, agreed to drop proceedings, and Los Angeles police waived their charge in favor of the Victoria police.

The accused had been interviewed by police from various parts of the Pacific Coast and northwestern states in connection with assaults and murders in the past two years. Police in Port Angeles had laid a charge against Ross for a murder April 24, 1978, and were planning interstate extradition when the Victoria warrant was served.

Ross will be charged formally Tuesday when the date for a preliminary hearing is expected to be set.

Ferry Back On Run

The Mayne Queen ferry was back in service at 5:30 a.m. Sunday after a broken timing chain in one of her engines forced her off normal runs on Saturday.

B.C. Ferry Corporation traffic manager Bill Bouchard said today the trouble began Friday evening.

After docking at Mayne Island, she limped back to Swartz Bay on one engine, unable to make her next stop to Saturna Island.

Two Saturna Island residents aboard the ferry were lodged on Mayne Island and five mainland visitors, who intended to visit Saturna, were brought back to Swartz Bay on the Mayne Queen. They were put up at the Sidney Hotel and returned to Vancouver on Saturday.

A technician, who had travelled to Saturna on Friday afternoon, chose to stay with his vehicle, Bouchard said.

Home Saved By Detector

The chief said the fire broke out in a downstairs room where the heater had been lit then left unattended just before 6 p.m.

Leeke said wood panelling near a smoke pipe was scorched because the pipe had been installed closer than the required 18 inches clearance from combustible material.

He said it serves as a warning to others who may be using the increasingly popular wood burners, and to the efficacy of smoke detectors.

''It probably saved this guy's house. I wouldn't be without one in my house,'' Leeke said.

Oak Bay firemen will advise residents on the proper installation of solid fuel burners, and will inspect them before they are fired up.

So Who Wants to Loaf on Hot Beach?

ABOUT THIS TIME OF year, I make my first tentative approach to spring.

''Won't be long now,'' I announced as I gazed out of our dining-room window. ''There's actually heat to that sunshine.''

She looked out to the January scene. My chopping block and our picnic table were mounded with snow. Atop our clothes-line post, Dum-dum the resident seagull stood on one chilled red foot while he warmed the other in his belly-feathers.

Win returned to one of the winter rites that seem to be reserved for this bleak hiatus between the end of one year and the springtime of another.

Some people call this ''Squaring Up Accounts.'' Others refer to it more formally as ''Getting the Books in Order.'' In any case, it is born of a yearning to plunge into the new year in good marching trim, with everything neat and tidy. It calls for a combing through of bills to make sure that all are paid, and a rigorous bank-book checking of outgo against input.

What this drill chiefly accomplishes is to impress on us that once again, we have spent much too much on Christmas. That in turn leads to another manifestation reserved for this dragging, sagging time of year.

''Do you know how much we spent?'' Win asked, pencil eraser poised over her merciless little pocket calculator.

''I'm not sure I want to know,'' I told her.

Win punched figures. She announced a total. I reared back in disbelief.

''That settles that,'' Win said cheerfully. ''Now we start watching our expenses.''

Lunch-time drew near. I found myself, as usual, in good appetite.

Win, busy at her kitchen counter, ignored my lead-pipe hint. I tried again.

''Or maybe there are a few leftover sausage rolls,'' I suggested hopefully.

With a precise and decisive motion, Win set a saucepan on a front stove-burner.

''What we're having,'' she said, ''is turkey soup. I found a new recipe for it. I think you'll like it.''

Any Doubting Thomas who scoffs at the miracle of the loaves and fishes need only consider the mileage that a housewife is able to obtain from a turkey carcass.

But as matters turned out, the new turkey soup recipe — which struck me as remarkably like Win's old recipe — wasn't half bad.

I cleaned up my bowl and offered it for a second helping. But Win, smiling, turned me down with a shake of her head.

''This is a wonderful time to take off a few pounds,'' she said cheerfully. ''By the end of February, you'll be able to wear your blue suit again.''

All of which reminds me that generous December is behind us, and that the winds of March and a new-budded world are impossibly far ahead.

In between stretches winter, from which there is no escape.

At this point, my attention was distracted by the arrival of a taxi at the home of neighbors down the road.

''Ed's car must have broken down,'' I observed to Win.

Here in the country, we keep close and friendly track of each other's comings and goings. We watched with interest as Ed and his wife came out of the house, carrying suitcases, and headed for the taxi. The driver tagged after them with another couple of bags.

''I just remembered,'' Win told me. ''Myra said they were going to Hawaii.''

''Oh well,'' I said without conviction, ''who wants to be getting sand-fly bites on a hot beach?''

Ah, well, in a few weeks, if the books shape up, maybe we can manage a day or two in Victoria.

Seizure Suspected

A 57-year-old city man died in his car when it swerved off the street, went through two yards and came to rest against a retaining wall at about 4 a.m. today.

Police said the man, who was not identified, may have suffered a seizure before losing control of the vehicle. He was driving alone at Ryan and Roseberry.

Boat Sinks, Man Arrested

An American citizen is being held by Colwood RCMP following the sinking of a gillnetter stolen from Bellingham on the weekend.

Police were alerted about 7.30 a.m. today by a foreman at Construction Aggregates gravel pit at Metchosin who arrived for work and found a man sleeping in a shed.

RCMP said they associated him with a 32-foot fishing vessel found grounded in four feet of water at Esquimalt Lagoon Sunday morning. The vessel was about 15 feet offshore with cabin and below desks filled with water.

Russell Seelye of Bellingham had reported the vessel stolen Saturday.

Food, Work Demanded

PEKING (Reuter) — A small group of ragged demonstrators hoping to present grievances to China's leaders remained outside the Chungnanhai compound in central Peking today.

Several hundred poorly dressed people, who said they came from all over China, marched on the compound Sunday demanding such basic rights as food and work.

But soldiers of the People's Liberation Army blocked the march when it reached the main entrance of the compound where China's leaders live.

One of their banners read "We want to present our grievances to Teng the incorruptible"—a reference to Senior Vice-Premier Teng Hsiao-ping.

A number of the demonstrators boarded a truck at the entrance gate Sunday night, but it appeared they were being taken to quarters for the night and not being arrested. Some demonstrators had earlier complained of police harassment.

Those still at the gate today were slumped against the wall, huddled together for warmth after a night in which the temperature plunged well below freezing.

People coming unofficially to Peking face a serious problem in finding accommodations or even in feeding themselves.

Many posters on walls in the capital during the last couple of months have been personal complaints, while articles in the Chinese press have dealt with the need for the authorities to handle complaints from around the country quickly.

POLICEMAN'S A DUMMY BUT JUST AS EFFECTIVE

BOISE (UPI) — In a manpower-saving move, the Idaho state police force is staffing roadside radar posts with mannequins.

Col. Tom Proctor, state police superintendent, said the object is to prevent accidents by slowing traffic without keeping troopers sitting in their cars all day.

Proctor said the program's first day was a success. Drivers slowed an average of 12 miles per hour from 67 mph to 55 mph as they went by the dummy cop, stationed on Interstate 80N near Boise.

Truckers especially reacted quickly to the radar setup, Proctor said.

Proctor said the idea hit him several days ago and he borrowed a dummy from a K Mart store.

The superintendent and another trooper dressed the mannequin in a state police work jacket Saturday, drove out to the freeway and put the new man in an old patrol car scheduled to be sold.

They locked the mannequin in the car, because, Proctor said, "We'd really be embarrassed if someone stole it."

Jonestone Jungle Still Hides Fortune

CHICAGO (AP) — Two survivors of the Jonestown massacre told the Chicago Tribune that two suitcases stuffed with a fortune in U.S. money and gold wafers may still be hidden in the Guyana jungle.

The newspaper said in a copyrighted story in its today's editions that the previously unreported suitcases are believed to contain $600,000, bringing to $1.6 millon the amount the survivors of the mass killings and suicides tried to remove from Jonestown.

Previously survivors had said that only one suitcase full of money and jewelry was removed from the camp.

The survivors led authorities to about $700,000 and the Guyanese government has reported finding $300,000 more.

The survivors, Timothy and Michael Carter, also disclosed that a will, supposedly signed by an elderly woman who died at Jonestown leaving $7.3 million in cult funds to the Soviet Union, was falsified.

Both aides of People's Temple cult leader Jim Jones, the Carter brothers talked of the frightful night in which more than 900 persons died, including their sister and their wives and children.

The Carter brothers said they and Michael Prokes were entrusted on the night of the suicide-killings with removing an estimated $1.6 million in cash and at least three stacks of one-ounce gold wafers in three suitcases, instead of the one suitcase they were told previously.

Carter said Mrs. McGowan signed only blank pieces of paper and that he was assigned to type the "will" above her signature. Carter said he was not sure if the McGowan woman knew why her signature was being used.

FATHER SLAYS RAPE SUSPECT

DETROIT (UPI) — A suburban Inkster man was being held without bond today on murder charges in the shooting death of a 22-year-old neighbor he said raped his 6-year-old daughter.

Terry L. Price, 22, of Inkster died in Wayne County General Hospital Saturday night after being shot by Joe A. Darby, 31, police said.

Inkster police said Darby accused Price of raping his daughter. Police would not release details of the alleged rape but said no charges were brought because Darby's daughter was emotionally unable to make a complete statement about the alleged incident.

Darby had followed Price to a corner near his home and held a rifle while arguing for about 30 minutes, police said. Investigators said the two had been at odds since Jan. 4, when Darby complained to police that Price had raped his daughter.

Darby was arraigned on a charge of second-degree murder Sunday.

"We can get you to Venice, Vienna, Zagréb, Warsaw and Cairo faster than any other airline. And we don't even fly to them."

Captain R.M. Dubreuil, Chief Pilot – L1011

Since we have more direct flights from Vancouver to both London and Frankfurt (Europe's best airports for connections), it stands to reason that we can get you to your final destination anywhere in Europe or the Middle East faster than anyone else and with a minimum of fuss. All you'll probably need is one simple plane change. And we can reserve that for you as well as your hotel and car, if you need them.

So, give your Travel Agent or us, a call. Wherever you want to go is probably only one stop away.

No better way.

Toronto

The TSE 300 index was down 1.79 to 1,358.31 despite a preponderance of advancing issues.

Among the four most heavily-weighted groups within the 14-unit composite index, oil and gas stocks dropped 6.8 to 1,906.33 and industrial products 5.72 to 1,095.64. Metals and minerals rose 9.04 to 1,198.2 and financial services 5.15 to 1,220.15.

Paper and forest products declined more than 26 points to lead the eight losers among the other 10 groups. Pipeline shares and consumer products were the only gainers.

Volume of trading by 2 p.m. EST totalled 2.8 million shares compared with 4.16 million at the same time Friday.

Advances outnumbered declines 204 to 181 with 213 issues unchanged.

Consumers Distributing Co. Ltd. was down 4⅝ to $12⅛ a share on the sale of 76,775 shares following its opening resumption. Company directors have reaffirmed Jack Stupp as chairman and chief executive officer despite last week's charge that he conspired to manipulate the market price of shares.

Among other industrials, Dominion Bridge fell 1⅜ to $31⅛, MacMillan Bloedel 1¼ to $24¾, Dome Petroleum ⅞ to $102⅝, IU International ¾ to $12 and Brascan Ltd. A ⅜ to $19¾.

B.C. Packers B climbed 3 to $83 on 500 shares, Crown Life Insurance 1½ to $68, Noranda Mines A 1⅜ to $42⅝, Murphy Oil 1¼ to $14⅝ and Provigo Inc. 1¼ to $22.

Dome Mines eased ½ to $90, Placer Development ⅜ to $28⅜ and Denison Mines ¼ to $78. Mattagami Lake Mines A advanced ½ to $18 and Cyprus Anvil Mining ½ to $12¾.

Canadian Homestead Oils slipped ¾ to $11⅞, Asamera Oil ⅜ to $20 and Merland Explorations ¼ to $9⅞. Can-Del Oil was up ¾ to $29 and Ranger Oil Canada ⅝ to $17⅛.

New York

The volatile gambling issues advanced broadly today while the rest of the stock market turned in a mixed showing.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials, up nearly 33 points in the first two weeks of the new year, slipped back 0.87 to 835.41 by 2 p.m. EST.

But gainers held a 5-to-3 edge on losers among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Del E. Webb climbed 1⅝ to $18⅞. Late Friday the company said it had signed a letter of intent covering plans for a hotel-casino in Atlantic City, N.J. Other actively traded gambling issues included Bally Manufacturing, up 2¼ to $56⅝, Ramada Inns, ¾ higher to $11¼, and Caesars World, up 2⅞ to $31⅞.

Montreal

Bank issues recovered from a noontime slump as prices posted mixed gains in moderate afternoon trading at the Montreal Stock Exchange. The 85-stock composite index dipped 0.29 to 233.32.

Volume at 2 p.m. EST was 340,431 shares, down from the 464,777 shares traded up to the same time Friday.

Canadian Cables A led winners, up 1¼ at $18 on a volume of 39,000 shares traded. Interprovincial Pipe Line A was up ¼ at $16⅞, Bank of Montreal ⅜ at $26⅛, City and District Savings Bank ⅛ at $25¼ and Noranda A 1⅜ at $42½.

Among losers, Tele-Capital dropped ½ at $11, Brascan A ¼ at $19¾, Pacific Petroleums ¼ at $63¾, FCA International five cents at $3 and IAC Ltd. ¼ at $17¾.

London

Higher-than-expected December trade figures sent the London stock market sharply higher today near the close of moderate trading despite the continued strike of haulage drivers.

The Financial Times index of 30 industrials closed at 482.8, up 8.1.

VANCOUVER

Prices were mixed in moderate trading today on the Vancouver Stock Exchange. Volume to 10:50 a.m. was 1,042,070 shares.

Proflex led trading in the industrials, remaining unchanged at .10 on 5,000 shares. Goldale Investment was up .15 at $4.25 on 2,600, Daon Development was unchanged at $8 3-4 on 1,100 and Canlan Investment remained steady at $5 1-2 on 700. Canadian Javelin was up .01 at $1.09 and Taro Industries was unchanged at $3.10.

On the resource and development board, Consolidated Kalco Valley up .02 at .31 on 52,000. Highwood Resources gained .17 at $2.25 on 37,100, NRD Mining was up .03 at $1.03 on 30,340 and Monte Grande Exploration remained steady at $2.95 on 28,500. Con-Am Resources was up .04 at .90 and L. P. Industries was down .01 at .26.

Gold Angel Resources led trading on the curb exchange, gaining .10 at .93 on 48,600. Gavex Gold Mines was up .04 at .30 on 30,104, El Coco Exploration gained .10 at .70 on 23,000 and Santa Sarita Mining was up .01 at .49 on 18,500. Consolidated Cinola Mines was down .05 at $3.30 and River Mountain gained .04 at $1.80.

PWA, Transair Merger Eyed

REGINA (CP) — Pacific Western Airlines (PWA) will ask the Canadian Transport Commission for permission to merge with Transair, hopefully sometime this year, Ed Pezzot, vice-president of Transair, said Tuesday.

Pezzot was speaking at a reception where PWA announced it would begin service to Regina and Saskatoon Feb. 4.

PWA will serve Saskatchewan under the Transair name because of a commission ruling dealying the takeover of Transair. PWA, owned by the Alberta government, holds a controlling interest in Transair.

The commission ruled that PWA could not immediately merge with Transair but could operate it as a subsidiary. The ruling allowed for an exchange of aircraft so PWA planes will soon be seen in Regina and Saskatoon.

If the merger is approved, the Transair name will disappear, Pezzot said.

A $120,000 Weekend For Ambitious McEnroe

NEW YORK (AP) — Although Arthur Ashe had dragged him through three hours of agonizingly-close tennis, the final three games always in doubt, John McEnroe said he would have preferred to play someone better.

"It would have been nicer to beat Connors or one of the top players," said McEnroe after scoring a 6-7, 6-3, 7-5 triumph in Sunday's final of the $400,000 Grand Prix Masters, the richest event in the sport.

McEnroe received $100,000 for the victory. He and Peter Fleming won the doubles final the night before over Wojtek Fibak and Tom Okker. So the 19-year-old's haul for the weekend was $120,000, plus another $116,000 for being one of the points leaders on the Grand Prix tour last year.

Ashe won $64,000, plus a $50,000 points bonus. Brian Gottfried beat Eddie Dibbs 6-4, 7-6 for third place and $40,000. Dibbs won $32,000.

The 35-year-old Ashe was the overwhelming favorite of the crowd of 17,000 at Madison Square Garden. He was prepared, eager, polite and well-controlled throughout, as he put McEnroe through his paces.

McEnroe, who had bad lapses in timing, judgment and concentration, was sulky, sometimes desperate, sometimes overconfident.

Ashe had double match point in the 10th game of the final set, a point of some controversy later.

Ashe hit a backhand into the net to spoil his first match point. On the second he hit a return for an apparent winner—but as he finished the rally, the service line judge uttered a late call of fault on McEnroe's serve.

"I will bet all the money I have got it was a good serve," said Ashe. "Having looked at the tape, I am still convinced it was a good serve. But the guy called a fault and it's all history."

McEnroe had had his shot at defending champion Jimmy Connors last week, but Connors defaulted from their second-round match with a blistered foot. McEnroe was leading 7-5, 3-0 at the time.

There could not have been a much tougher test of McEnroe than the one provided by Ashe, the last man to qualify for the eight-man round robin and whom McEnroe beat easily in the first round. Ashe isn't one of the top 10 players in the world, but he is No. 13, and that after starting 1978 at No. 257.

He had dire problems with his service and came up short on those traits for which he is becoming well-known — quickness, agility and his ground srokes.

After McEnroe broke in the third game of the opening set, games went with service until the 10th. He had triple set point and blew it with three consecutive double faults.

"The first double fault I just shrugged off," said McEnroe. "I told myself that I had to get the third one in, but then I began thinking too much about the position, and I was just mixing myself up. It just turned out to be a lousy game."

"I'm well aware it's still under warranty. So what?"

DOUBLE SETBACK SUFFERED IN SEATTLE

DataTech Jolted

SEATTLE — Victoria DataTech suffered a double setback in its bid to capture the championship of the Northwest International Senior Men's Basketball League.

Renton Roadrunners edged DataTech 99-96 Saturday and Brewster Heights Packing further wrecked the Victorians road trip by scoring a 108-95 triumph Sunday.

Turnovers, DataTech had 20 in the first half, proved the deciding factor Saturday while poor shooting in the second half brought Sunday's defeat.

Brewster, which handed Victoria its first league defeat last week, led 55-51 at the break but DataTech was ahead 71-67 when the roof fell in midway through the second half.

Brewster rattled off 13 straight points to build a comfortable lead and DataTech never got closer than six points the rest of the way.

Billy Loos scored 16 points in the first 10 minutes for DataTech and led the club with 27 for the game. Varick Cutler chipped in 21, Brian McKenzie scored 16, Mike Gains contributed 11, Ken Shields scored eight points, Chris Hall scored four and Don Burrows, Dave Mulcahy and Brian Brumwell scored two each.

DataTech swept a doubleheader from Renton earlier this season but it was a different flock of Roadrunners on the floor Saturday. Larry Beck has replaced Joe Puhych as coach and had five new players, four of them starters, in the lineup.

Cutler scored 32 points, Mulcahy managed 18, Loos scored 16, McKenzie scored 14, Dave Morgan added eightl and Hall and Gains scored four each.

DataTech has no games scheduled this weekend but manager Tom Child expects to arrange an exhibition game against a Vancouver club for Saturday in Victoria.

Its next league games are January 28th and 29th at Yakima.

City Athletes Earn Thirds

SEATTLE — Two members of the Victoria Track Club collected third-place finishes Sunday at the annual Husky all-comers track and field meet at the University of Washington.

Wendy Davies finished third in the 440 yards and Allan Sheridan was third in the 60-yard hurdles.

Bellvue Club Nips Olympics

Bellvue, competing the metric system of measurement for the first time, chalked up 270 points while the host club scored 256.

Victoria dominated the relay events but Bellvue gained its advantage in the individual races.

Kansas City Enjoying The Great Turnaround

By The Associated Press

Who are these Kansas City Kings and what are they doing atop the Midwest Division of the National Basketball Association?

Is this the same team that muddled through the final half of last season without a regular coach?

The same team that clumped to a last-place finish, 17 games behind division-winning Denver Nuggets?

The same team that made its No. 1 draft choice a player who, claiming slavery was out of style, said he had no intention of playing in Kansas City?

The answers to the last three questions are simple enough—yes, yes and yes.

However, that first one requires a more detailed explanation, although rookie guard Phil Ford and coach Cotton Fitzsimmons may be the biggest reasons in the Kings' resurgence.

"The glue, I think, is Ford," says Joe Axelson, president and general manager of the Kings. "And Cotton Fitzsimmons deserves a lot of credit for the team attitude, approach and the team defence."

Kansas City crawled home with a 31-51 record last season, and spent the last half experimenting under interim coach Larry Staverman.

But the Kings, despite dire pre-season forecasts, are ripping along with a 25-16 record midway into the 1978-79 campaign. They have been on top the Midwest Division since Nov. 17.

They have won nine games on the road, matching their total for all last season. Their longest losing streak is two games, which has happened three times.

"Last year they used to look for ways to lose games," said Fitzsimmons. "This year, we keep finding ways to win."

Ford, the 6-foot-2 North Carolina product chosen No. 2 in the draft by Kansas City, is among the NBA leaders in assists and steals, and is looking at rookie-mf-the-year honors.

Fitzsimmons, who took over the Kansas City reins in May, has turned the Kings from a stolid, methodical team into a running, fast-paced outfit that emphasizes defence and balance.

Kansas City was without a point guard, but their draft choices from previous deals allowed them to pick second in two consecutive drafts. They selected Otis Birdsong in 1977 and Ford in 1978.

Ford, who had been told that Philadelphia was going to trade for the right to draft him, initially said he would not play for Kansas City.

"They abolished slavery 100 years ago," he said at that time. "I don't like being told where I can live and who I have to work for."

But Axelson persisted through what he calls the toughest contract talks of his career and Ford signed a a five-year pact.

Coach Quits Saudi Squad

JIDDA, Saudi Arabia (AP) — Ronnie Allen, the British coach of Saudi Arabia's national soccer team, has resigned, a spokesman for the Saudi Football Federation has announced.

The announcement gave "family matters which prevent him from continuing service in Saudi Arabia" as reason for Allen's resignation.

Treasure Hunter Finds Galleon

By GREGORY JAYNES
New York Times

ANNVILLE, Pa. — In 1641, the galleon Conception smashed into a coral reef 85 miles northeast of what is now the Dominican Republic and sank with a huge store of silver and gold in her hold. In late 1978, a Pennsylvanian of little means named Burt B. Webber Jr. found the ship. It was a major discovery, according to historians.

The Dominican authorities, after inspecting pieces of eight and other precious items brought up by Webber's search team, confirmed the discovery. Webber then returned to his duplex on North Chestnut Street here for a quiet holiday with his family before going to New York to announce his find.

"It is quite an accomplishment in the field of treasure hunting," said Dr. Eugene Lyon, a Spanish and Latin-American historian in Vero Beach, Fla., who is a consultant with the National Geographic Society. "It was one of the major losses in the 17th century. I'd say it would be quite a feather in anybody's cap."

Though the find could run into millions of dollars, Lyon declined to speculate on the value. "These things are so iffy," he said. "Until all the material is salvaged and sold, it's awfully difficult to tell what it might bring."

Nor would Webber speak much about wealth. He spent the holiday in the company of relatives who thought it not only unnecessary, but absolutely ridiculous, to wish him a happy New Year. That evening, he was moved only to say, "Like a dream come true."

Webber's wife of 15 years, Sandy, the mother of their four children, rolled a particularly savory thought around in her head. "I was at the card club when my son called," she said. "I thought something was wrong with the house. He said, 'Daddy found the wreck.' "

It is the stuff of legend. Webber is a 36-year-old man who lives in a town where the only noticeable spark in life is caused by an automobile muffler dragging on the pavement. When he was 16 he took up scuba diving, an avocation nearly unheard of in landlocked Lebanon County. He explored stone quarries and read books about sunken treasure. He read Treasure Island, too.

From age 20 on, he hired out with this expedition or that, and they all came to naught. "One fiasco after another," Webber said. The people in town, he said, would say, "Burt's off on another expedition. We've heard this story before."

In between expeditions, Webber supported his family by working in a brick plant, selling encyclopedias, welding and other prosaic tasks. He would be home one-third of the year and away the rest. Gradually, his fantasies about sunken treasure dovetailed into what he came to think of as a pragmatic business venture.

With the help of an investment broker in Chicago, Webber formed Sea Quest International. Backers were secured in several major cities. A historian was engaged for meticulous research on the wreck of the Concepcion.

Sir William Phips, the first royal governor of Massachusetts, found part of the wreck in 1687 and salvaged 32 tons of silver. But that was all that the technology of the time wuld allow him to get at, and for centuries it has been thought that the ocean held back more than it gave that expedition.

In 1977, Webber obtained a 65-foot vessel and a nine-man crew. Working out of Puerto Plata, he systematically surveyed a 16-mile-long reef made up of hundreds of coral heads and forming part of the 42-mile-long Silver Shoals, where the wreck was thought to be. He searched for five months without success.

Last November, he secured a 113-foot former British minesweeper and a 16-man crew and returned for a second look.

On Nov. 28, he got into the water with a supersensitive, hand-held cesium magnometer. A series of lights on a console in the magnometer's housing changes hues, and the vibrations in a head set attached to the diver's mastoids, intensifies when he finds, in the wonderfully apt word of the treasure hunter, "anomalies."

"I swam around one of these coral heads and into the next grid survey we had buoyed out," Webber said, "and there it was. The magnometer started to produce magnetic anomalies as I swam in and out of the canyons."

Pieces of eight minted in 1638, 1639 and 1640 were found, and also porcelains from China shipped into Acapulco, trekked overland to Vera Cruz and put aboard the Concepcion for shipment to the Spanish crown. The salvage job, which Webber will begin next week, is expected to take six months.

"This ship is completely disintegrated," he said "It's scattered within the complexity of these coral reefs. Salvaging will be a tremendous job."

He will not talk about value, although some estimates of the treasure run as high as $40 million. "It could go beyond one's wildest dreams," he said, "or the next handful of silver coins could be the last handful."

Whichever proves to be true, the Dominican Republic, which released news of the discovery on Dec. 21, will get half, Webber's backers will get their share and he will get "a significant percentage." The wealth, he said, will bring no abrupt change to the Webbers. "It just gives me the means of providing the security that my family justly deserves," he said. "I've never been very security conscious."

"To me," Mrs. Webber said, "it's like finally I can relax. It's O.K. Everything is going to work out."

PEOPLE TALKING BACK
An Experiment in communication
PEOPLE TALKING BACK begins on C.B.C. Television Sunday, February 4, 1979 at 5 p.m. Using television as a medium of communication, Canadians will talk with one another across the street and across the country. We'll talk about our cultural differences — the positive and negative aspects. About politicians and the media — are we getting biased information? About our flagging and difficult-to-understand economy. About unrest and change in the workplace. About where we go from here — alternative options for our political, economic, cultural and social future.
